Wilmer E. Racine

Wilmer E. Racine, 89, died at 11:55 a.m. Friday in Parkview Memorial Hospital.

Mr. Racine was a retired real estate broker.

Surviving are his wife, Irene C.; one son, Marvin A. of Tampa, Fla.; and one daughter, Karen Kessler of Fort Wayne.

Services will be at 1 p.m. Monday in D.O. McComb & Sons Lakeside Park Funeral Home, where friends may call from 2 to 5 and 7 to 9 p.m. today. Burial will be in Lindenwood Cemetery.

Preferred memorials are gifts to First Baptist Church.

ation in Washington D.C. But Mexican food is the most popular because "it's the most franchisable," Miller said.

The number of Mexican franchise restaurants nationwide almost tripled between 1973 and 1981, from 1,030 to 2,933. Sales in the same period jumped from $138.4 million to $823.1 million.

Those who own Fort Wayne's Mexican restaurants are convinced the business is not a fad. Some contend the Fort Wayne market is saturated with restaurants, let alone Mexican restaurants. But they're not afraid of competition.

"Our philosophy is competition is great," said Johnny Rodriguez, who started the El Azteca restaurant chain eight years ago. "Without it, one tends to sit back and relax."

The restaurant community's newest competitor is Chi-Chi's, a Louisville, Ky.-based, 59-store chain which opened June 9 at 310 E. Washington Center Road. The firm's application last fall for $1.58 million in economic development bonds sparked controversy among established restaurant owners. The Economic Development Commission approved the bond issue, but City Council rejected the proposal.

"I don't mind the competition," said Clem Trevino of Don Pedro's restaurants. "But it does bother me that a competitor gets money at 12 or 13 percent interest, when I'm operating on money that cost me 20 or 21 percent."

Chi-Chi's plan to locate here despite city council's refusal to issue bonds panicked a lot of restaurant owners, Rodriguez said. Many were prepared to close. "Whenever a new four years ago in Indianapolis and other restaurants are planned in South Bend and Evansville. The general manager of the Fort Wayne establishment, Ken Till, said the restaurant has been packed since it opened June 9 and serves 400 people every day. But Till says a draw like that won't hurt other Fort Wayne restaurants.

"Fort Wayne is full of restaurants and people who like to eat at them," Till said. "Every time a new one opens, no one even notices."

That may be true. Despite the competition and sluggish economy, James Schindler says Bandido's sales are up considerably from a year ago.

Schindler, (who owns five Jimmy's Pizza Inns in Fort Wayne, New Haven, Columbia City and Portland and Rocky's Pizza in Huntington) and partner Henry Freistoffer, introduced a new element of competition when they opened Bandido's south location in August 1980. They were, Schindler believes, the first "gringos" (a foreigner from the north in Latin American slang) to own and operate a Mexican restaurant in Fort Wayne. "We've been able to capture the taste buds of a lot of people."

Fort Wayne's lead in the national trend toward more Mexican restaurants reflects the city's people and their past.

"The popularity of Mexican food in Fort Wayne has, I think, been partly due to the number of migrant workers who came here (up until the early 1960s) to help with the tomato harvests," Schindler said. "Some of them stayed and eventually went into the food business, and that put us ahead of some other places."

Family owned and operated restaurants and old family recipes have helped make Mexican food a hit in Fort Wayne, Trevino says.

"We're getting some of the best Mexican food here in Fort Wayne," claims Trevino. "I would venture to say it's even better than Chicago, and there's a pretty big Latin American population there. The number of family owned and operated restaurants here, with their family recipes, makes a difference."

Part of the attraction to Mexican restaurants is the price patrons pay for the quantity they're served. "As more and more people eat out, they're looking for inexpensive, balanced meals," the National Restaurant Association spokesman said. "Mexican restaurants provide that."

Trevino said soaring beef prices in 1978 and 1979 forced many customers to turn to less expensive Mexican food, and they found they liked it.

"It's another option," Schindler said. "After so many meals of beef or seafood, people are ready to try something else."

Mexican food provides a selection from each of the four basic food groups — sometimes all wrapped up in one beef taco or chimichanga. From the meat group, there's protein in beef, chicken, pork and refried beans; in dairy products, cheese or sour cream; from the breads and grains, tortilla chips, nachos and the flour or corn meal shell around many Mexican foods; and in the vegetable group, peppers, tomato sauce, lettuce and onions. The variety first captured the taste buds of Fort Wayne's younger restaurant patrons. "But now, older folks are beginning to eat more of it because they tried it and found it's not as spicy as they thought," Rodriguez said.

People who eat out are becoming more "adventuresome ... developing a little more of an experimental taste," said Trevino.

And the increasing popularity is helping overcome minor language barriers some customers face. Fluent Spanish isn't necessary for ordering in a Mexican restaurant, but some patrons embarrassed by not knowing how to pronounce menu items steer clear of Mexican food, some restaurant owners said.

WOWO brightest when radio was king

By KEVIN LEININGER
Of The News-Sentinel

In the pre-television era, radio was king of the airwaves. In Fort Wayne, WOWO wore the brightest crown.

The station certainly sprang from humble origins. WOWO went on the air in 1925, broadcasting from studios on the second floor of the Main Auto Supply Co. at 215 W. Main St. In those early years, the station broadcast with a power of just 250 watts, instead of the 50,000 watts of today's transmitter.

And WOWO had to share its Main Street studios with radio station WGL — Fort Wayne's first station, which began broadcasting on Jan. 24, 1924, using the call letters of WHBJ.

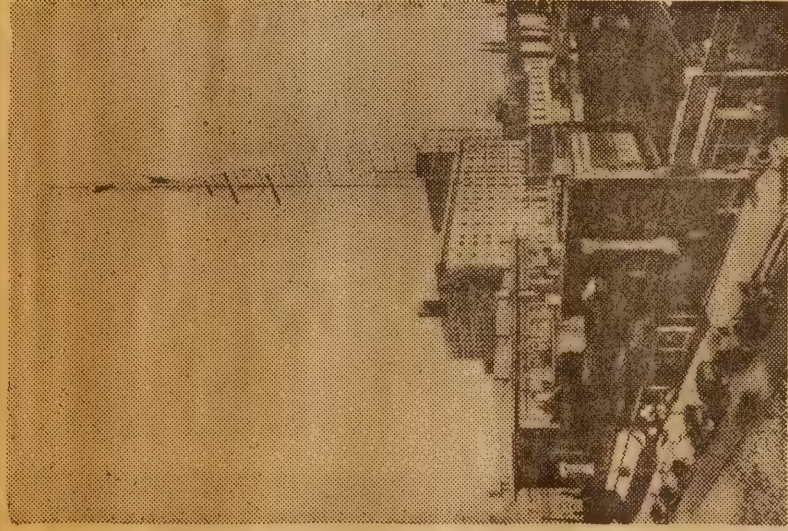

WGL is still on the air today, but its name change makes WOWO the Summit City radio station with the oldest continuous call letters.

Sam DeVincent, who went to work for WOWO as a musician in 1945, remembers that in those early days of radio, little recorded music was available. So stations had to create live music — which WOWO did, through several bands such as the Hoosier Hotshots and Nancy Lee and the Hilltoppers. The Hilltoppers are still performing today.

Live music programs which were carried coast to coast by network feed originated in the WOWO studios. Locally produced dramas were also aired.

The two studios were located in the same building because of one man: Frederick Zeig. Zeig, who was president of Main Auto Supply, helped get WOWO going and in 1928 he acquired WGL as well.

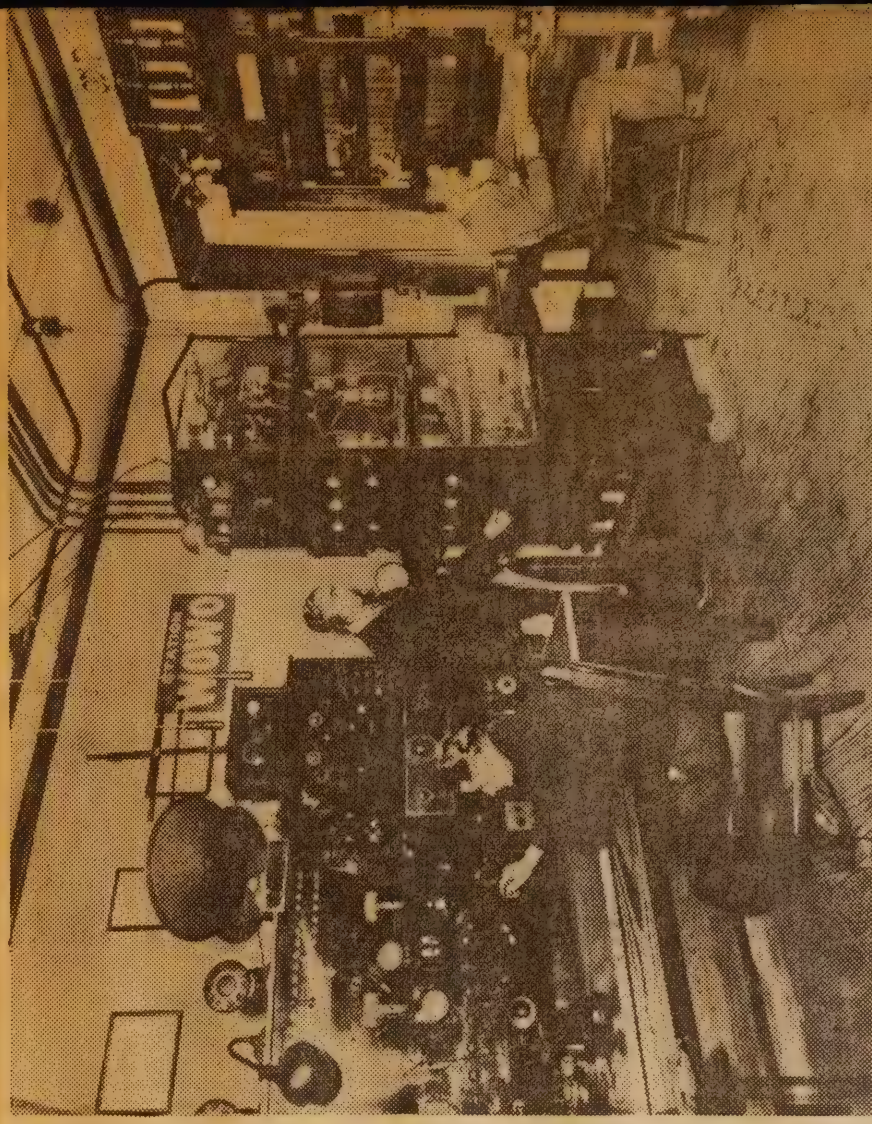

Helping Zeig get WOWO rolling was Gunnar Elliott, who was a salesman at Main Auto, a restaurant owner, sports enthusiast and later a beer distributor. Elliott also played in the WOWO studio band.

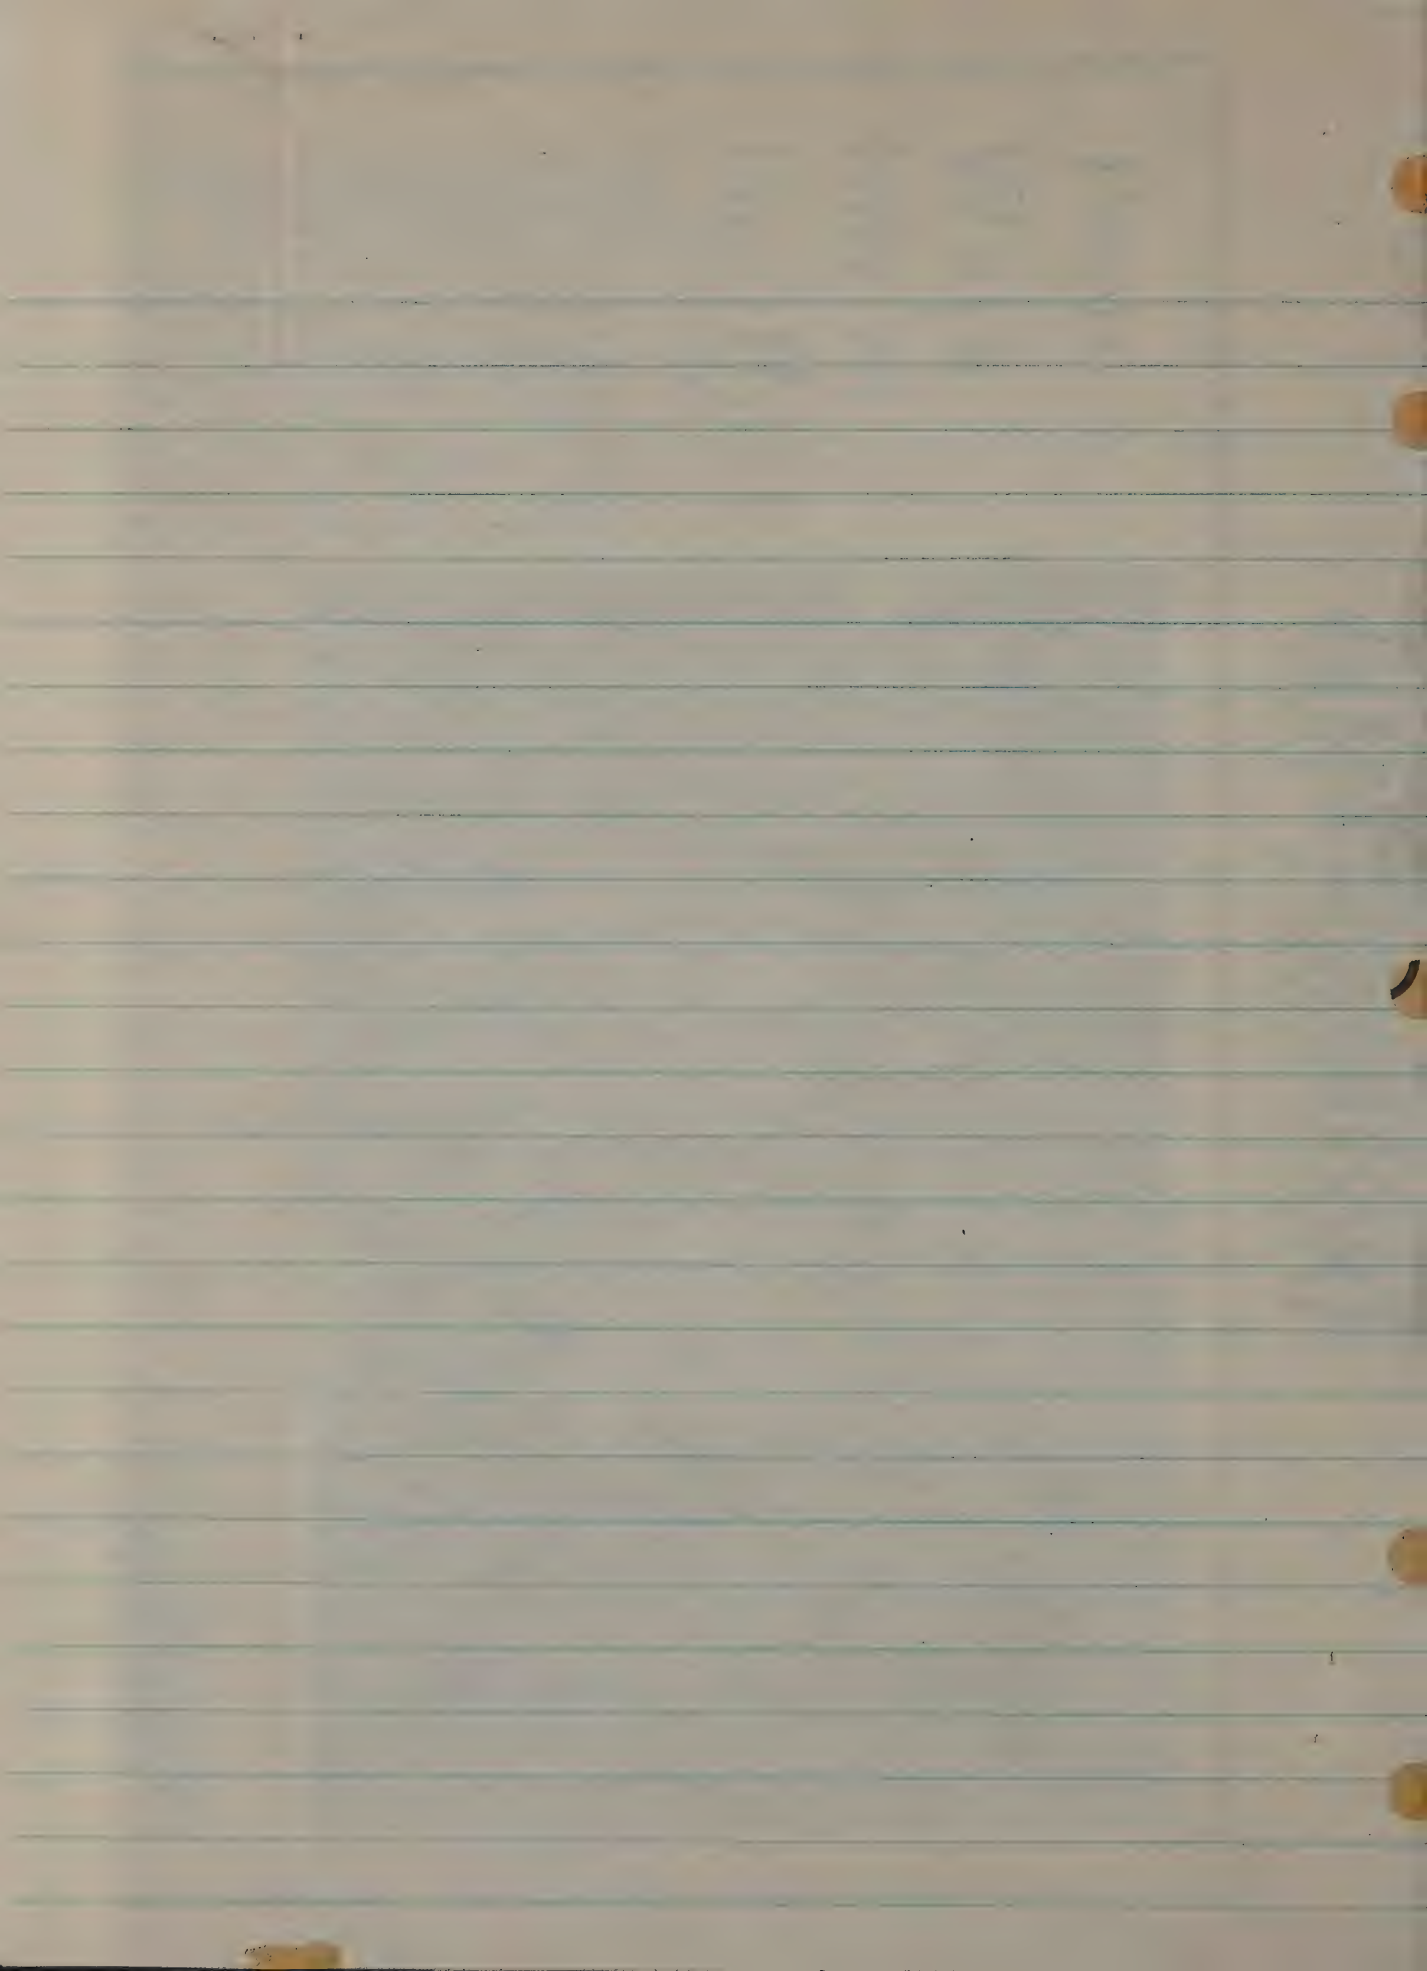

Within a few years of its birth, WOWO's power had grown to 10,000 watts, making it Indiana's most powerful station. By that time, the station had moved to new studios on Harrison Street, in a building now occupied by the Bonsib advertising agency. WOWO moved to the Gaskins Building on W. Washington Street in 1950 and to its present Central Building location in 1977.

The Westinghouse Co. acquired WOWO in 1936. Now, the station has changed hands again. The Price Communications Corp. purchased the station last month for $6 million.

Quite a lot of money for a station which once shared small studios perched atop an auto parts store.

The Randall: Indiana's 'best $2 hotel'

6-9-1984

Michael Hawfield

CITYSCAPES

Two concrete pillars on the west side of Harrison Street at the end of The Landing (Columbia Street) are all that remain of the Randall Hotel, "the best $2 hotel in Indiana."

In its heyday, between 1890 and 1930, the Randall boasted of having a telephone, running water and steam heat in every room. "Everything First Class," was the motto, with any meal for $.50 or lodging by the American Plan at $2 per day. The hotel then was a five-story brick building with 83 rooms and a 35-foot veranda along the front; nearly half the rooms had a window on Harrison Street with a view to the east down the entire length of Columbia, to Lafayette Street.

On the left, looking down Columbia from the Randall, was the Bash Block, once the huge Orbison Basin of the Wabash and Erie Canal where canal boats could turn around. Here, for many years, was the large harness shop of A.L. John and then the Protective Electric Supply Co., which developed its own lightning rod called the "Protective Can Top Cable Terminator."

Rosemarie was nearby

On the right hand side of Columbia, looking east from the Randall Hotel, was the grand Rosemarie Hotel, which began as a log hotel built by canal boat captain Dana Columbia in 1831. Later, in the 1890s, it was known as the Wayne Hotel and was noted chiefly as the place where the Century Commercial Club, today known as the Fort Wayne Chamber of Commerce, was organized in February, 1895.

The Randall Hotel began in 1828 as a tannery. Built by Absalom Halcomb and Isaac Marquis and later (1856) operated by James Robinson, this tannery was a simple brick building with great vats in the basement where the hides of animals were thrown to soak in a urine and oak bark solution. The smell of the place was notorious, but the process was effective. When, in the 1870s, the area was excavated for a sidewalk, a pair of "red topped boots, (with) green and enameled leather, was discovered in a perfect state of preservation."

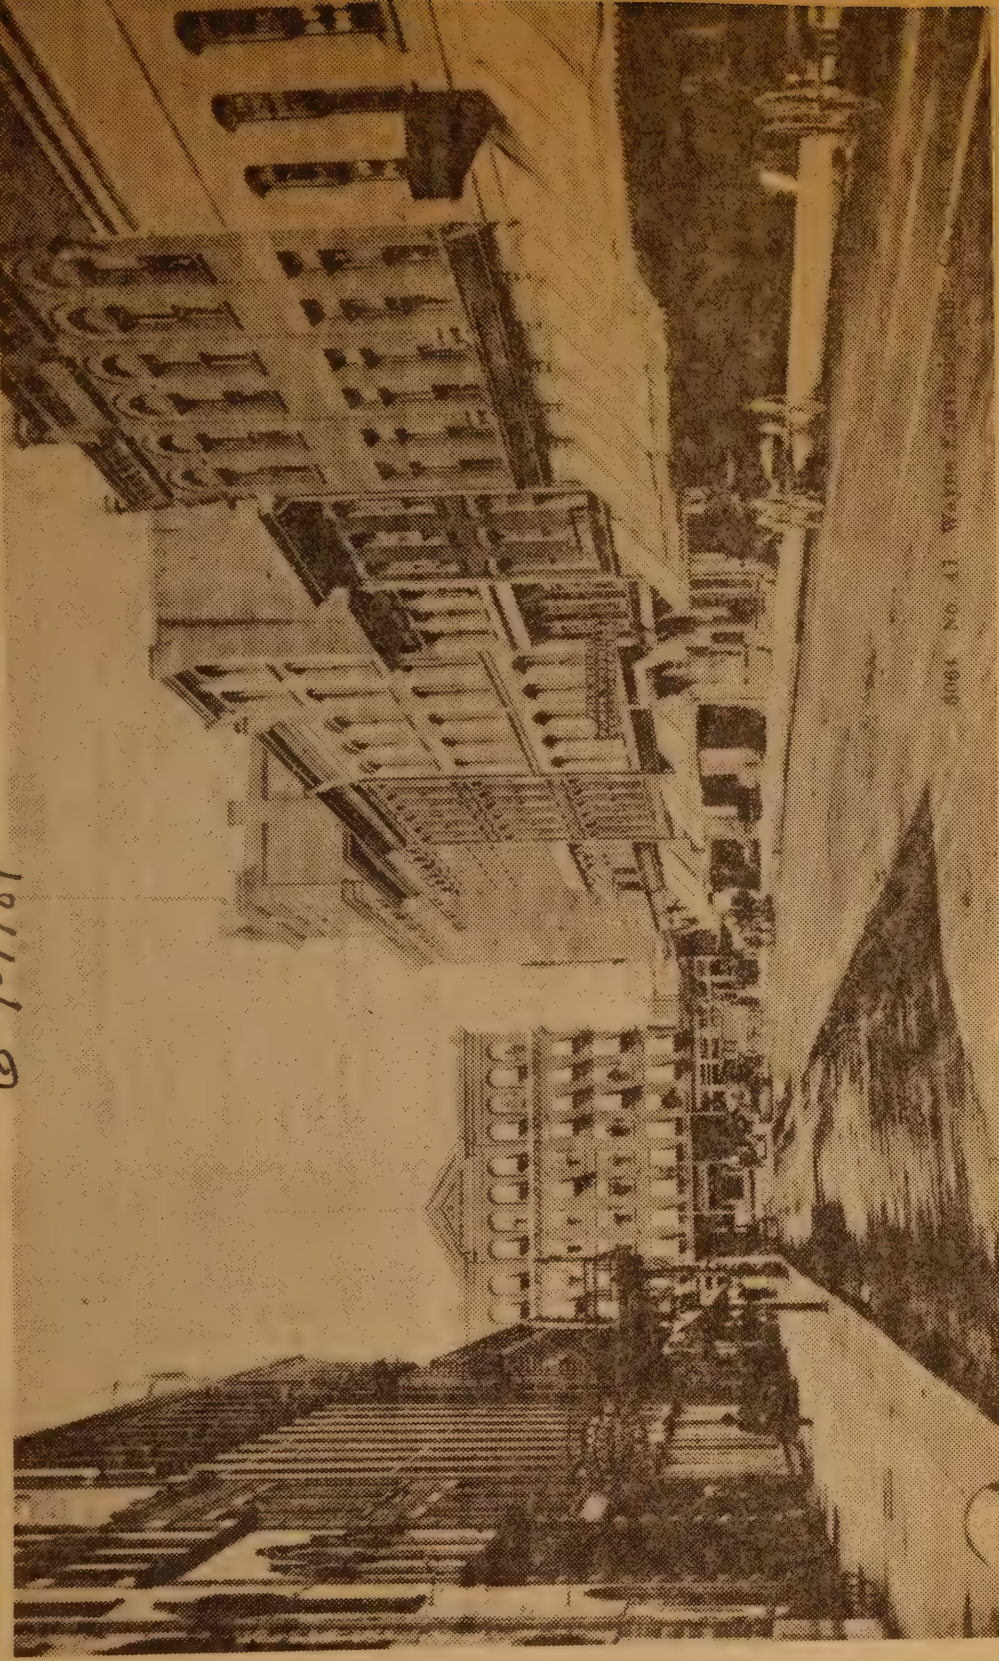

James Robinson was widely known for his great, pure white beard and hair. He was remembered as a fine old gentleman, but as one person recalled, his son, James, "had too much education and could not be a successful attorney."

Tannery became hotel

Giving up the bar, James, the younger, and his father made a simple hotel out of the tannery in 1870 and called it the Robison Hotel. Three years later, the hotel was leased for $7,000 to J.H. Buckles, an industrious and resourceful manager with many sons, and in 1876 the name was changed to the Grand Hotel.

The Grand Hotel was a "Methodist Hotel" with no drinking or dancing allowed. It was, also, a hotel of many then-modern conveniences. A hydraulic ram pump furnished pressure to force water into the rooftop cistern from two wells in the hotel basement. The wells were used only when the water in the canal was low, for the well water on Columbia Street was notoriously unpleasant (even compared to the canal).

The Buckles boys worked the water pumps each day and hauled pails of water to each room from the single tap on each floor; ice water was available also — all this was quite a service and made the Grand especially popular with traveling salesmen.

Only wood-burning stoves were used to heat the building in its early years. Sometimes three boatloads of wood were required to heat the place in the winter. A horse-powered saw mill for cutting firewood was located in the hotel, as was a horse-powered elevator.

The Buckles boys were constantly employed in the winter hauling firewood to the stoves, which were not in the guests' rooms, but rather were located in the hallways. One particularly bitter winter when the temperature fell to 28 below zero, a guest came down to the desk in the morning with his beard caked with ice. He claimed he had slept warmly enough but that the moisture of his breath had frozen his beard.

Being situated along the canal, even in its final days, at times caused problems because of the rowdies and the seedy joints that dotted the dock areas. Even fishing in the nearby canal caused occasional problems. In the 1870s, one old fisherman fished at the old basin every day. He would keep the big ones, but he was in the habit of simply throwing the little ones on the bank next to him. By the end of the week, the smell was such that the neighbors, led by the hotel management, had to run the man away from the area.

Strange initiations there

During the 1870s and 1880s, the secretive youthful fireman's club called the IKZs (Independent Knights of Zoroaster) held its strange initiations in the rooms on the second floor at the north end. Often they would drop initiates through a trap door and down a chute into the old canal basin just next to the hotel, pulling them back up with a rope tied around the waist. The IKZ also held parades once a year in which the initiates were carried in coffins with human skeletons (or so it was said) down the main streets in town.

In these years, also, the hotel became the headquarters for theatrical troupes that played the Colerick House down the street. The Buckles brothers remember sneaking in "with props from the hotel" to watch favorite actor Joe Jefferson play in "Rip Van Winkle." But above all, they doted on Buffalo Bill during his several stays at the hotel while playing the Colerick and the fairgrounds at the end of Calhoun Street.

In 1881, the Buckleses added a 24-foot section to the north end of the hotel, and ended their tenure at the Grand in 1888 when they leased the place to another manager, who called it the Brunswick. The new operation lasted only a year.

In 1889, Perry A. Randall, a prominent local attorney, bought the hotel for $45,000 and renamed it the Randall Hotel. The formal opening was held the next year, and it soon became a popular meeting place for groups and clubs. Although not all were widely known, some were national in scope. The first annual meeting of the National Cribbage Association was held at the Randall in 1892.

With only a few setbacks, the hotel grew over the next 20 years. Randall added a large veranda (1891) to the front, an electrical power plant (1894), and a wide selection of wild game to the menu. A remodeling came in 1897, but a major fire next door in 1904 caused the greatest overhaul of the building. A fifth story was added to increase the hotel by 53 rooms and the adoption of the European Plan ($.75-$1 per day) greatly enhanced the popularity of the hotel.

Randall, who gave the hotel its best-known name, was an attorney who made an indelible mark on his contemporaries. When he died on Feb. 1, 1916, Randall was given the distinction of being enshrined almost immediately with a statue, which today faces West Washington Boulevard and the St. Marys River just behind the Swinney Home in Swinney Park.

Randall born in Avilla

Randall was born in 1847 in Avilla, in Noble County, where his father, Edwin, was a probate judge. He came to Fort Wayne at the end of the Civil War to attend the Fort Wayne High School (1864-1867), and in 1873 he graduated in law from the University of Michigan.

Randall was intensely interested in public works and particularly in a scheme to revitalize the canal era by constructing a canal from the city to Chicago via Wabash, Rochester and Gary. By this plan, especially in Randall's eyes, New York, by way of the Erie Canal and Lake Erie, could be directly connected to Chicago by water. And Fort Wayne would be the crucial mind-land terminal. As president of the national Canal Association and a director of the Indiana Rivers and Harbors Congress, Randall pushed everywhere until the day he died, even to the presidential offices of Teddy Roosevelt, to get a new canal started. But it all failed.

Centennial greatest project

Through it all, Randall remained immersed in civic activities. His greatest project was the Fort Wayne Centennial, which was celebrated a year late. Although civic figures realized too late that the 100th anniversary of General Anthony Wayne's founding of Fort Wayne would be upon them too soon for a proper celebration in 1894, the former Chamber of Commerce president Perry Randall was not to be undone. Plans were initiated on the city's birthday, Oct. 22, 1894, to produce a "monster celebration" in October 1895. A committee was formed with Randall at its head, and the county commissioners were persuaded to seek permission from the state to appropriate funds for the festivities.

Centennial celebrated amid pomp, cannon fire

CENTENNIAL FROM 135

Finally, on the morning of Oct. 16, 1895, 101 years after the first American fort had been brought under construction, the week-long celebration was opened with the salute of 100 cannons by the Charley Zolinger Battery.

At the corners of the main streets, at Wayne and Calhoun, at Berry and Calhoun, and at Main and Calhoun, triumphal arches were erected and dedicated to Anthony Wayne and Little Turtle. These were lighted by strings of electrical lights, and the arch at Wayne and Calhoun had a spectacular additional arch of gaslights "that illuminated the entire area."

Civil War hero spoke

Thousands crowded into the Princess Rink at Barr and Berry that first day to hear such speakers as Civil War hero Col. Robert S. Robertson expound on "What A Hundred Years Have Brought. Fort Wayne." A five-mile parade was a favorite and was marred only when a runaway horse charged into the crowd, killing a woman.

Still, the Cincinnati Red Stockings played the Chicago White Stockings at League Park, and military drills at the Driving Park (Forest Park Esplanade) were reviewed by the governor, Claude Matthews. A high-wheeled bicycle and band parade ended the day.

On other days, sham battles showing Indians attacking a stagecoach, then a cabin (with a burning at the stake and timely rescue), and at last a fort, only to be beaten by the U.S. soldiers, used up $1,500 in ammunition. There were only minor injuries. The "Philharmonic of 1855" sang favorite tunes at the campfires that night.

The week's festivities ended with a great fireworks display. "Theme pieces" included "George Washington," "General Anthony Wayne," "The Old Fort," "The Bicycle Rider" and, of course, "Perry A. Randall."

Randall's widow took over

Winifred J. Randall, Perry's widow, lived for many years after her husband's death in 1916. The first woman in the U.S. to operate a lumber business, she also took over management of the Randall Hotel with great competence for nearly half a century.

Perry A. Randall was so respected for his civic contributions he was enshrined with a monument soon after his death in 1916. It stands in Swinney Park, overlooking West Washington Boulevard.

A graduate of Savannah Academy in Ashland, Ohio, and the International Business College of Fort Wayne, Winifred Randall was especially active as a civic leader in the Historical Society and the Daughters of the American Revolution. She also was in the group that started the Fort

But as for the Randall Hotel, in the years after the beginning of the Great Depression, the place increasingly became a residency rather than a hotel. Nevertheless, it stood until Winifred's death in 1963 as the landmark building of Columbia Street, the premier hotel on the first street in Fort Wayne.

Michael Hawfield is executive director of Allen County-Fort Wayne Historical Society.

MANUFACTURER FOR MANY YEARS

William C. Rastetter, Sr., (1874-1940) was president of the old Louis Rastetter & Sons, Inc., furniture manufacturers, and prominent in Fort Wayne civic affairs. He was a member and former president of the Fort Wayne Public School Board.

Born in Fort Wayne, Mr. Rastetter attended public grade and high schools here. He played on the first football team organized in the schools in 1890. He entered the furniture business with his father as a young man.

Mr. Rastetter was president of the Quest Club; Rotary Club director; exalted ruler of the Elks; member of Third Presbyterian church; affiliated with Scottish Rite and Mizpah Temple. He rests in Lindenwood, a non-profit, non-sectarian cemetery, owned by the families it serves.

REA

FOUNDED REA MAGNET WIRE CO.

Victor F. Rea (1889-1959) was a prominent Fort Wayne industrialist and civic leader. He was president of Rea Magnet Wire Co., which he founded in 1933. He came here in 1910 to become general manager of the old Dudlo Co., which was merged with General Cable Co., in 1927.

Mr. Rea was a member of Plymouth Congregational church and trustee of that church; president of the YMCA for six years; trustee of the Associated Colleges of Indiana, and assisted in fund raising campaigns for Parkview Memorial and Lutheran Hospitals, and United Fund.

Mr. Rea was buried in Lindenwood, one of the Nation's great cemeteries where there will be adequate burial facilities for generations to come.

CITYSCAPES

City's unique 'Res' Park had moment of fame

The huge mound in Reservoir Park is a familiar sight to the hordes of travelers going up Lafayette and down Clinton streets. It also is the central landmark and playground for the neighborhood around Creighton and Sutenfield streets.

On a hot August day, people hang their feet in the small lake there; it's easy to find there a pickup game of basketball most any day. In the winter, kids (and a good many adults) race down the mound's winding slopes on inner tubes or sleds.

But few are aware that a century ago this mound in "Res" Park was a central feature of Fort Wayne's first waterworks, and that, nearly 70 years ago, during World War I, it was reported to be the site of the largest open-air theater in America for what was hailed as "the most artistic success in the history of pageantry in America."

In 1879, Fort Wayne did not have a municipal water supply. Private wells, cisterns, city pumps, and the rivers or creeks were the sources of drinking, cooking and (occasionally) bathing water. Apart from easily contaminated drinking water, the greatest danger to the city was fire. Especially since the great Chicago fire of 1871 (and the near destruction of Mishawaka in 1873), towns in Indiana sought better protection through an efficient water system.

Before 1879, the small fire detachments in Fort Wayne, bearing such names as The Anthony Wayne Company, The Hermans and The Wide-Awake, had to pump water by hand or steam engine from the canal, the rivers, or an inadequate system of fire cisterns. But the means to correct this situation was a matter of great public debate.

After considerable controversy over which plan would be the best, Fort Wayne finally adopted a system that called for a large pumping station and reservoir, to be located by North Clinton Street on Spy Run Creek. A second reservoir also was needed in the southern part of town, and in 1879, for $24,000, the city bought the 12-acre tract between Creighton and Sutenfield streets from the heirs of Allen Hamilton, a pioneer entrepreneur of early Fort Wayne and one of the organizers of Allen County.

Unlike the reservoir built near the No. 1 pumping station at Clinton Steet, the new reservoir in the Seventh Ward was elevated so that no pumping machinery would be needed. Gravity alone would provide enough water pressure to create a stream in the fire hydrants that was strong enough to reach the tallest buildings.

In 1880, the reservoir mound was built around a great storage tank. The "Res" lake next to it was created by the excavation for the mound. Even at this early date, when little attention was paid to parks, the city's civil engineer, Samuel Edsall, had envisioned plans for a fine park, with rustic bridges, woods, flower gardens and shrubbery. Although these plans did not come about, the new and unique park was a favorite attraction for decades, well into the 20th century.

Fort Wayne's reputation as a city of festivals had its origins in 1916 when the city celebrated Indiana's centennial for six days. Even the Three Rivers Festival could learn a few things from this granddaddy of all civic festivals.

Billed as the greatest civic celebration in the country, the Centennial Celebration of Indiana's statehood spread through the heart of Fort Wayne, from the two miles of Industrial Exposition gathered at the northern end of Calhoun Street (the old circus grounds) to Reservoir Park in the south.

"Res" Park was the site of the pageant activities of the Centennial. A 14,000-seat amphitheater was built against the reservoir mound, facing the artificial lake. The stage, flanked by two huge pylons, was placed on an island built into the lake. Clinton Street at that time was completely closed, and the area was filled with tents.

On the first day of the Centennial Festival, Sunday, June 4, 1916, the opening ceremonies were held. Six hundred voices, representing all the churches of Fort Wayne, joined on the island in patriotic songs; among these was the first rendition of "The Fort Wayne Hymn."

The next day, the huge Industrial Exposition opened at the northern end of Calhoun Street, showing off the products of Fort Wayne's factories. Visitors were treated to various circus acts three times a day. On June 6, called "Fraternal Day," there occurred the great parade of organizations, which was made up of societies, clubs and unions from all over the Midwest. By Thursday, June 8, there was "Woman's Day," which centered on the Woman's Building (the old Central High School, filled with historical exhibits and the official woman's restrooms), plus a speech by the then ex-President William Howard Taft.

The centerpiece of it all, however, was the historical pageant, entitled "The Glorious Gateway to the West." This six-act extravaganza portrayed the grand events in Fort Wayne's past, from the time of the first French forts and the expeditions of Anthony Wayne to the enlistment of the "Three-Months Volunteers" who first went off to the Civil War (several of these fellows were actually in the 1916 pageant).

Sam Wolf, of Wolf & Dessauer, chaired the event in which more than 1,100 Fort Wayne citizens, young and old, participated as actors. An Elks band of 60 pieces, and "a gorgeous dance by 140 girls" added a special character to the portrayal of the city's heritage.

More than 14,500 people attended the opening production, and on closing night, three days later, 14,000 children were admitted free.

Among the curious products of this great festival was the official Fort Wayne flag. Designed by Guy Drewett, it was unveiled at the opening ceremonies of the festival. The flag displayed the familiar white bars on a blue background, but the only symbols were two stars (illustrating that Fort Wayne was Indiana's second city). Poor reaction to the "second city" idea persuaded Drewett later to change the design to that used today, having dropped the stars and added a fort, an Indian, a French fleur-de-lis and an English lion. (It was adopted by the city as the official flag in 1934.)

After the gala events of 1916, the grandstands were removed and Reservoir Park fell back to its quiet existence as a neighborhood recreation center. By the 1950s, the reservoir itself was no longer needed and the great tank had become a public danger. In 1959, the reservoir was filled in.

Two decades later, however, Wayne Township Trustee William J. Cooper began an aggressive campaign to turn the old "Res" into a beautiful park, much as City Engineer Edsall, a century earlier, had imagined it should be. A $122,000 project was put together, and by the 1975 season, the lake had been cleaned, deepened, and given a new concrete wall; on the north side a service building for visitors was built. There were no rustic bridges, but the two lighted fountains make the park one of the most attractive in the city. Its great mound, once a part of the city's water works and the foundation for one of the largest amphitheaters in turn-of-the-century America, insures that Reservoir Park will remain unique among Fort Wayne's many parks.

THE HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA FROM 1776 TO 1876

The history of the United States of America from 1776 to 1876 is a story of growth and development. It begins with the first settlers in 1607, who came to the New World in search of a better life. They found a land of opportunity, but also a land of conflict. The struggle for independence from Britain began in 1776, and the United States was born. The next century was a time of rapid expansion and growth. The United States became a world power, and its influence was felt in every corner of the globe. The Civil War of 1861-1865 was a turning point in the nation's history. It was a war of unprecedented scale and violence, which resulted in the abolition of slavery and the preservation of the Union. The Reconstruction period that followed was a time of great change and progress. The United States emerged from the war as a more unified and powerful nation, and its influence continued to grow.

Say driver shouldn't have been served

Auto crash victims sue tavern, driver

By STEVEN THOMMA
Staff Writer

The Peters family had spent the day at an Ohio amusement park. Richard Peters, a General Telephone technician, was driving the family car west on U.S. 30 near New Haven.

His wife, Janet, sat in the front seat and their two children, Karen and Mark, sat in the back. They were on their way home.

Norman E. Richman was also apparently driving home that night, April 10, 1976. He allegedly had been drinking earlier that day at the Four Aces Tavern at Tillman and Turnet roads near Monroeville.

Police later said Richman was driving 80 miles an hour when his car swerved off the road, back on and across the center line of U.S. 30 near Paulding Road. His car plowed into the Peters family's auto head-on.

Barring a last-minute settlement, the Peters family will meet Richman again Tuesday in Allen Superior Court. They also will meet the owners and bartenders of the Four Aces Tavern who allegedly served Richman that day.

It was a horrible wreck when the cars hit.

Richard Peters, then 30, was trapped in the wreckage for 20 minutes with a crushed chest and fractures of his spine, skull, shoulder, legs and jaw. Janet Peters, then 26, found her legs fractured, along with her ankles and hands. Her foot was crushed.

Karen, 5, suffered severe internal injuries, and Mark, then 3, suffered a fractured thigh and other injuries.

Richman, then 36, also suffered head and internal injuries and was rushed to Parkview Memorial Hospital along with the Peters family.

The lawsuit against Richman is a common legal action following a serious accident. A suit seeking damages from a tavern that allegedly served drinks to a driver involved in an accident is not a routine action, however.

The $786,000 suit names Richman as a defendant — but also names owners and employees of the Four Aces Tavern and the owners of the car Richman was driving at the time of the accident.

There are a few suits pending in Allen County courts against taverns. Court observers close to the Four Aces case look on it as a longshot.

The suit, filed by attorney Fergus Kear, alleges that Richman was a "habitual drinkard" on the day of the accident, that he had a record of drunk driving arrests and that the owners and bartenders at the Four Aces should have known of that record.

John Reuille and Richard Oberley were the owners of the tavern and are defendants in the suit. Elmer "Bugs" Oberley was a bartender and waiter on the day of the accident. Cina Marquardt was a bartender and waitress, the suit says.

The Peters family contends that those four should have known that day that Richman had a record of drinking too much. The family contends in the suit that the tavern employees should have known that Richman drove to the bar that day and that he would probably drive away from the bar after drinking there.

They either knew or should have known that Richman "constituted an abnormally dangerous condition to the motoring public," the suit says.

Kear charges in the suit that Richman already was intoxicated when he entered the Four Aces that day and that the bar should not have served him anything more to drink.

There are two other defendants in the suit. Constance and William Oberley of Zulu owned the 1970 Plymouth that Richman was driving when the accident occurred on U.S. 30 near Paulding Road. They had let Richman use the car, according to the suit.

Kear will attempt to prove to a jury that the Oberleys were negligent in lending the car to Richman. He will argue that they should have known that Richman was suspended from having a driver's license at the time of the accident, that he was prevented by the state from driving a car and that he was "unfit to possess or operate a motor vehicle."

Richman was "grossly intoxicated" when he got into the car that day, the lawsuit contends. The amount of alcohol in his blood at the time was 2.9 times higher than the amount constituting intoxication under Indiana law, the suit claims.

The Peters family will ask the judge and jury for damages they say would compensate them for their expenses and suffering caused by the collision.

Richard and Janet Peters were left permanently crippled and disfigured. They suffered "untold pain and misery," their lawsuit says. And they will "suffer for years to come as a result of the hideous event wrought by the defendants," their suit adds.

The Rhodes Homestead - 150 years old in 1984

By SHERRI MONTEITH

Spencerville
Harold Murphy's family will be celebrating an unusual anniversary this year, and may be one of the few families in Indiana ever to have such an event.

Murphy lives at The Rhodes Homestead, on Indiana Highway 1, and on Sept. 2, 1984, the 108-acre farm legally will have been in the family 150 years.

The farm has aged gracefully, and last August was named "Prettiest Farm in the Country," an honor bestowed by Sauder's Farm, Inc. feed store and WQHK, a local country radio station.

Although the Murphys always have known their farm was a beauty, the family roots entwined in the homestead go far deeper than looks.

Murphy's wife, Lorraine, was born on the farm, originally owned by her great-grandfather, Daniel Rhodes.

Rhodes officially took the government-owned land as a pioneer squatter on Haloween, 1833, and a year later was issued a sheepskin deed, signed by then-President Andrew Jackson.

Murphy still has the original deed, wrapped in a leather portfolio.

According to DeKalb County records, Rhodes probably was the ninth settler to stake a claim in the county, and his deed was issued just one year after the first one, which went to John Houghton.

Rhodes moved his family to the Spencerville area from near Chillicothe, in Ross County, Ohio. It is believed he was born in Virginia, although records are sketchy and cannot be confirmed.

Murphy and his wife moved to the homestead from another Spencerville farm four years ago, after Mrs. Murphy's father, Mirwood Rhodes, died.

Murphy grows wheat, corn and soybeans on the farm that has seen decades of various harvests, including many years of service as a truck farm, primarily producing potatoes and melons.

Mrs. Murphy's mother, Verna

Conservation tillage practices protect Allen County's soil and Lake Erie

Parts of Allen County are washing away at a rapid pace, and conservationist Dan McCain would like to see that stopped.

McCain, of the Allen County Soil and Water Conservation District, said county farmers are becoming increasingly involved with various forms of conservation tillage. Methods used to prevent topsoil from washing out of their fields.

This year marks the end of an Environmental Protection Agency grant program that has financed demonstrations showing area farmers how to use conservation tilling to protect corn produced in those areas, as much as two bushels of soil are lost, according to McCain.

There are four basic methods of conservation tilling he said. Chisel tillage leaves about an inch residue on the ground. Ridge tilling allows for shaping the residue into ridges and planting the next crop on top of the ridges. Disc tillage means the farmer does not till the ground until spring and no-till, "the ultimate in conservation tillage" means the farmer does absolutely nothing to last year's crop residue before planting the new crop.

McCain said the conservation tillage program began with a three-year grant to provide farmers with demonstrations and the necessary equipment

Because the equipment was rented to the farmers enough money was made during the first three years to extend the program a fourth year, and that's been a real blessing to us, McCain said

Ten county farmers participated in the conservation tilling program in its first year, 1980, according to McCain. That figure the new method, an threat to less this year

Loyal Yoder who farms about 300 acres in northernmost Allen County began practicing no-till on his corn and soybeans in 1980, and now says I'm sold on it. I think stewardship of our soil is vital. We have to leave our soil in a condition that future generations can use for a source of food.

Yoder said he has noticed a great reduction in soil movement in his fields which are located on rolling land. He also said no-till planting preserves water in the soil and his crops did much better during last year's drought than those that were for an threat to less fuel. In all, conservation, well Yoder need smaller lighter equipment. You can use a tractor that has only half the horse power of what you need otherwise and that means a smaller loan and less fuel. Sure! With our shortage of fossil fuels, that's some thing to consider

Most meat inspected items and poultry industry people work from one state extremely hard to produce high quality products within the framework of federal regulations.

Sometimes, however, meat or poultry products don't come up to the government's standards. That's where the compliance officers come in.

"Our primary goal is to prevent adulterated and misbranded meat and poultry products from reaching consumers," said Cole, whose office is in Moorestown, N.J. "We do this by inspecting these foods at markets, retail stores, restaurants, warehouses and institutions like nursing homes and schools."

Leads come from many sources -- health inspectors, meat and poultry inspectors, business competitors, anonymous callers and consumers.

If Cole finds a suspect item, he stops it from being shipped. He may buy a sample and send it to a USDA laboratory for analysis. He can detain the shipment for up to 20 days.

"When we find a product that is unfit for humans to eat, we let the owner destroy it voluntarily -- in the presence of a compliance officer," he said.

Rhodes, now lives with the couple. Mrs. Rhodes, 88, said when she and her husband began farming the land, they grew small vegetables to be sold at markets in Cleveland and Cincinnati.

"That was sure hard work, but we had us some good melons. We used to get the boys from town to come out and help us tend to them, when they wanted money. We had a hired man working for us some of the time. Paid them (the boys) about $2 a day. Started out paying them 75 cents for a half day's work, a little less if they took a meal with us.

"Of course, in those days, we figured a fair price for potatoes to be a penny a pound. And 100 pounds of melons went for about 50 cents. Now you can't get one good melon for 50 cents," the white-haired woman said, smoothing a red wool blanket across her lap.

Mrs. Rhodes said the farm now is fairly much the way it was when she first moved onto it as a young bride.

The main part of the house, a two-story shingle structure, is the original built by Daniel Rhodes. However, it was first located at the opposite end of the land, which is bounded by the St. Joe River.

In 1856 Daniel and his sons moved the house, the barn and other outbuildings from their first location because the other side of the farm was higher and less prone to flooding, Murphy said.

Although the barn now standing is not the original, it was built by Mrs. Murphy's grandfather many years ago.

The mammoth red structure, along with another outbuildings and a storage shed that originally was the home's "summer kitchen" are surrounded on two sides by fields bordered with woods and the bank of the St. Joe.

Rhodes said he loves being close to the river and the woods because he frequently sees small game, such as groundhogs and fox, as well as deer, running wild through his fields while he works.

Although the homestead anniversary is a milestone for the Rhodes-Murphy family, it also brings to light a touch of sadness for Murphy and his wife.

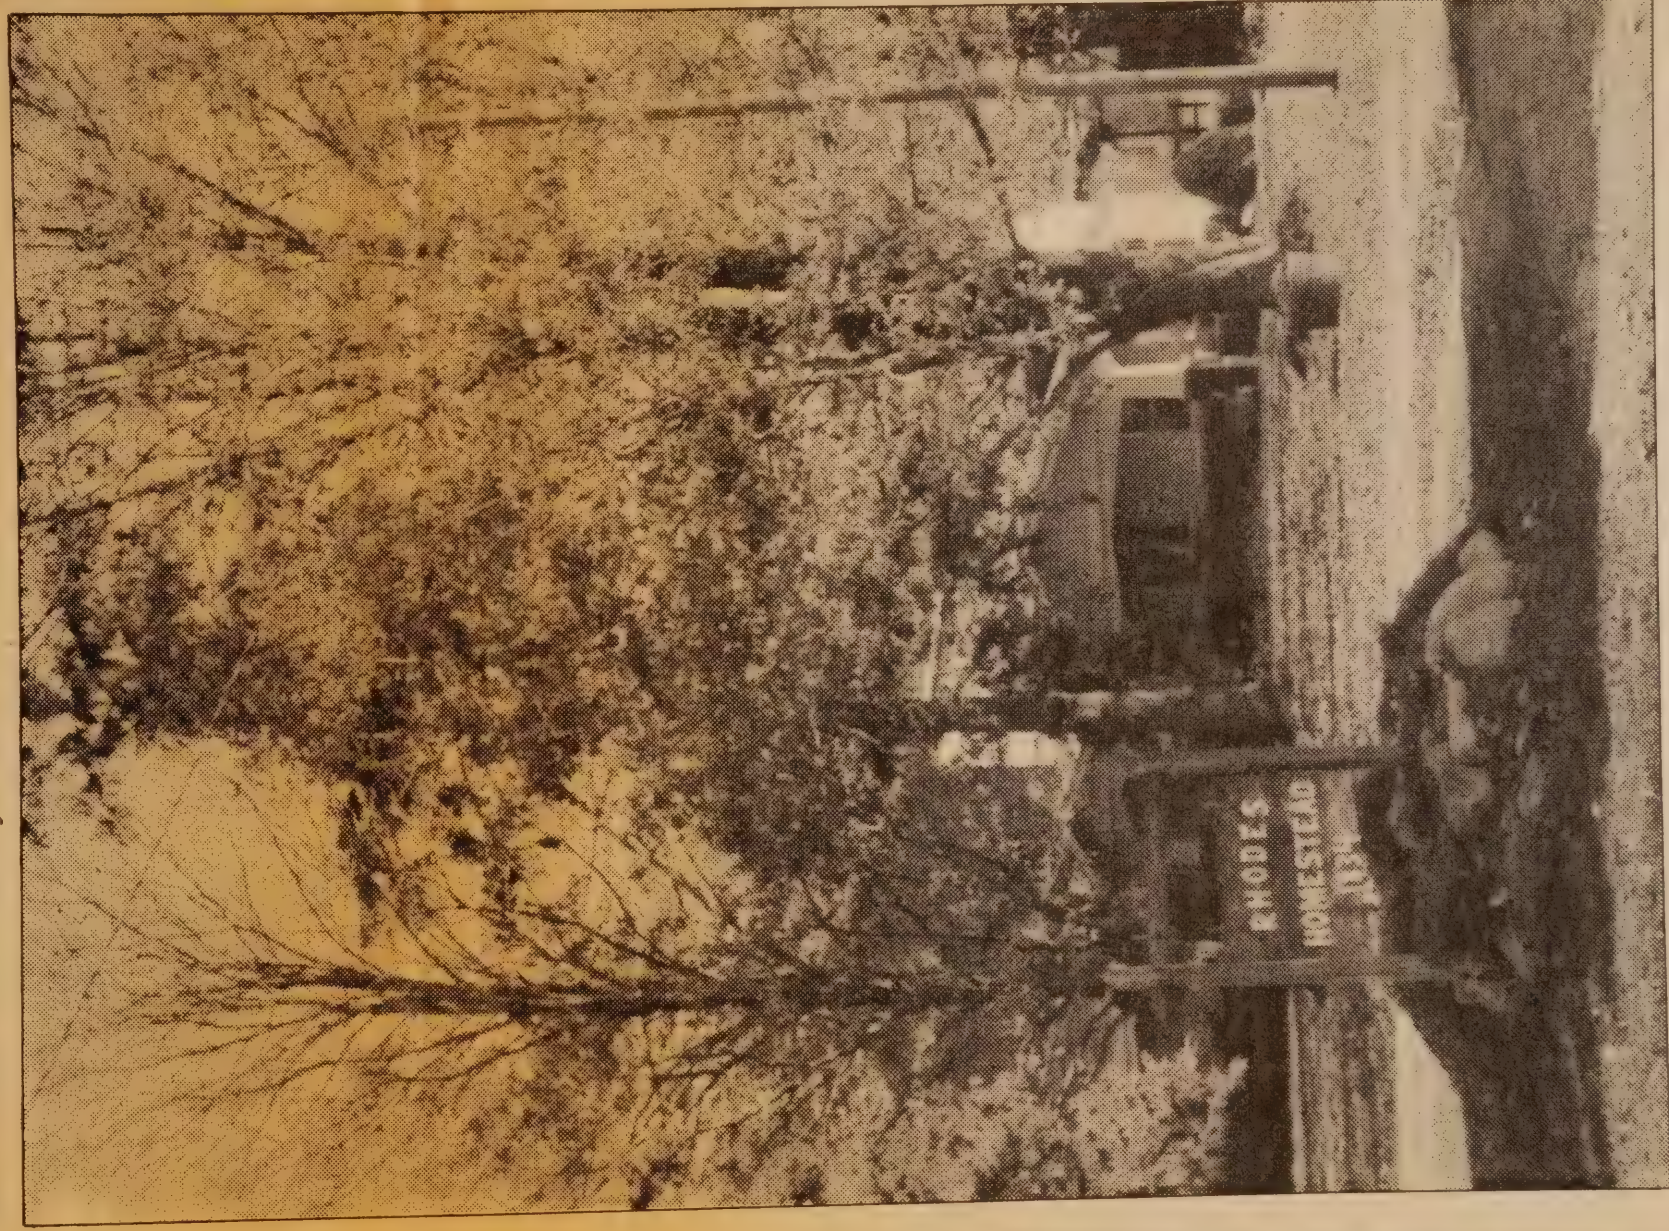

"Our son Gerald is 31, and lives in Columbus, Ohio. He has a bachelor's degree in art and advertising and he's working for a satellite company there. He does some editorial cartoons for a local newspaper there, and now has a little boy," Mrs. Murphy said.

"He doesn't want to be a farmer and he doesn't want to farm. He's our only son, and I'm an only child, so I guess this is the end of the line.

"We'll make this our home as long as we can take care of it, but then I guess we'll have to let it go the way of all other homesteads around here and put it up for sale," she explained.

"We have a pretty small family," her husband added. "There aren't many Rhodes descendants around. But Gerald said he wants to have several kids, so we can hope for one of them to be interested. Adam as born April 30. Maybe if I can get to him enough, I'll make a farmer out of him, and he'll take the land."

The Rhodes Homestead. "The Prettiest Farm in the Country" includes an 1834 sheepskin deed signed by President Andrew Jackson. The farm has been in the same family for four generations.

the business of the family farm

By SHERRI MONTEITH

Few Allen County farmers have taken the plunge into computerized agriculture, but those that have are convinced it is the mode of the future.

Steve and Gail Schlatter have had an IBM Personal Computer in the den of their Woodburn farmhouse for just more than two years now.

"It's the way of the future," Schlatter said. "There's a lot of farmer's who'll say 'ah, they'll go by--it's just a passing fad,' but it's not. Right now I use the computer mostly for bookkeeping, and charting grain, and that type of thing."

"I think, though, computers in the future will run the ventilation of livestock buildings and everything else," he added.

Schlatter, along with his father, works a farm that includes 2,000 acres of grain, 1,200 head of cattle and 2,000 hogs.

Before buying the IBM, Schlatter and his wife took a beginning computer course at Ivy Tech and Mrs. Schlatter has since returned to the classroom to develop her computer programming techniques.

"It was a slow process getting started," Schlatter said. "Of course, at that time it (farm computers) was just coming out and there weren't many programs out. I've been changing every year and I suppose I'll always be updating."

Schlatter said his father, Kenneth, has not attempted to work with the computer, but is glad his son uses it.

"He's glad I bought it. He thinks it's the thing of the future," Schlatter said. "He's just a little afraid of it, and I think that's a problem for a lot of people. But, we use monitors on our tractors, to monitor the spray applicators and that type of thing. Basically, the monitor is the computer chip of the tractor, but most farmers don't see it that way."

Schlatter said there was a little difficulty in learning to use his PC, but added "you've got to be more patient than smart. And you've got to be willing to read a lot. We've got five manuals we use."

Programs catered to farm work have been available only on a limited basis, Mrs. Schlatter said. "There are only a few really good ones, but there are more coming out all the time," she said.

The couple said they had recently returned from the Indiana Pork Congress, where computers were displayed heavily. Schlatter said two women were there who had started a business of custom programming computers for farmers.

Schlatter said bookkeeping has been the biggest benefit from his computer, and said his bankers had been especially supportive of his methods.

"Banks really prefer you to come in with a printout, instead of a box full of a year's receipts, and I think that could eventually push some farmers into going ahead with the computers."

George Denten, Allen County Cooperative Extension Agent, said farmers in the county seem to be interested in computerizing their operations, but several bad crop years in a row have made the cost prohibitive.

With limited profits, most of their money must be ploughed back into supplies which have immediate and direct benefits, Denten said.

Schlatter agreed. But, he added, "farming is looking up profit-wise, so maybe interest will pick up."

Riegel's mainstay of downtown scene since late 1890s

By DICK ISENHOUR

Of The News-Sentinel

In years past, there were few places more spirited than those where men would gather to rub elbows and occasionally tip them. One such place that has been a mainstay in downtown Fort Wayne since its founding is Riegel's Pipe & Tobacco Shop, originally known as Riegel's Cigar Store.

The store was opened in the late 1890s and quickly established a reputation for its fine tobacco. In those years, the business, which also sported a saloon, was operated by its founder, Aloysius Riegel, and Frank Bougher and was housed in the Palace Amusement Center, on the southeast corner of Columbia and Calhoun streets.

In the early 1900s (histories disagree on the exact date), Riegel bought out Joe Getz's Cigar Store on the northeast corner of Main and Calhoun, and moved the business there.

In 1908, Riegel invited Frank Bougher, nephew of the Frank Bougher who had worked in the original business, to come to Fort Wayne. The younger Bougher did, and completed his education here in hopes of getting a job on the railroad.

His plans were altered, however, when Riegel offered him a job as a counter clerk in 1910. Bougher accepted the job, and eventually became part owner of the operation.

The building was small in those days; a bar was operated in the rear. When Prohibition came in 1918, the bar area was remodeled into part of the cigar store. In 1929, the entire building was expanded and remodeled.

During this era, the store was a place where men would go for fine tobacco and cigars, as well as good conversation. The building was located on what was known as the Transfer Corner, so-named because that was where all the trolleys crossed and where transfer tickets were issued.

The front of the store served a purpose similar to the front of the downtown G.C. Murphy's Store today. People would huddle there waiting for their trolley, much like people congregate in front of Murphy's to wait for buses.

During the Depression years of the 1930s, Riegel's, which had opened a fountain and served sandwiches and other foods, was a place where even the downtrodden could afford a meal.

On a chilly day, panhandlers could go into the store and order a hot bowl of thick, split pea soup for a dime. For a quarter, they could get a luncheon special of smoked sausage, potato salad, sliced tomato, bread and butter and drink.

Also during the '30s, the business expanded and began selling newspapers and magazines, still a large portion of the business today.

Riegel died in the late '30s, and Bougher and George Kuntz, one of Riegel's nephews, took over the business.

The building was razed in August 1967 to make way for the plaza of the City-County Building and Riegel's moved across the street to 624 S. Calhoun, where it still operates. Another Riegel's store is located at Georgetown Square, 6556 E. State Blvd.

DISCON Park: once city's play

Robison Park: once city's playground

Robison Park boasted thrilling rides like the Cyclone roller coaster that raced around a rickety wooden track and a tall revolving tower with six swinging chairs that spun with a dizzying force, but, for those with a less-adventurous spirit, there was the Carousel... for five cents a ride.

4-21-1984

Swinging in a hammock in the woodland setting was for many the perfect way to spend a summer afternoon, a chance to relax, perhaps, after a breath-taking — for then — ride out from the city in an open-air electric trolley.

Overgrown building foundations, a dried lagoon, lawns and landscaping long turned to brush — that's all that remains of Robison Park.

Seven miles north of Fort Wayne — just west of the great "horseshoe" bend in the St. Joseph River — Robison Park, in its heyday, was known as the Midwest's foremost summer playground.

Ironically, the summertime attraction that drew thousands in its prime began reverting to its natural state when the industry that built it was itself passing into extinction.

In 1895, the Fort Wayne Consolidated Railway Co., the first electric trolley company in town, decided to build an amusement park as a way to increase ridership and start a lucrative side venture.

Noting that river boating proved very successful at Centlivre Park, the trolley company bought what was known as the Swift Farm — a 250-acre spread just north of the old "feeder canal" dam near present-day Shoaff Park. It had been a popular rural picnic spot since Fort Wayne's canal days.

A 230-foot-long dam of heavy timbers and debris had been built there in 1834 to maintain proper water levels in the main channel of the great Wabash and Erie Canal. The 17-foot-deep dam also created a lagoon behind it, and deepened the St. Joseph River for miles to the north, making an ideal boating area.

The plan was launched in 1896

To the Swift Farm, the central portion of the planned amusement park, the trolley company added a neighboring farm; a $300,000 development plan was launched in January 1896. Seven miles of double trolley lines were laid, electrical wires were strung overhead, new cars were purchased, and amusement park construction was begun.

As things turned out, the park opened long before the pavilion, dance hall, and large boating facility were completed. It was called Swift's Park, in honor of the original landowner, but was renamed before opening day, July 4, 1896.

Allegedly due to public pressure, Fort Wayne Consolidated Railway rechristened the project Robison Park in honor of M. Stanley Robison, the park's first general manager. Robison, the first man in Fort Wayne to drive an electric trolley, had long been active in the development of the city's trolley system. He had also been the foremost promoter of the park from the very beginning.

At the end of May, 1896, company promoters offered area newsmen and prominent citizens a special ride and tour of the park. Two weeks later, regular car service began, with cars coming out of Fort Wayne every 10 minutes. And on the Fourth of July, 35,000 citizens came for opening day. Fort Wayne residents filled every car bound for the trolley company's end-of-the-run entertainment complex, where attractions were plentiful.

Daredevil entertainers were booked

For a week, the Zorella family thrilled crowds with their high wire act. At night, their apparatus was lighted by electric bulbs.

They were followed by the Leroy Sisters, Sadie and Victoria, with Professor G.L. Hibbard. Each afternoon, "America's Favorite Aeronauts" would ascend in their balloons and race one another before jumping out to float to the ground with their parachutes.

Things did not always go so well at such events. On one occasion, Victoria Leroy parachuted from the "Victoria" balloon only to find it following her down and gushing its colorful smoke. Hibbard watched from a nearby balloon. Not only did her parachute not open, but the "Victoria" gassed Hibbard so badly he passed out.

Miss Victoria, the newspapers reported, landed in a tree. But when she lost her grip on a rope that was thrown to her, she fell 30 feet and bounced once on the ground. Although so dazed she didn't know what had happened, Leroy was otherwise unharmed. The newspapers don't say what became of Professor Hibbard.

Not long afterward, Victoria Leroy was killed doing the same stunt in St. Louis, Mo.

Another crowd-thriller was Achilles Philion, a widely known "equilibrist," who specialized in walking a large ball up and down a steeply spiraled ramp, to the strains of "The Italian Orchestra." And there was Professor Arion, the nationally known high wire artist: His spectacular night act involved riding his bicycle — with rubber tires removed — along a live, 500-volt trolley wire. This lit the 50 light bulbs strung on his bike. And himself.

Michael Hawfield

Some months later, not surprisingly, Arion lost his life in a similar show in Brooklyn.

Lesser feats of derring-do were performed on opening day. One lucky couple had been chosen from scores of applicants to have their wedding performed at the park pavilion, in front of the multitude. The bride was noted as being demure and a bit embarrassed by the whole thing; her bridegroom was described as "a philosophical fellow" who wanted the park marriage because of the $25 set of parlor furniture offered by the promoters.

The park developed with each week after the opening.

The trolley car loop was landscaped by florist Harry Doswell with grass and a large flower garden; tall stone flower stands were placed everywhere, and lagoon areas were crossed by rustic bridges. A gazebo bandstand overlooked the canoe and boat docks and the bath houses.

The boat and river attractions were always Robison Park favorites. Rowboats and canoes could be rented for private entertainment. They also offered half-hour cruises on the steamboat "Clementina" and the small, though volatile, "naphtha-powered" skiffs (one exploded in 1918).

Riders got a quick splash

One of the most enjoyable rides was the "shoot-the-chute." Here a rider boarded a flat-bottomed boat that had been hauled to the top of a 60-foot-high ramp 150 feet long. Once loaded, the boat was launched for a quick ride and a hard splash into the river below.

Land rides, mostly located on an island in the lagoon north of the pavilion, provided fast moving thrills. The Cyclone roller coaster originally was a single 12-seat car that shot around on a rickety wooden track. Another favorite thrill was the tall steel revolving tower with six swinging chairs spinning around it. Dizzy people trying to walk straight after experiencing its centrifugal force provided amusement for onlookers.

Throughout the park, the $10,000 German-made "Orchestrion" could be heard. This instrument reproduced somewhat the sounds of a full orchestra playing classical, operatic and popular pieces. The volume was tremendous and could be heard everywhere.

Dancing, too, was a main attraction. George Trier got his boost in the dance hall business by operating the Robison Park dance pavilion; he later took his talent to West Swinney and Trier's parks.

Even theater had a place at Robison Park: Its 900-seat playhouse came to be a popular spot for traveling performers. Most shows were vaudeville — that genre of broad comedy was in its heyday.

A Robison Park baseball league sported such teams as the Maroons, the Hibernarian Rifles, the Wayne True Blues, the Keystones and the Spy Runs.

Out-of-towners came, too

Louis Heilbronner's Robison Park promotions frequently drew conventions and group tours from Chicago, Indianapolis and Detroit. In 1897, he brought Edison's new "Projectoscope" to Fort Wayne and began regular movie showings. Huge Independence Day and Labor Day picnics were organized, and on "German Day," 10,000 people came for a singing competition.

On "Farmer's Day" one year, Heilbronner organized what he called "The Greatest Day In The History Of The County" — a large "farmers' reunion" where four beef cattle were barbecued and served free to all comers.

Security and sobriety were hallmarks of the park. Six private police patrolled the site, backing up enforcement of the rules by using "the park

The park pavilion was a popular background for posing; the woman below was photographed there around 1910.

The trip proved so popular that trolley parties frequently were organized, usually for evening excursions, and often including trips along other city lines as well.

The cars were open, each with 10 or 12 benches running the width of the trolley. Conductors would collect tickets by gingerly moving up and down the narrow runningboards along the sides. Canvas curtains could be pulled down in bad weather, much like ordinary window shades. The trainmen, however, had to stay outside.

It cost more than it earned

The early trolley companies were unstable businesses at best, and frequently changed hands. The development of Robison Park, an attempt to bring financial stability to Fort Wayne Consolidated, ended by costing more than it earned.

The fatal blow to the park came with the rapidly growing popularity of the automobile. By 1918, one-fifth of Robison Park visitors arrived by car — a disaster for an attraction based on trolley revenues.

In 1919, the park was closed and the trolley company sold its buildings to new developers, including George Trier. The Cyclone roller coaster was taken to West Swinney Park the following year, where Robison Park's lively spirit was carried on, in part, for another quarter of a century.

City, Bill Rockhill Share Same Roots

By JOHN BUTWELL

Bill Rockhill and Fort Wayne history are intimately connected. From an old Fort Wayne family, he's the grandson of one of the first three Allen County Commissioners. His grandfather — also named Bill Rockhill — built the Rockhill House, a fine hotel where Stephen A. Douglas spoke from the balcony during the 1860 Presidential campaign. The house later became the first building of St. Joseph's Hospital.

Today's Bill Rockhill is related to recent Fort Wayne history, too. He was born here and has lived in the City all his life — spending the last 20 years running the Old Fort Bookstore.

Now the bookstore is closing, to become another memory for Fort Wayne history buffs.

Even the bookstore's present building at 520 Tennessee Ave., is historical. Its block shape, evenly spaced windows and weathered grey bricks tell its age. It was built around 1855 by Merchant Huxford, possibly out of timbers from the original fort, Rockhill said.

"We've found some pretty good circumstantial evidence that this is true — hand-hewn beams in the basement, and notches in some where logs could have fit together," he said. Workers replicating the Old Fort even came to look at the beams before they tried to imitate them.

The name of the bookstore and the beams in its basement are coincidental, however. "It's just a common name in this area for a business," Rockhill said.

The house, which Rockhill rents, is the fifth location of the store. Originally at the site of today's City-County Building, it was moved to "an 11-foot-wide store" in the 800 block of Calhoun Street, across the street on Calhoun, and then to Glenbrook Shopping Center. But high rent and the arrival of a competitor forced him out, Rockhill said.

The chain stores have made it harder and harder to compete, Rockhill said. "They have unlimited resources. They can afford to pay the high rent to stay in an area where they can sell more books." This limits the chains, however, he added, because they can't waste space for books which sell less quickly.

He said that in contrast to the chains, "We tried to have some of everything. I don't suppose there was another store in town which had a book on beekeeping or horseshoeing."

The sheer volume of books today is swamping the individual bookseller, Rockhill said. To prove it, he pulled out his copies of "Books In Print." In 1966 this reference work had 1,300 pages of book titles; in 1976 it had 3,500.

"It's my feeling that successful books are chosen in the advertiser's office, not the editor's," and so many books today aren't very good, Rockhill said.

It was also early in this century that another unique program for the poor was begun. For those who could not afford medical care (there were no health insurance programs), the hospital sold tickets, at $7.50 each, that would entitle the holder to

In 1918, the nursing school, offer-

The hospital continued its growth

CITYSCAPES

The first hospital in Fort Wayne had its beginnings in what was once an elegant hotel, the Rockhill House. That hospital, St. Joseph's, still stands on its original site along Broadway, between Main and West Berry streets.

St. Joseph's Hospital, 700 Broadway, although the smallest of the three community hospitals, is an imposing 489-bed urban complex that little resembles the hotel that was its first home 115 years ago.

More than 100,000 patients are treated in St. Joseph's each year. As a modern medical facility, the hospital has grown to be among the best-equipped in the region and can boast one of the finest burn treatment units in the nation.

Although many patients come from surrounding middle- and upper-income suburban areas, St. Joseph's also continues, in its unique position in the heart of downtown Fort Wayne, to serve large numbers of people from the lower-income, inner city districts. This service is perfectly in keeping with the spirit of St. Joseph's beginnings under the guidance of the Sisters of the Poor Handmaids of Jesus Christ.

Location factors changed

Its central location today, however, is something of an irony, since the hospital originated at that site precisely because the property was so far outside the town's center 115 years ago that the Rockhill House hotel failed. Thus, it became available for development of a hospital.

The need for a hospital in mid-19th-century Fort Wayne had become increasingly evident by the time of the Civil War, and was made dramatically clear when a smallpox epidemic ravaged the town in 1865. Apart from the home care given by the handful of doctors who lived in Fort Wayne at the time, the community could do little for victims, especially those who were poor, except to quarantine them in what was then called a "pesthouse," located outside of town.

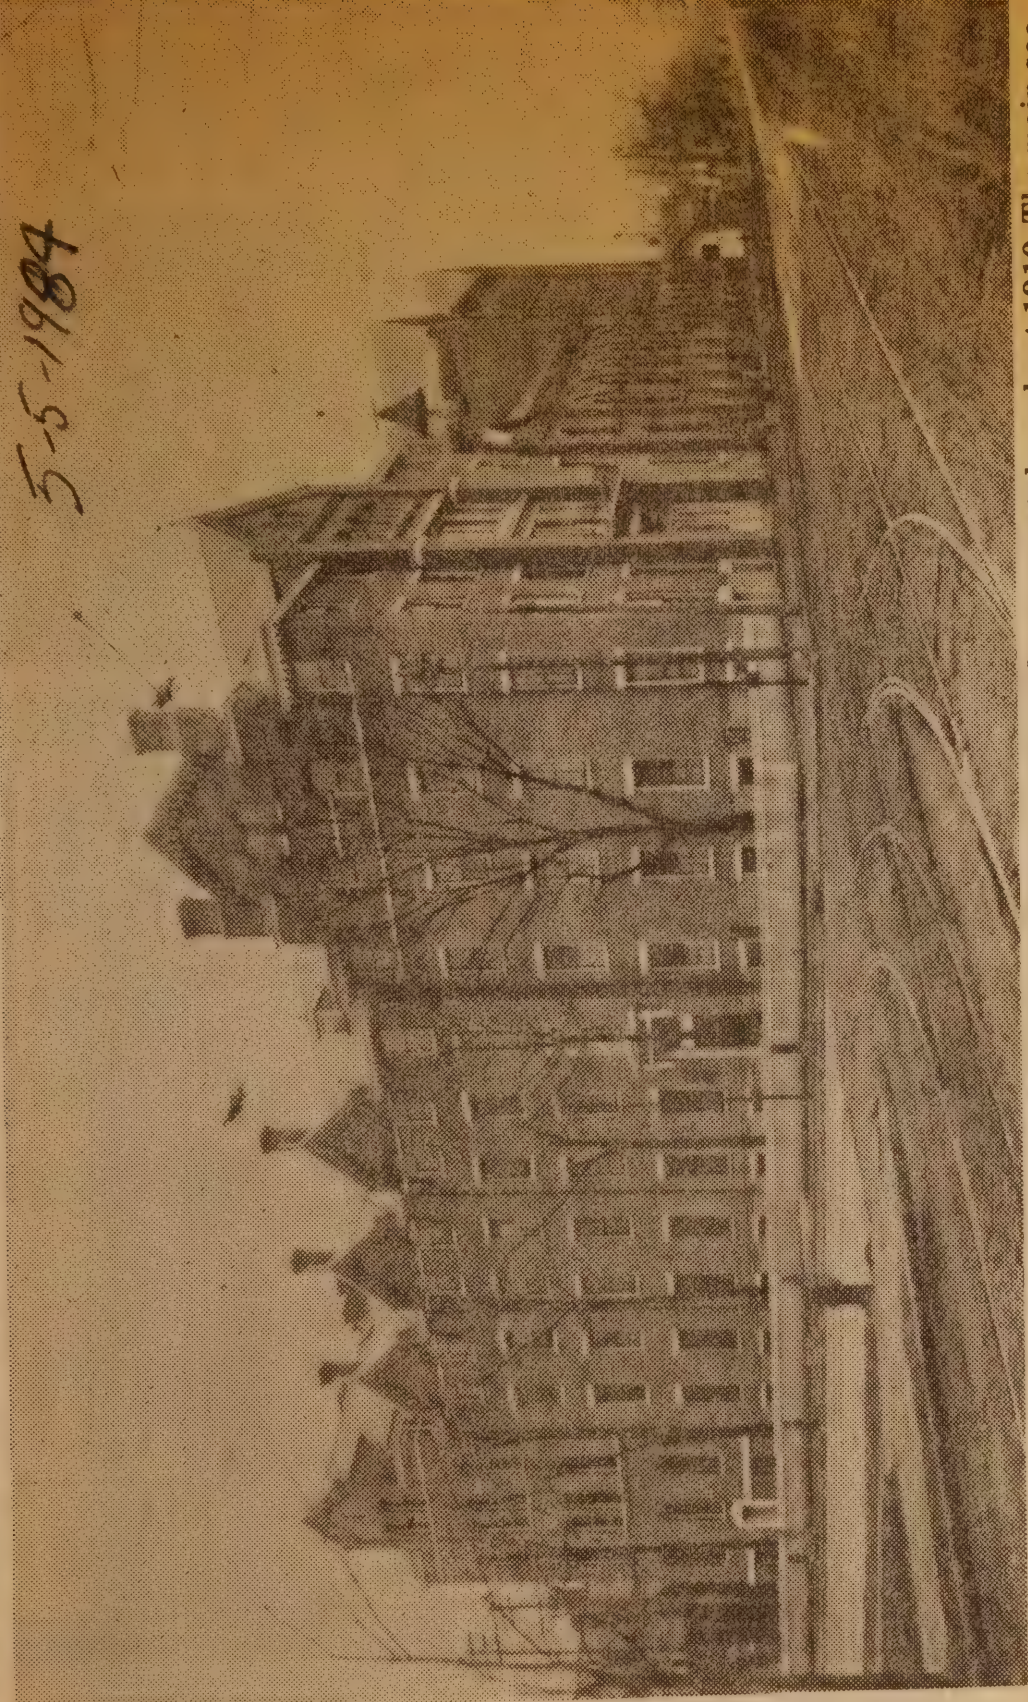

Bishop John Luers offered to buy the abandoned Rockhill House for a hospital if the county and the city would cooperate to make the necessary repairs and outfit the building for hospital purposes. However, the mayor and the county commissioners, debt-ridden in those depression years, refused to participate in the plan.

Bishop spent own money

Undiscouraged, Bishop Luers bought the old 65-room hotel in 1868 with his own money, and led a group of citizens in the formation of the St. Joseph's Benevolent Association, which set out to the raise money necessary to put the hospital in operation. In order to operate the medical facility, the bishop recruited the services of the Poor Handmaids of Jesus Christ.

Bishop Luers commissioned Father Edward Koenig, the first pastor of St. Paul's parish in Fort Wayne, to negotiate with Katherine Kaspar, the Mother Superior of the relatively new German religious order devoted to the care of the sick. In August 1868, a small group of sisters, led by Sister Rosa, settled in Hessen Cassel, just south of Fort Wayne. This was the first headquarters in America for the Poor Handmaids, who in time would operate dozens of hospitals throughout the Midwest, many of which still function today.

On May 4, 1869, the sisters assumed control of the old Rockhill House. The hotel was built by William Rockhill, one of the leading pioneer settlers of Fort Wayne. This building was to be the central feature of his plan to foster development of the young town's west side.

Rockhill was born in 1793 in Burlington, N.J., and came to the Indiana Frontier in 1823, on the very eve of the formation of Allen County. Attracted by the opportunities for land investment, Rockhill bought an entire section of land (640 acres) west of the original plat of Fort Wayne. Today's Broadway marks the eastern edge of the Rockhill land.

Making an immediate impact on his fellow settlers, Rockhill was elected in 1824 to serve as one of the first county commissioners, and in 1829 he began long service as a member of the Fort Wayne Board of Trustees, which governed the town until 1840. In 1832, he held a seat in the state legislature, and in 1842, was one of the four men who organized (and ran) the Democratic Party in Allen County.

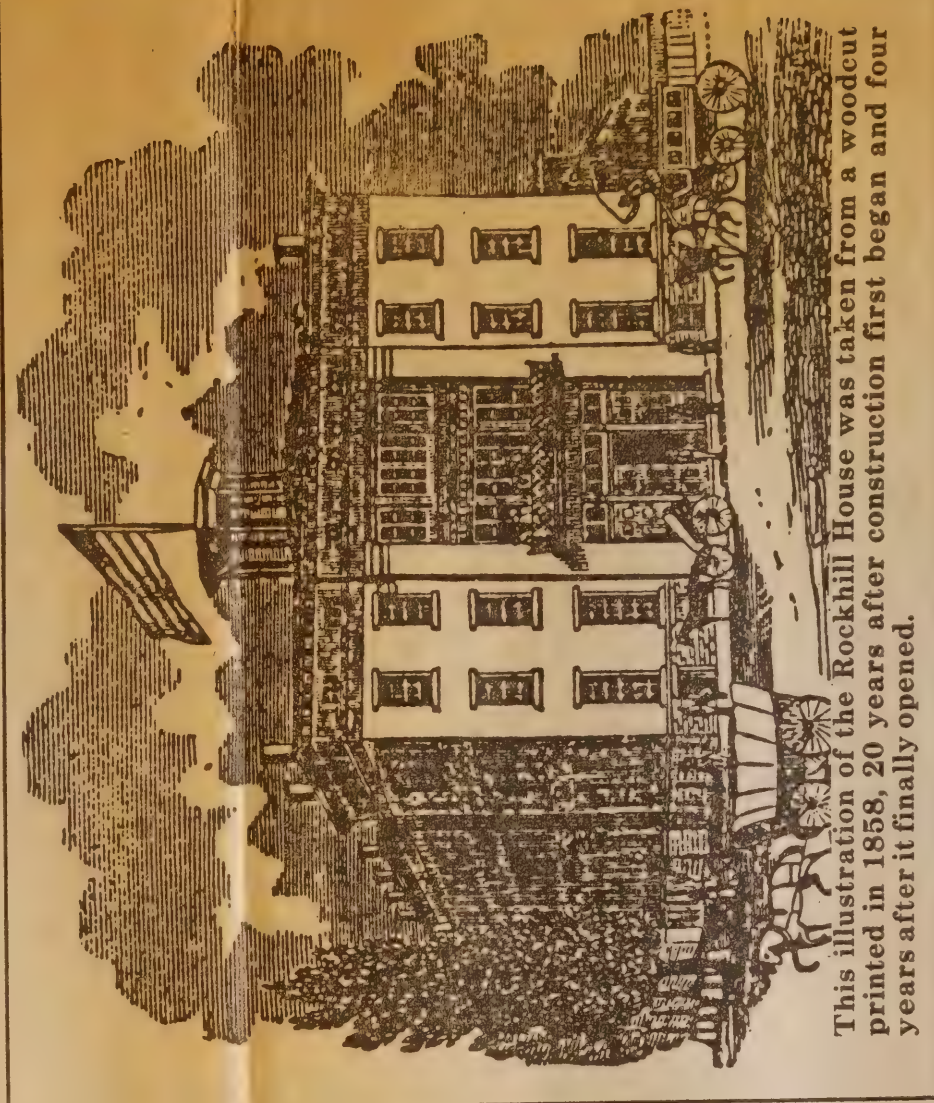

Rockhill in politics

Nicknamed "the old corn planter" in order to emphasize his Democratic ties and appeal to the populist vote, Rockhill won a seat in the state senate in 1844, and capped his political career by serving a term as one of Indiana's representatives in the United States Congress.

As a businessman, Rockhill invested heavily in land and numerous enterprises designed to pull Fort Wayne's center farther to the west than the intersection of Barr and Columbia streets. He had a hand in seeing the Wabash and Erie Canal extended through his land, and he was the principal promoter of good roads leading to the markets south of Fort Wayne from the west Main Street (and Rockhill) area. Also to promote growth on the west side, he donated a large portion of his land to the newly formed Fort Wayne Methodist College (then called the Fort Wayne Female College).

But the greatest and the most frustrating of his projects was the Rockhill House, a grand hotel that in its first years was called "Rockhill's Folly," but in its later years was honored as one of the state's finest luxury hotels.

Rockhill, in anticipation of a major canal depot at his end of town, began building the huge (for its time) three-story brick building in 1838. The outside structure was quickly finished, but lack of funds and changes in the canal plans prevented Rockhill from completing any work on the interior for nearly 15 years. Occasionally used for storing crops, the unfinished Rockhill House for years was inhabited only by birds, rabbits and other wild game. Boys of that time remembered "Rockhill's Folly" as a grand hunting ground.

The canal depot failed to materialize for the west side, but Rockhill was again given hope in the 1850s when the first railroad came to Fort Wayne. Plans were laid for a major line running west, again with a depot near Rockhill's hotel. In 1854, Rockhill House was at long last completed and a high dress ball was held in the great dining room to celebrate its opening (ball and dinner tickets were $5 a couple). Up-to-date in every way, the Rockhill was the finest hotel in northern Indiana. Facing Main Street, a hotel bar and several billiard rooms, managed by Philo Rumsey, were among the much touted features of the hostelry.

But the railroad line and depot were never brought to Rockhill's west side, and the hotel had to operate a large omnibus from the downtown depots and canal packet landings. Nevertheless, it was a splendid "rural" hotel, and for a decade after 1854, the house attracted the best guests and was the scene of parties, dances, social gatherings and political campaigns.

In 1860, Rockhill sponsored the grand "Old Settlers Reunion." Scores of pioneers (and near pioneers) came to the gala ball, the highlight of which was the presentation by Rockhill of walking canes fashioned from logs taken from the old military fort. No one was surprised that night when William Rockhill was elected the first presi-

Settlers.

Another highlight in the hotel's history came that same year when Democratic presidential candidate Stephen A. Douglas, known as "the little Giant," came to Fort Wayne and made his headquarters at the Rockhill House. The first night Douglas held forth with one of his usual fiery addresses on his opponent, Abe Lincoln, and enthusiastically supported the issues of states' rights from the balcony of Rockhill House. The next day, the biggest parade ever seen in Fort Wayne up to that time marched by for two hours heading for the St.
Marys River (at the end of Wayne Street) where a natural amphitheater served the candidate well.

Rockhill, 1793-1865.

An editor commented about the Douglas visit that "the vulgarity and noise kept up on the streets showed that whiskey was doing more for him than he could do for himself. It don't take much sense, knowledge or generality to be a Democrat."

William Rockhill died in 1865, and the Rockhill House, which never was a financial success, closed in 1867.

This was, however, the ideal place for the Poor Handmaids of Jesus Christ to start their hospital. When the Sisters re-opened the old hotel doors in 1869, they were still scrubbing the place when the first patient was admitted. Nurses were always in demand, but so were beds. In that first year, Sister Mary Henrica, hav-the hospital.

In the early years, St. Joseph's was unique in offering special programs for the poor. In 1870, for example, the hospital initiated a program that enabled all poor residents of Allen County to be treated there rather than being placed in the
"poorhouse," as was the custom. For this service, the city and township trustees paid the hospital $3 per week for each patient.

The first addition was built in 1879, but the smallpox epidemic of 1881-1882 caused a crisis in available patient space. To give more room, the sisters moved their chapel and convent out of the old hotel, and built new structures next to the hospital to serve their personal and religious needs.

Concerned with the problems of communicable diseases, in 1889, the Sisters opened an isolation facility west of the hospital on land known as the Orff Homestead (on West Main Street near the bridge over the St. Marys River). By the turn of the century, the isolation ward was closed and the area, then called St.
Roch's Farm, was converted to the production of vegetables and poultry for the hospital.

The great addition erected in 1912-1913 facing Broadway, boasted the newest facilities, from steam heat (cleaner than the hot air of the coal furnaces) and full electrical ser-

He came to Fort Wayne in 1860, and took an active part in the development of the Achduth Vesholom Congregation, the oldest Jewish congregation in Indiana. Several times president of the local medical society, he soon became St. Joseph's chief of staff and was the instrumental figure in the development of medical services at

In the early years, St. Joseph's was unique in offering special programs for the poor. In 1870, for example, the hospital initiated a program that enabled all poor residents of Allen County to be treated there rather than being placed in the "poorhouse," as was the custom. For this service, the city and township trustees paid the hospital $3 per week for each patient.

The first addition was built in 1879, but the smallpox epidemic of 1881-1882 caused a crisis in available patient space. To give more room, the sisters moved their chapel and convent out of the old hotel, and built new structures next to the hospital to serve their personal and religious needs.

Concerned with the problems of communicable diseases, in 1889, the Sisters opened an isolation facility west of the hospital on land known as the Orff Homestead (on West Main Street near the bridge over the St. Marys River). By the turn of the century, the isolation ward was closed and the area, then called St. Roch's Farm, was converted to the production of vegetables and poultry for the hospital.

The great addition erected in 1912-1913 facing Broadway, boasted the newest facilities, from steam heat (cleaner than the hot air of the coal furnaces) and full electrical service to the newest incubators, X-ray equipment, and "ultra-violet ray" treatment rooms.

It was also early in this century that another unique program for the poor was begun. For those who could not afford medical care (there were no health insurance programs), the hospital sold tickets, at $7.50 each, that would entitle the holder to board, bed, care and treatment for one year.

In 1918, the nursing school, offering a three-year program, was opened and a medical technicians' school was begun in 1946.

The hospital continued its growth in the 20th Century, with the most dramatic physical changes taking place from 1929, when the Berry Street wing was built, to the mid-60s when the nine-story Broadway wing was built.

It was during the construction of the Berry Street wing, completed in 1929, that the last remnants of the were torn down. What had started as "Rockhill's Folly" turned out to become one of the city's greatest assets.

Michael Hawfield is executive director of Allen County-Fort Wayne Historical Society.

ROGAWSKI

Sister Karen Rogawski

2-A-1982 Sister Karen Rogawski, O.P., 39, formerly of Fort Wayne, a member of the Sisters of St. Dominic, of Racine, Wis., died Jan. 29 in St. Alphonsus Hospital, Boise, Idaho.

Sister Karen was en route to parish work in Homedale, Idaho, on Jan. 10 when her car skidded on ice and was struck broadside by a pickup truck. She remained in critical condition until her death.

Sister Karen was a member of a group of Racine Dominicans who do pastoral ministry in Canyon County, Idaho, including work among Mexican-Americans. Before going to Idaho in 1978, she taught in Wisconsin parochial schools.

Surviving are four sisters, Marcella and Gertrude Rogawski, Elaine LaMaster and Adele Lauer, all of Fort Wayne, and a brother, the Rev. Ralph Rogawski, O.P., of McAllen, Texas, who is well-known for his work with a Dominican preaching team that works predominantly with Mexican-Americans.

A funeral Mass for Sister Rogawski will be Friday evening in the Siena Center, Racine.

ROSEMARY

MAY 6-10-1925

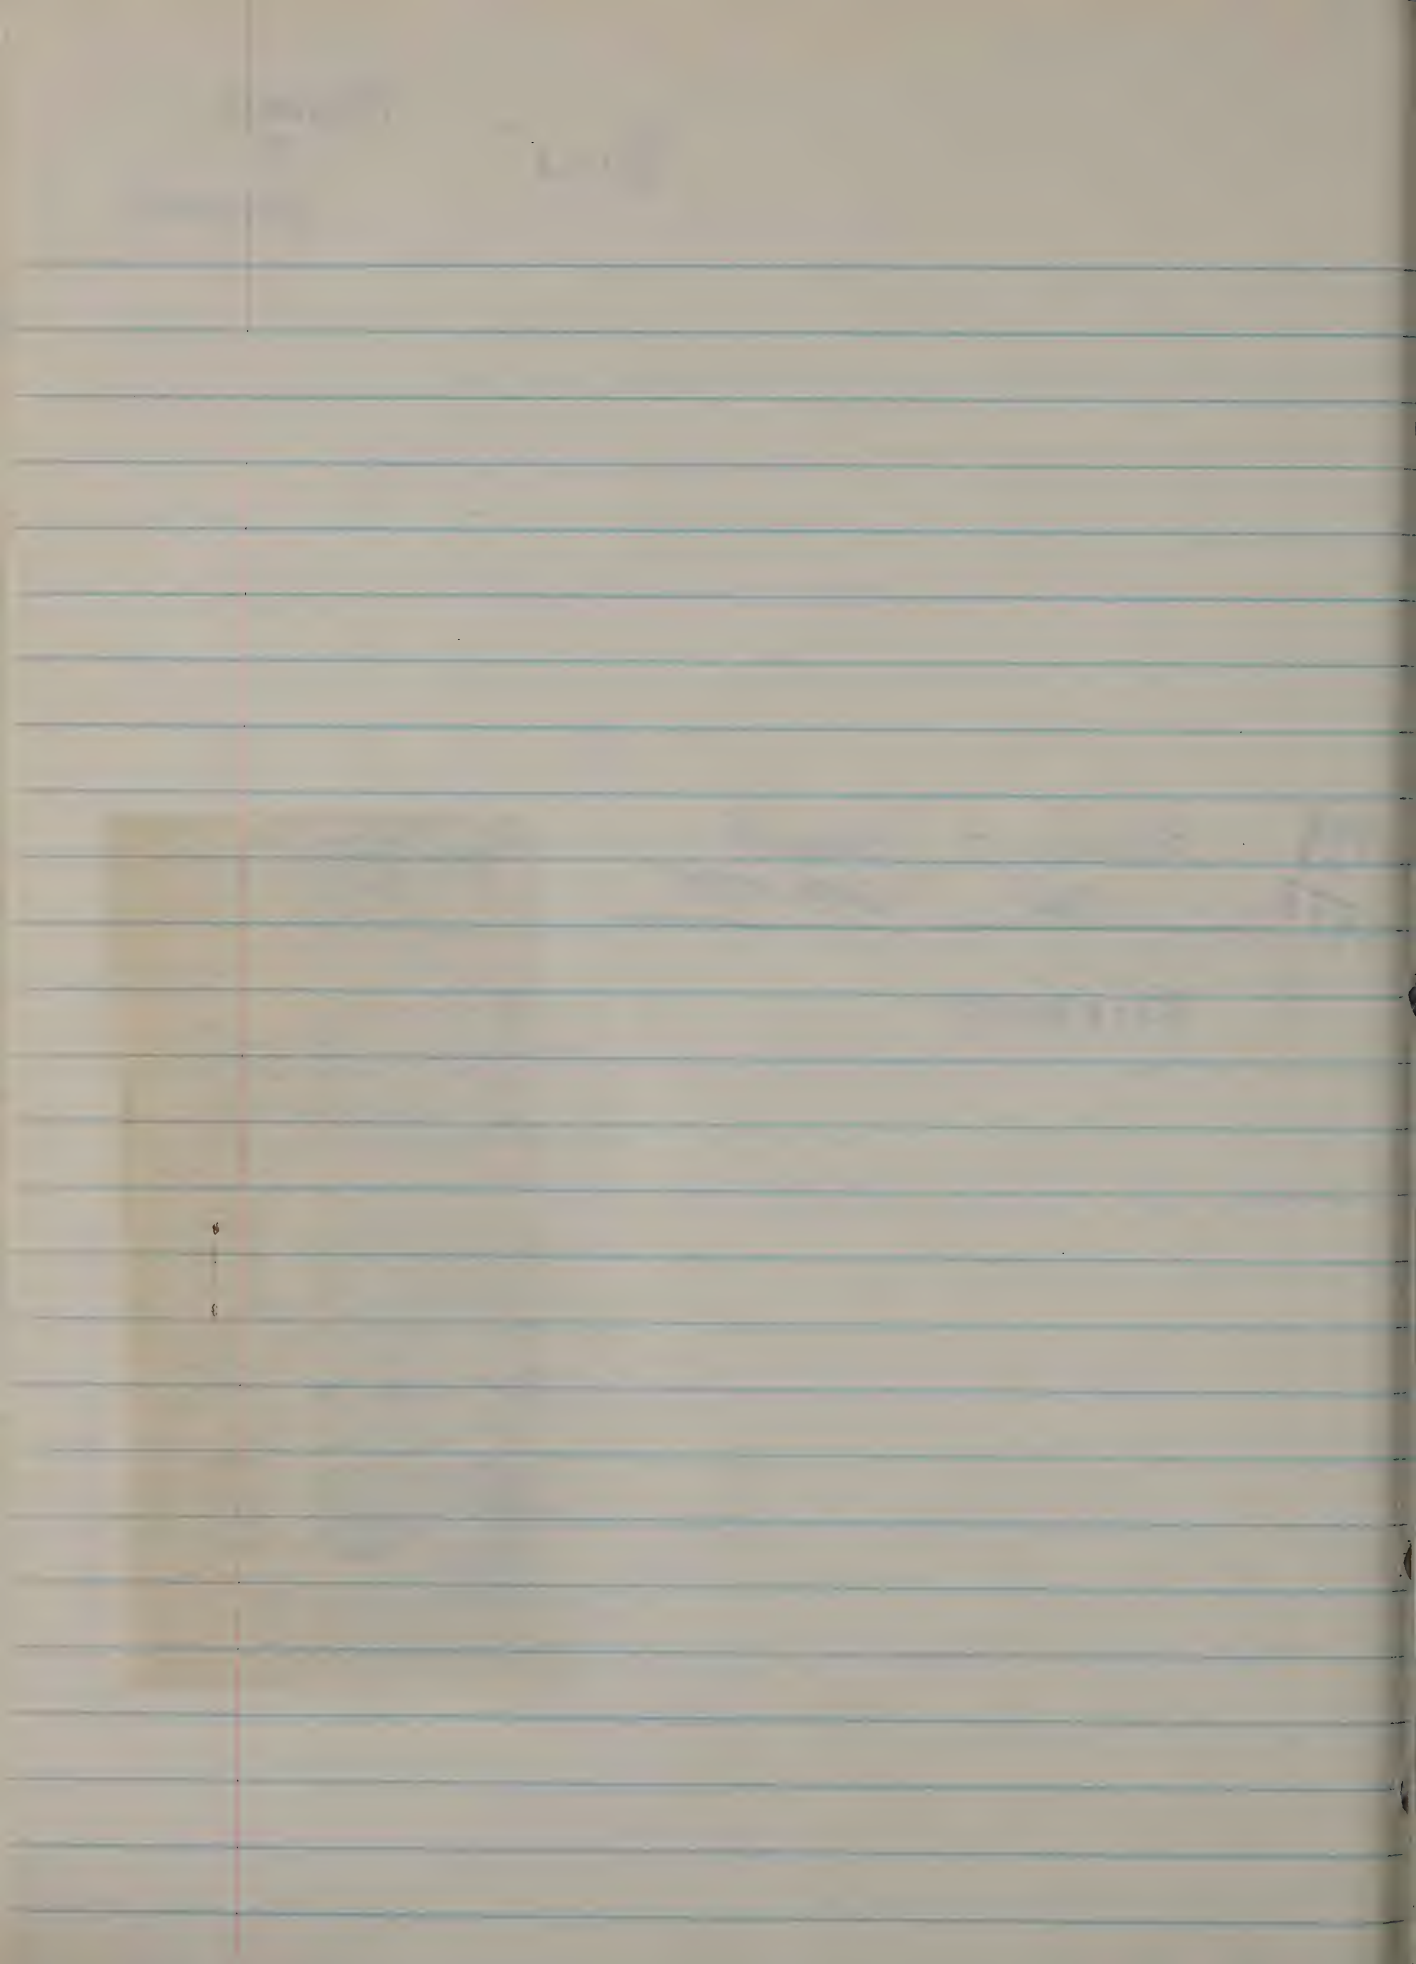

Francis J. "Buzz" Romary, 69, died Saturday in Woodview Healthcare after a long illness.

A lifelong resident of Fort Wayne, Mr. Romary retired in 1973 after 34 years with General Electric Co. He was a charter member of Sacred Heart Catholic Church and a member of the church Holy Name Society and G.E. Quarter Century Club.

Surviving are his wife, Rosemary; three sons, Larry and Steven, both of Fort Wayne, and Michael of Indianapolis; two brothers, William of Sebring, Fla., and Clarence of Kankakee, Ill.; and three sisters, Mary Margaret Waltke, Loretta Acre and Cecilia Romary, all of Fort Wayne.

Services are 10:30 a.m. Tuesday in Mungovan & Sons Memorial Chapel, 2114 S. Calhoun St., and 11 a.m. in Sacred Heart Catholic Church. Calling is from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m. today in the funeral home, with a rosary recited there at 7:30 p.m. today. Burial will be in Catholic Cemetery.

Preferred memorials are gifts of Masses to the church.

Prayer

Lord make me an instrument of Thy peace; where there is hatred, let me sow love; where there is injury, pardon; where there is doubt, faith; where there is despair, hope; where there is darkness, light;
and where there is sadness, joy.

O Divine Master, grant that I may not so much seek to be consoled as to console; to be understood, as to understand; to be loved, as to love; for it is in giving that we receive, it is in pardoning that we are pardoned, and it is in dying that we are born to eternal life.

Longtime VA volunteer dies

Walburg K. Rondot, 92, a lifelong Fort Wayne resident who was chosen mother of the year by The Journal-Gazette in May 1957, died at 8:20 a.m. Wednesday in St. Anne Home. She had resided there the past three years and had been in poor health the past six weeks.

Mrs. Rondot, a graduate of the Chicago School of Nursing, donated over 4,000 hours of work at the Veterans Administration Medical Center.

Surviving are five daughters, Germaine Ifrid of Detroit, Violet Reising of Indianapolis, Kate McNutt Sr. and Genevieve Nagel, both of Fort Wayne, and Betty Yorks of Woodburn; seven sons, Gerald of San Diego, Calif., Frank of Angola, Richard of Castleberry, Fla., Thomas of New Haven, and Alfred, Donald and Daniel, all of Fort Wayne; and a brother, Robert Getty Sr. of Fort Wayne.

Services will be at 10:45 a.m. Friday in Mungovan & Sons Memorial Chapel and at 11 a.m. in St. Peter's Catholic Church. Friends may call from 2 to 5 and 7 to 9 p.m. today at the funeral home where the rosary will be recited at 7:30 p.m. Burial will be in Catholic Cemetery.

Preferred memorials are gifts to St. Anne Home.

Antique auto swap 'n' sell

You'll have to search quite a while before you can find an entire day's worth of entertainment for $1. But that's exactly what the Historic Automobile Association has lined up for you Sunday.

From 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. you can meander to your heart's content around the parking garage at South Clinton and East Washington streets where the association is sponsoring an antique auto exhibition and swap.

Owners of antique autos manufactured between 1919 and 1957 will be coming from Ohio, Michigan and several Indiana communities to participate. Among the autos to be displayed will be a Stutz Touring Car, old Packards, a couple Reos and a 1940 Mercury. Models A and T of Ford Motor Co. will be among the congregation of approximately 70 autos, according to member Rod Mitchell.

James Kimble sits proudly at the wheel of his spiffy 1919 Buick, one of many antique automobiles to be available for close-up inspection by the public Sunday at the downtown parking garage at South Clinton and East Washington streets. The 7 a.m.-5 p.m. event will include not only an exhibition of antique autos but also the opportunity for owners to swap needed parts for their oldies but goodies.

A part of the game Beer and baseball players have rarely been far apart. Babe Ruth was known to have enjoyed more than a few — and he played his best years during prohibition. Willie Horton, the former Tigers slugger who is a batting coach for the Yankees, recently said: "I gave up drinking in 1978. I used to think you had to drink to sit down with the other players and be part of them. You'd drink and talk and play cards and you wouldn't even notice it, but you'd look around and a few fifths would be gone and you wouldn't even feel drunk." The peer group pressure can be intense. In "Ball Four," Bouton recalled a clubhouse meal with teammates and a question from one of them: "I had a steak in one hand and a glass of milk in the

"So far, so good," he said of the public reaction. "We might be a little — oh, I guess not disappointed — but surprised that it hasn't filled up more than it has. I think it's more a matter of getting the word out. It's still early in the season. I don't think it's been half full, yet." Joe Hellyar, assistant ticket distribution manager for the Braves, says the club has 174 family-section tickets in the lower-deck reserved sections beyond first base and the same amount beyond third bases. "This will be the third year," Hellyar said. "Here in the South, we have a heavy Baptist population. We have a lot of church-related and school-related groups. Basically, the church groups complained. They said there was no place their groups could go to be have had too much to drink." Snyder says his observations are of the grandstand areas and not of the outfield bleachers, where vulgar chanting and bottle throwing marred a game two weeks ago between the Tigers and Kansas City. "The bleachers, that's a different ballgame," Snyder said. Robert Sherman, general manager of the Bismarck concession service at Tiger Stadium, says he's noticed a decrease in beer sales this season but attributed it to cold weather. Sherman says it is too early to tell if low-alcohol beer will discourage beer sales at the stadium. This year, the Toronto Blue Jays have stopped selling beer after the eighth inning. The Los Angeles Dodgers stop after the seventh and for many years have allowed no alcohol in the pavilion sections. The Cincinnati Reds have added low-alcohol beer to their concession stands, and the Minnesota Twins, Pittsburgh Pirates and Atlanta Braves have set aside sections where alcohol can't

Fort Wayne Pigeon Club spends 100 years homing in on birds

By JIM COSTIN
Of The News-Sentinel

Milt Haffner is for the birds. Very much for the birds. In this case, pigeons. Homing pigeons.

Haffner is the president of the Fort Wayne Racing Pigeon Club. And 1985 is something very special. It's the club's 100th anniversary.

Henry Beach was president when the Fort Wayne club was formed in 1885. It had 16 members then, so the growth in numbers has been minimal. The current 17 members have lost none of the enthusiasm of the original 16.

"We question if there is any sporting club in the state of Indiana that can boast of such a record," Haffner said. "Wars and depressions never halted the members' activities."

The 1985 racing season was to begin today, while the official 100th anniversary celebration is set for September. The group now has its own clubhouse, located at 2605 Edsall Ave. The club is affiliated with the American Racing Pigeon Union.

On Sept. 21, the club will officially celebrate its 100th year by sponsoring a special Oscar Anderson 275-mile young bird futurity race. Birds will be shipped here for this competition from at least 13 states.

Haffner, 73 and still active as the president of the Haffner Paint Co., was introduced to pigeon racing quite by accident.

"I was 12 at the time, and a pigeon landed on our roof on Lee Street," he said. "I climbed a ladder and caught it, then took it to a man who had pigeons. He wound up selling me a hen for 25 cents, and that's what started me off."

Then he had a few second thoughts. "The following spring my dad had to go to Indianapolis on business, and I asked him if he would take my pigeon along and release it near Huntington. He said he would but forgot about it near Huntington and didn't release it until he reached Marion," Haffner said. "You can imagine my disappointment when days and weeks went by and the bird didn't return."

However, his devotion was rewarded. "Three months later that pigeon returned, and I've been involved in pigeon racing ever since," he said.

From the bird that he paid two bits for, Haffner now has a valuable collection of 70, "with 24 old birds now on my racing team." A bird is considered young only until it's 1 year old.

The club's season runs from today until July 6 for the old birds; from Aug. 17 to Oct. 5 for the young birds.

"I'll tell you this about pigeons," Haffner said. "They're easier to train than kids. When you tell them to do something, they do it."

One of the release locations used by the club is Abilene, Texas. That's a distance of 1,000 miles, and in 1958 one of Haffner's birds returned home in 50 hours. This is the best time reported by a Fort Wayne owner in recent years. But in 1927, the late Charles Oetting had one make it home in 34 hours.

Races usually, but not always, take place on Saturdays. Birds are taken by truck to a release destination. This week that destination was Lafayette, 100 miles away. The birds were to be released at 8 a.m. Most, barring bad weather, should have been back home by 11 a.m.

For 500-mile races, the birds are transported to Springfield, Mo.; for 600-mile events, to Little Rock, Ark.; and for the 1,000-mile journey, to Abilene. Only from Abilene will the pigeons stop to rest; they refuse to fly after dark.

With no wind, pigeons will fly home at an average of about 45 mph. If there's a head wind, that figure drops to near 25 mph. With a tail wind, pigeons will fly as fast as 75 mph.

The night before a race, the pigeons are taken to the club's headquarters. Rubber bands, with separate identifications, are placed on the birds' feet. The birds are then placed in sealed wicker baskets for their journey to the liberation spot.

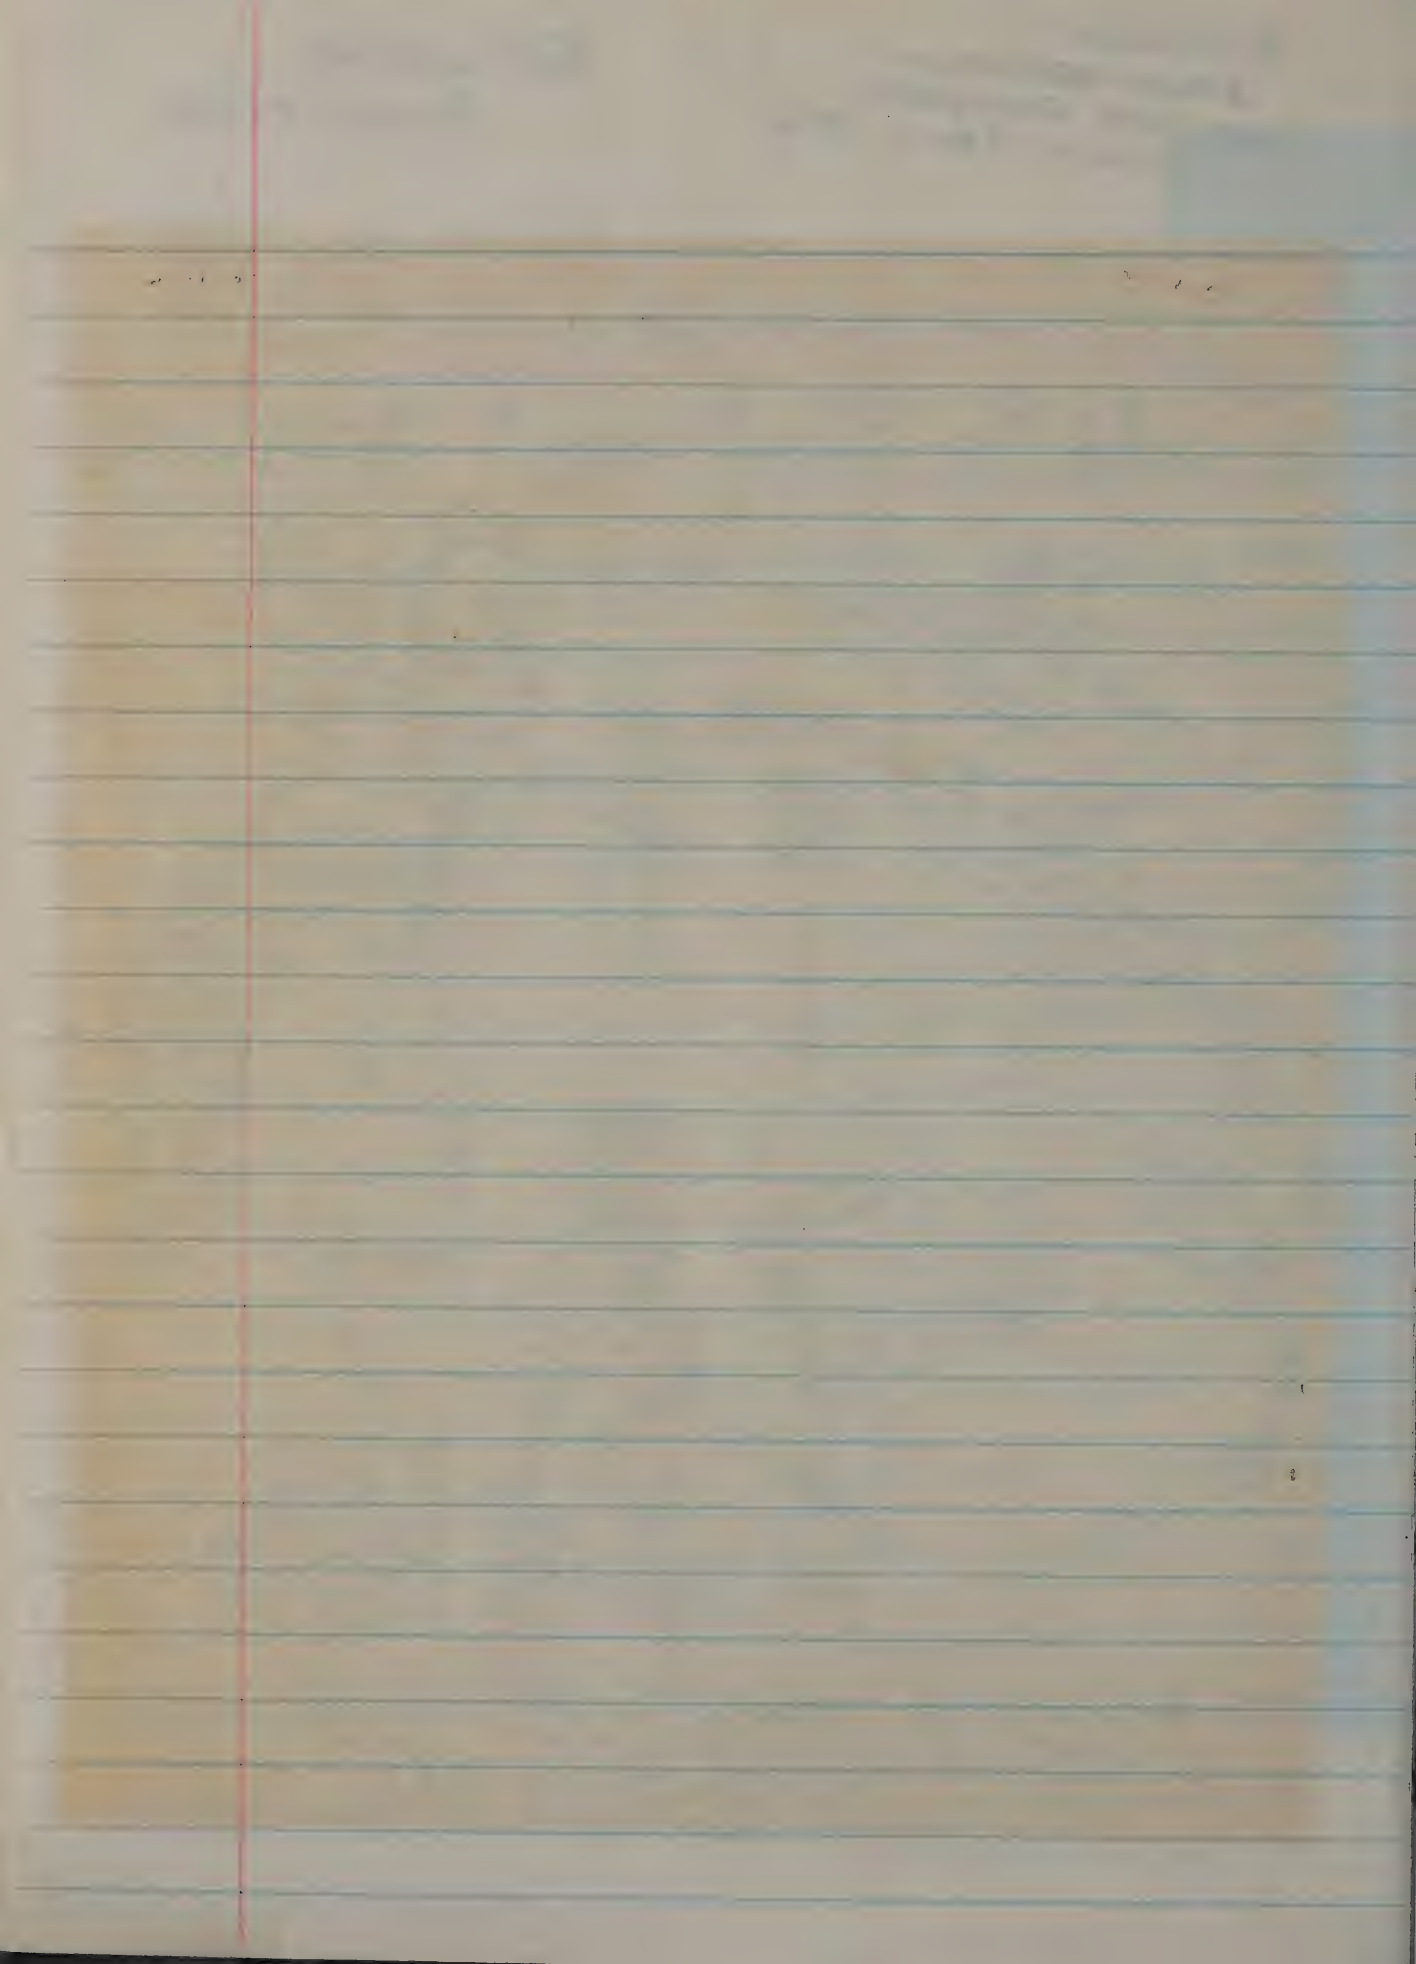

Each club member also has a special clock, used to time his bird. The night before, the clock is synchronized with a large master timer in the clubhouse. When the bird arrives home, the owner must catch it, remove the rubber band and insert it into the clock. The clock records the exact hour, minute and second. About two hours later, members return to the clubhouse to calculate the speed of the birds.

Selecting which birds to use for a race isn't done by a catch-as-catch-can system. There are reasons why some are chosen.

Haffner said: "The hens will come up with their best racing performances when they have a pair of eggs in the nest. The cock birds fly the fastest when they have about a 10-day youngster in the nest."

Due to the success the club has had and the outstanding times posted by members' birds, breeding stock from this group is constantly in demand. Stock has been shipped from here to just about every state, including Alaska and Hawaii, as well as to Canada, Japan and England.

In addition to Haffner, other officers of the club are Byron Bailey, vice president; Conrad Mullins, secretary; and Martin Bender, race secretary.

HOOSIER AUXILIARY NEWS

We didn't have to worry about the packages that were to be mailed, because hospital volunteer, Mrs. A. I. (Ronnie) Rondot, of Fort Wayne, was on hand to keep that job done.

Ronnie, is 89 years old, and served as a volunteer for 26 years. Until a few years ago, she went to the hospital two days a week, but, now she only goes one day a week. She hasn't been able to drive a car the past ten years, but, through family and friends she has been able to continue to be a faithful volunteer. She has been an Auxiliary member of Fort Wayne Unit 47 for 30 years.

Dear Mrs. Rondot:

I enjoyed being with you during the Veterans Administration Voluntary Service Awards Ceremony on May 11.

The hours which you have devoted in voluntary service to our veterans is amazing and should be an example to the entire community.

I am proud to have met a person of your caliber, and I hope that you will enjoy many more years of service to our veterans.

Sincerely,

Kirk-Rondot

Anne Marie Rondot and Kevin Mark Kirk were married Friday evening in St. Henry's Catholic Church. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel J. Rondot, 5129 Cloverbrook Drive, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Kirk, 2520 Belfast Drive. Karen Rondot was the maid of honor and Paula Rondot, Linda Rondot, Laura Brake and Julie Delagrange were bridesmaids. Steven Soest stood as best man and Thomas Kirk, Virgil Kelpin, William Densmore, Ben Bunt and Doug Rondot were ushers. The newlyweds received wedding guests at Wallen Pines before departing for a honeymoon in Michigan.

LETTER NO. 100

Dear Cousin Alfred,

I hope you are well. I've had so little contact with the other members of our family since my Father died. I did correspond with Rae Willen just after that terrible tornado which hit Wichita Falls earlier this year. Fortunately none of the family was hurt, but her grandson was driven out of his apartment and had to spend some time with her while waiting for the local government to supply him with temporary housing. She has been worried about her husband's health and sounded quite distracted in her letter so I didn't get too many other details. She did, however, tell me that you had brought the Family Tree up to date and that I could probably get the latest copy from you.

I can't help but think that you must be spending quite a bit of money in your research. Although my personal funds are limited, is there any way in which I can help you? My husband and I are alone now. Our youngest child has graduated from school and is living with friends in Huntington Beach, California, so I have a lot of time on my hands. I have taken up stamp-collecting as a hobby during the past year and find it such an interesting and rewarding hobby. I'm coming in contact with people in other parts of the world who also enjoy collecting stamps. This morning I wrote to the National Philatelic Society of France to see if they could help me obtain a post-mark from Athesans. I've also begun collecting very old envelopes and post-cards. One of my most prized post-card is one that my Uncle Russell sent to his mother from Puerto Rico in 1919. Are you still corresponding with any of our relatives in Canada? They might be a good source of stamps if I could prevail upon you to give me an address of someone to write to. I've written to other members of my immediate family to watch for interesting stamps and cards, but I'm afraid they haven't taken my request too seriously. Stamps are taken so for granted by most people so I can't really blame them.

As for the status of our little branch of the family; we have changed very little. There have been no weddings or births, and only one death, my Father's. You know how young people are these days. They seem to prefer single life to settling down and having families. Our oldest, Ralph, is such a happy bachelor. I doubt that he will ever marry, at least not for a very long time. And Paul is living happily "in sin", as his Grandfather puts it, with a darling girl whom we love very much. They probably will marry, but not for a while. They both have good jobs and are buying all of the things that will be needed for a long future together, so we are just biding our time until the happy day.

As yet I haven't gotten in touch with our other relatives in California. There have been so many things going on for the past few years. Now that I have a lot of time I will establish the contact and maybe get to know them. Who knows, we might find that we have a lot in common. If it's true that certain traits run in families I might find that there are some music lovers among them. As you may know, my father played the cornet and trumpet when he was young and was quite good at it, and I have always loved to sing, as did my mother. Now, that I'm older, I enjoy listening to records and making tapes of any good music that I can find on the radio. My real love is opera. With my daughter away I'm catching up with a lot of my old records that I haven't been able to listen to for years. I have quite a collection of old 78rpm's that I am going to put on tape before I decide whether to sell them or not. Later this year my husband and I plan to buy a mobile home, and the thought of lugging those heavy old records around is not too pleasant a thought. Most of them have been with me since the early forties. I'm sure there are collectors who might want them.

It would be nice to hear from you again, if you have time. Also if you have the latest on our family record I'd really like to have it. If you could tell me about your family I'd like to hear about them too. Until then, be well and happy.

Very sincerely,

Betty Osborn

1. Read the following passage and answer the questions that follow.

The first part of the passage is about the importance of education.

Education is the key to a better future.

It helps us to learn new things and grow as people.

Without education, we cannot improve our lives.

Education gives us the tools we need to succeed.

It teaches us how to think and solve problems.

Education is the foundation of a strong society.

It helps us to understand the world around us.

Education is the path to a bright future.

Let us all strive for knowledge and wisdom.

Education is the light that guides us through the darkness.

1. The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. It emphasizes that proper bookkeeping is essential for the success of any business and for the protection of the interests of the owners and investors.

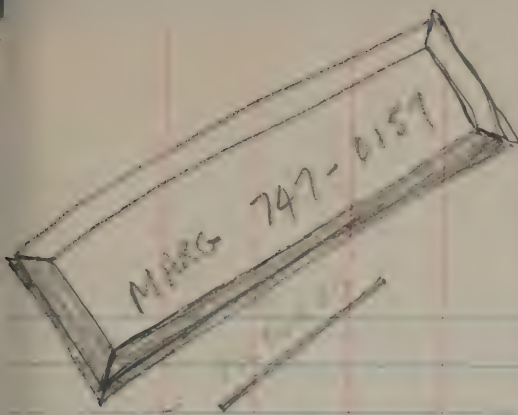

2. The second part of the document describes the various methods used to collect and analyze data. It includes a detailed explanation of the sampling process and the use of statistical techniques to draw conclusions from the data.

3. The third part of the document provides a comprehensive overview of the results of the study. It includes a series of tables and graphs that illustrate the findings and compares them with previous research in the field.

4. The fourth part of the document discusses the implications of the study for future research and for the development of new theories and models. It also includes a list of references to the works of other researchers in the field.

5. The fifth part of the document is a conclusion that summarizes the main findings of the study and provides a final assessment of the value of the research.

After my going to France, you can believe I'm really looking forward to it. I'll be there for 5 weeks with a group of students from New Haven High, and from Luer's. We'll be spending 4 weeks at the University of Quimper (like Kam-pear) in Brittany, not far from the Beaches where the invasion of D-Day occurred. The other week we'll spend in Paris and on a tour of the Châteaux of the Loire Valley in central France.

I'll be sure to drop you a line when I'm there! Thanks again!

Thank you for the stamps you sent to me. I can use every one of them.

Thanks for the sheet written in French, too.

It's always fun to read things like that.

Merci pour le papier éiréniens Français aussi. C'est toujours drôle de lire ces choses.

Vous pouvez être assuré que je suis très excité. Je serai là pour cinq semaine avec un group d'élèves de Lycée de New Haven, et de huerb. Nous serrons à l'universaire de Quimper en Bretagne, près de les plages de Normandie où l'invasion de Jour-J est arrivé. Le autre semaine nous serrons à Paris et à un tour de les Châteaux de

Last will & Testament of Claude Francis Randol

In the name of the great Father of all Amens.

I Claude Francis Randol of the County of Allen and State of Indiana, knowing the uncertainty of life and the certainty of death do make & ordain this my last will & testament First it is my will and desire that all my just debts be paid, second I give demise and bequeath to my son John Augustus Randol 1/5 acres of land out of the north west fourth of section thirty four 34 c in township thirty two together with all the buildings and appertinances thereto belonging and fourth I give demise and bequeath to my son Charles Alexander Randol Twenty acres of land on the east fourth of the north west fourth of section thirty four in township thirty two Fifth it is my will and desire that my son Charles Lewis Cyril Randol & John Baptist Randol, Hortense Julia & Justin Tarnet each receive sixty six dollars & 66 and 2/3 cents & be paid by John A. Randol & Charles A. Randol in one year after the decease of the above named testator

1. The first part of the paper discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. It emphasizes that proper record-keeping is essential for the success of any business and for the protection of the interests of all parties involved. The author argues that without accurate records, it is impossible to make informed decisions or to identify areas for improvement.

2. The second part of the paper focuses on the various methods used to collect and analyze data. It compares different techniques, such as surveys, interviews, and focus groups, and discusses their strengths and weaknesses. The author also discusses the importance of ensuring the reliability and validity of the data collected, and provides tips for how to achieve this.

3. The third part of the paper discusses the importance of communication in the research process. It emphasizes that researchers must be able to communicate their findings clearly and effectively to their audience. The author discusses the importance of writing clear and concise reports, and provides tips for how to do this. The author also discusses the importance of presenting findings in a clear and engaging way, and provides tips for how to do this.

4. The fourth part of the paper discusses the importance of ethics in research. It emphasizes that researchers must always act ethically and must always be transparent about their methods and findings. The author discusses the importance of obtaining informed consent from participants, and provides tips for how to do this. The author also discusses the importance of protecting the privacy of participants, and provides tips for how to do this.

5. The fifth part of the paper discusses the importance of collaboration in research. It emphasizes that researchers must work together and share their knowledge and resources in order to achieve their goals. The author discusses the importance of forming a research team, and provides tips for how to do this. The author also discusses the importance of sharing findings with the research community, and provides tips for how to do this.

But it is expressly understood that John A Rondot & Charles El Rondot are to take care of the said C. F. Rondot the above testator during life for which they are to receive the following Personal Property 4 head of Cattle and 4 head Hogs all the produce about the place and all the furniture about the house and further more the above named testator requests that should he recover his health again that the above property be restored to him or the use thereof during his life but should I not recover my health again the above to be my last will and desire

In testimony whereof I have written my hand and seal the 16th day of February 1855

Prayer

Lord make me an instrument of Thy peace; where there is hatred, let me sow love; where there is injury, pardon; where there is doubt, faith; where there is despair, hope; where there is darkness, light; and where there is sadness, joy.

O Divine Master, grant that I may not so much seek to be consoled as to console; to be understood, as to understand; to be loved, as to love; for it is in giving that we receive, it is in pardoning that we are pardoned, and it is in dying that we are born to eternal life.

PRAIRE GROVE,

TRIP TO CANADA

THIS IS A REPORT ON OUR TRIP TO STONEY POINT CANADA TO VISIT THE RONDOT COUSINS.
FRANLES AND I.

WE LEFT FT WAYNE WEDNESDAY MORNING FEBRUARY 23 1972 ABOUT 10⁰⁰ O'CLOCK IN THE MORNING AND TRAVELED NORTH ON INTERSTATE 69 TO MARSHALL, MICHIGAN, WHERE WE STOPPED FOR LUNCH. WE THEN WENT TO THE INTERCHANGE AND PICKED UP INTER STATE 94 EAST FOR DETROIT. AS WE TRAVELED NORTH DURING THE MORNING THE WEATHER WAS DARK AND CLOUDY, ~~AND~~ IT STARTED TO SNOW JUST NORTH OF COLD WATER, AND IT CONTINUED TO SNOW AS WE TRAVELED EAST, AT SOME TIMES HARD AND BLOWING, ESPECIALLY AS YOU TRIED TO PASS SLOWER MOVING CARS AND ^{THE ROAD} TRUCKS.
WE PROCEEDED ON I 94 INTO DETROIT AND PICKED UP THE ROAD LEADING TO THE TUNNEL, WHICH GOES UNDER THE DETROIT RIVER, TO WINEDOR, CANADA. THIS WAS A NEW EXPERIENCE FOR US TO GO THRU SUCH A LONG TOLL TUNNEL.
WE THEN STOPPED AT THE INFORMATION BUILDING NEAR BY AND INQUIRED AS TO DIRECTIONS TO VILLIA MARIE HOME AND OBTAINED MAPS AND BEST WAY TO STONEY POINT. IT WAS STILL SNOWING WITH SEVERAL^A INCHES NOW ON THE ROADS, BUT WITH THE TEMPERATURE ABOVE 32
IT MELTED GRADUALLY.

WE PROCEEDED DOWN RIVERSIDE DRIVE WEST AND LOCATED THE VILLA MARIE ^{HOME} ^{THE} AT 2856, ADDRESS.
THE VILLA IS A VERY SUBSTANTIAL BRICK BUILDING OF BASEMENT AND TWO STORIES, THE FRONT FACING THE STREET AND THE BACK FACING THE DETROIT RIVER, WHICH AT THIS TIME IS FROZEN OVER. THE GREAT AMBASSADOR BRIDGE IS BUILT ALMOST DIRECTLY OVER THE NORTH END OF THE VILLA.
SINCE IT WAS NOW ABOUT 3⁰⁰ IN THE AFTERNOON WE INQUIRED IF DR ERNEST RONDOT COULD HAVE VISITORS. AFTER PARKING THE CAR WE ENTERED THE VILLA THRU THE BASEMENT ENTRANCE, WHERE ALL SERVICE FACILITIES ARE LOCATED. WE THEN WALKED UP TO THE MAIN FLOOR AND ROOM 102 WHERE THE GRAND OLD MAN OF THE RONDOT RELATION RESIDES.
DR ERNEST RONDOT AGE 101 YEARS (BIRTHDAY
14 APRIL 1870) CONSIDERING HIS AGE HE IS ALERT AND UNDERSTANDS WHEN YOU ARE SPEAKING TO HIM.
AT TIME OF OUR VISIT HE WAS IN BED, HE NORMALLY IS UP EACH DAY BETWEEN 10 IN THE MORNING UNTIL 2⁰⁰ IN AFTERNOON IN HIS WHEEL CHAIR. HE STILL READS HIS BOOKS WITHOUT GLASSES WHICH IS REMARK-ABLE. AFTER ABOUT 15 MINUTE OF OUR VISIT WE COULD SEE THAT HE WAS TIRING - AND OUR ABILITY TO UNDERSTAND HIS ANSWERS AS HIS REPLYS WERE MIXTURE OF HIS CHILDHOOD ^{ENGLISH AND} TONGUE FRENCH,

Pc3

WE LEFT HIS ROOM AND TALKED TO A MAN ACROSS THE HALL FROM DR. ^{RONDOT} WHO WAS IN HIS EIGHTY'S.
~~AND~~ HE INDICATED THAT THE BEST TIME TO VISIT THE DR WAS FROM 11 UNTILL ABOUT 2⁰⁰ AS THIS WAS ABOUT HIS BEST TIME OF THE DAY.
THE DR. HAS BEEN ^{A RESIDENT AT} ~~IN~~ THE VILLA SINCE 1964.
THE VILLA IS A VERY CLEAN, WELL CONSTRUCTED BUILDING. HAS ^A ~~THE~~ CHAPEL NEAR THE CENTER, WITH SUN PARLORS AND SETTING ROOMS AT EACH END OF
THE HALLS. IN THE WARM WEATHER MONTHS THERE WOULD ALWAYS BE BOATS TO WATCH ON THE RIVER.
SEEMS LIKE A REAL NICE PLACE TO STAY.

COMPLETING OUR VISIT WE PROCEEDED EAST ON HIGHWAY ② AND STOPPED AT ^{IN THE EVENING} MOTEL FOR THE NIGHT. WE VISITED ONE OF THEIR NEW SHOPPING MALLS, WHICH WE FOUND INTERESTING, ESPECIALLY THE MERCHANDISE FROM ENGLAND, ETC. PRICES ARE ~~COMPARABLE~~ ABOUT THE SAME AS IN THE STATES.

ON THURSDAY THE 24, AFTER A LATE BREAKFAST AT THE MOTEL DINING AREA, WE DROVE EAST TO VILLAGE OF COMBER, ^(POPULATION 440) WHERE WE LOCATED OUR LADY OF LOURDES CHURCH. WHICH FATHER ACHILLE RONDOT BUILT, YEARS AGO. CHURCH WAS LOCKED, SO WE COULD VIEW ONLY OUT ^{THE} SIDE ^{AND GROTTO.} IT WAS STILL SNOWING LIGHTLY WITH SEVERAL INCHES OF WET SNOW ^{COVERED} ON THE GROUND.

WE THEN DROVE NORTH ON BLACK TOP ROAD TO TOWN OF STONEY POINT. THIS IS A CROSS ROAD TOWN ABOUT ONE MILE FROM SHORE OF LAKE ST CLAIR, POPULATION OF 1,000. THERE ARE COTTAGES AND SUMMER HOMES ALONG THE LAKE, AND APPEARS TO HAVE ^{PRIVATE} SUMMER RESORT ACTIVITY. THE ANNUNCIATION CHURCH BUILT IN 1855 IS THE LARGEST STRUCTURE IN THE AREA AND ^{THE STEEPLE} CAN BE SEEN FOR MILES. THERE ARE TWO SCHOOLS - FOR VARIOUS AGE GROUPS AND STUDY OF FRENCH IS A MUST. AFTER HAVING LUNCH IN THE VILLAGE RESTURANT WE PROCEEDED TO THE ^{MR + MRS} ALPHONSE RANDOT HOME HAVING OBTAINED INFORMATION ON LOCATION AT THE "POINTE AUX ROCHES" POST OFFICE, THEY LIVE, ~~ON MAIN NORTH SOUTH ROAD~~ ABOUT ONE MILE SOUTH OF STONEY POINT ON THE WEST SIDE OF THE CORNER, STONEY PT. ROAD. WHILE AT THE POST OFFICE WE WERE INFORMED - THAT SAMUEL RANDOT HAD PASSED AWAY SEVERAL WEEKS BEFORE, AT AGE OF 92. THE RANDOT FARM IS A LARGE OPERATION LOCATED ON A 100 ACRE PLOT, WITH TWO HOUSES ONE OCCUPIED BY SAMUEL'S ^{WIDOW} WIFE AND THE OTHER LARGE ^{HOUSE} ONE BY ALPHONSE AND HIS FAMILY OF NINE CHILDREN. WE WERE WARMLY RECEIVED, AND SINCE IT WAS A DAY NOT INDUCIVE TO OUT SIDE WORK AND ^{FARM} CHORES, WE VISITED FOR SEVERAL HOURS

GETTING ACQUAINTED AND DISCUSSING SOME RONDOT ANCESTRY IN GENERAL. WE LOOKED AT MANY FAMILY PICTURES, AND BROUGHT ONE BACK THAT WAS TAKEN HERE IN FT. WAYNE, DURING ONE OF DR ERNEST'S RONDOT VISITS - WE WILL ATTEMPT TO IDENTIFY PEOPLE ON PICTURE.

EMILE RONDOT SETTLED ON LAND NEAR THE LAKE SHORE, ^{ONLY ONE LOT} ~~ALL THAT~~ HAS BEEN RETAINED ~~IN~~ ~~ONE LOT~~ ON WHICH ^{THE} OLD HOME STOOD,

PART OF BRICK FOUNDATION AND PART OF WELL STILL ^{ARE STILL VISABLE} ~~REMAIN~~, THE REST INCLUDING THE LAND HAS BEEN WASHED ^{AWAY} BY THE LAKE. LATER EMILE MOVED TO A PLACE IN OR NEAR TOWN, THAT IS STILL STANDING, THIS IS THE HOME THAT HAD ^{FRONT PART} CONVERTED FOR BUSINESS.

EMILE ^{FIRST WORKED AS A} ~~WAS~~ SCHOOL TEACHER AND WAS PAID $9.00 PER MONTH, ~~AND~~ HE MOVED AROUND THE AREA TEACHING SCHOOL ON WEEKLY BASES AT VARIOUS SCHOOLS, OBTAINING FREE BOARD AND ROOM NEAR EACH SCHOOL AS PART OF HIS PAY. THE ^{HOME} FARM OF 100 ACRES WAS ESTABLISHED BY CLEARING ^{THE LAND OF TREES AND} THE SPOT WHERE THE PRESENT BUILDINGS NOW STAND, ^{WAS CLEARED FIRST} THEN CLEARING PROCEEDED AND THE CROPS ^{WERE PLANTED} AT ONE TIME ^{THEY} HAD ^{THE} OTHER 100 ACRE PLOTS OF LAND THEY OWNED AND WORKED. SHORTLY AFTER OUR ARRIVAL, ALPHONSE'S YOUNGEST SISTER
 URSULE LEBOEUF, CAME OVER AND SHE, INDICATED

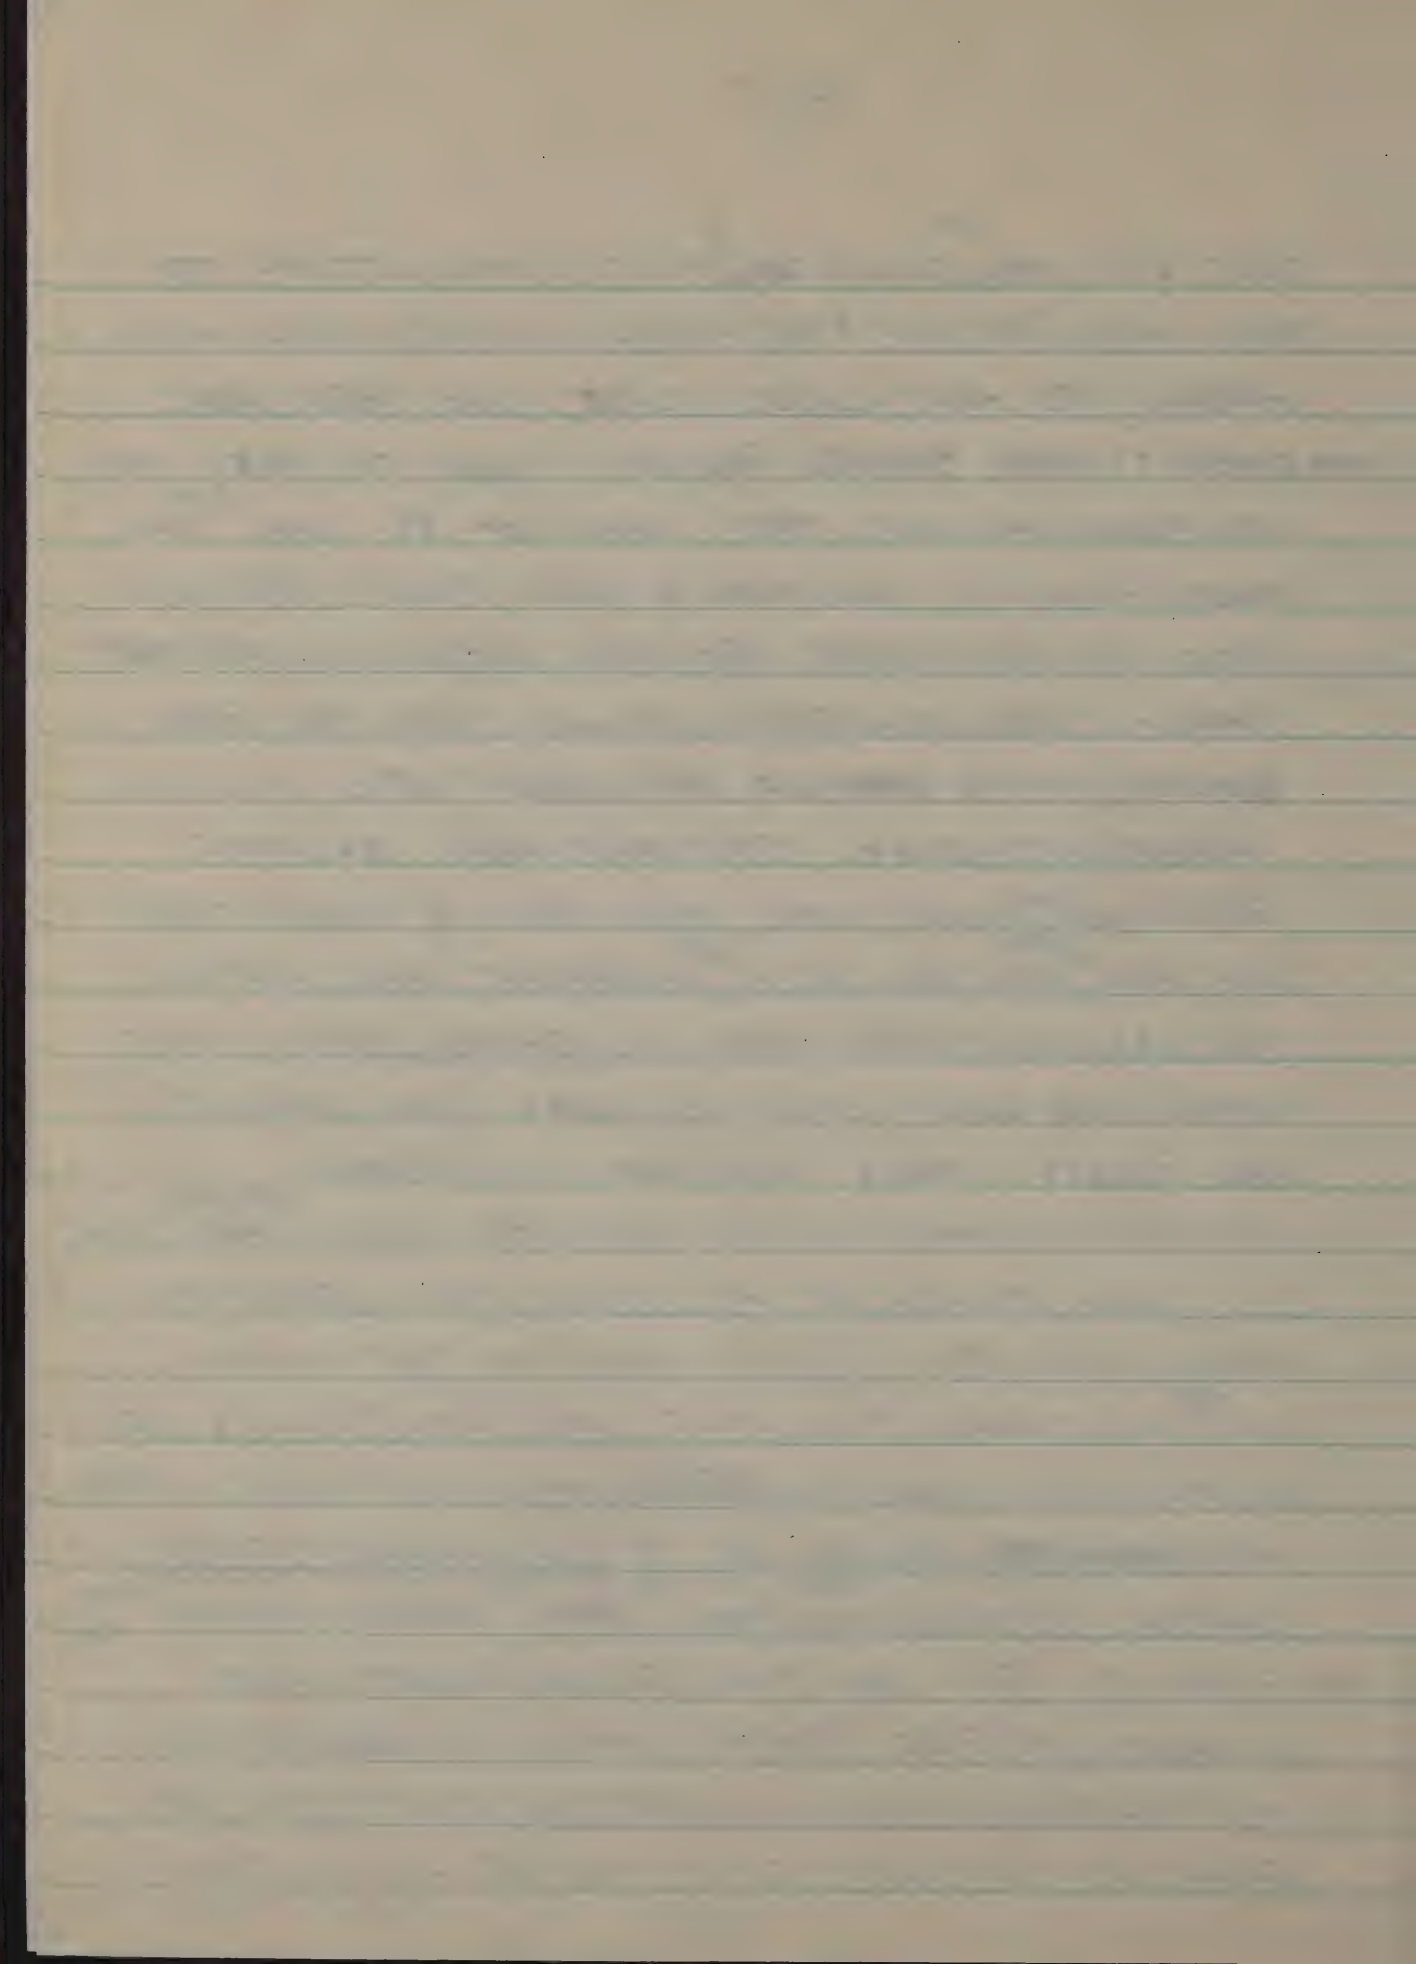

THAT SHE HAS ^A COLLECTION ^{OF} OLD LETTERS ETC. THAT ARE PART OF THE RONDOT HISTORY, AND WILL ARRANGE TO HAVE COPIES MADE. WE THEN WENT

EXT DOOR OVER TO MRS. SAMUEL RONDOT'S HOUSE TO MEET HER, WE FOUND A VERY SPRY WOMEN OF 88. WHO ^{ALSO} HAD MANY PICTURES, INCLUDING A VERY FANCY ALBUM MADE UP FOR THERE GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY - IT HAD CONGRADULATIONS FROM THE POPE, QUEEN, HEAD MAN OF PARLIMENT, ETC A VERY IMPRESSIVE BOOK. SHE MENTIONED THE NAME GIRARDIOT MANY TIMES, AND URSULE SAID THAT SHE HAD ^{OFTEN} WRITTEN TO A ^{MRS.} GIRARDOT WHO PLAYED THE ORGAN AT NEW HAVEN, IND. CHURCH, AND THAT A HAND WE DOWN STORY IS THAT THE GIRARDOT'S AND RONDOT'S WERE NEIGHBORS IN FRANCE.

AS THE TIME WAS GETTING LATE WE LEFT ^{AROUND} ABOUT 4:00 PM

AND STOPPED AT THE STONEY POINT CEMETERY WHICH LIES ABOUT $\frac{1}{2}$ MILE NORTH OF THE CHURCH, ON ^{THE} ROAD TOWARDS THE LAKE. WE THEN PROCEED WEST ON BLACK TOP ROAD TO TOWN OF BELLE RIVER, WHERE WE ~~STAYED~~ TO INQUIRE AT ST SIMONS AND JUDES CHURCH RECTORY, ^{IF THERE WAS ANY RECORD OF JOHN AND DOROTHEA BLANK'S WEDDING} AND FOUND THAT CHURCH RECORDS

ONLY GO BACK TO 1958 - AND THAT PRIOR RECORDS WERE DESTROYED BY FIRE. HAVING COMPLETED OUR MISSION WE PROCEEDED SOUTH TO INTER STATE HWY 401 AND DROVE INTO WINDSOR - STOPPING FOR LUNCH, THEN

PG7

ON THRU THE TUNNEL INTO DETROIT - WE THEN TRAVELED NORTH ON I 75 TO 14 MILE ROAD
THEN EAST TO MR - MRS SEBESTIAN EIPRID'S HOME
AT 11142 FORRER, STERLING HTS, MICH., AFTER A OVER NIGHT VIST, WITH SEB AND GERMAINE, AND A SPECIAL SIDE TRIP IN THE MORNING, TO RE OFFICE ^{BUILDING} WHERE GERMAINE WORKS IN TROY, ^{TOWN OF} WE LEFT AND TRAVELED BACK TO FT. WAYNE, ^{BY INTERSTATE HIWAYS,} ARRIVING HOME
ABOUT 4'O'CLOCK FRIDAY 25, -

1. The first part of the paper is devoted to a general discussion of the problem. It is shown that the problem is of great importance in the theory of differential equations. The second part is devoted to the study of the properties of the solutions of the equation. It is shown that the solutions are unique and that they depend continuously on the initial conditions. The third part is devoted to the study of the asymptotic properties of the solutions. It is shown that the solutions tend to zero as the independent variable tends to infinity.

2. In the fourth part of the paper, the problem is solved for a special case. It is shown that the solutions are given by a certain integral. The fifth part is devoted to the study of the properties of the solutions of the equation. It is shown that the solutions are unique and that they depend continuously on the initial conditions. The sixth part is devoted to the study of the asymptotic properties of the solutions. It is shown that the solutions tend to zero as the independent variable tends to infinity.

FAMILY HISTORY

Edward Milton Rondot, born 3-24-1888, in Fort Wayne, Allen County, Indiana, the second son and second child of Eugene Frank and Anna Alice (Ervin) Rondot, residents of Fort Wayne.

Edward's parents lived at 1817 Wells Street, and he obtained his education in the area public schools. His Mother, Anna died when he was about 15 years old, 6-6-1903 and he carried on in spite of this great loss. The Fort Wayne city directory shows that he worked at various kinds of jobs that advanced his mechanical inclinations.

1904	Clerk	M.L. Jones	Boards	1817 Wells
1905	Apprentice		"	"
1906	Bench Hand		"	"
1908	Machinist	G. E. Co.	"	"
1909	Machinist	Rolf & Martin Co.	"	"

From the above it is safe to assume that he left for California some time around 1910, and he started to work for Southern California Edison Power Co. about 1911.

He was married 5-31-1916, to Mrs Zella Verona Coffey (Henry) in Los Angeles. She was born 5-8-1885, in Kansas, the daughter of Alexander and Josephine () Coffey, of Kansas. The marriage license issued in Ventura County, California.

The Couple lived in Alhambra, Calif. and they had two children, Edward Eugene, born 1-4-1917 and Zella Violet, born 4-12-1920.

Mr. Rondot advanced to position of General Manager of Transportation, retiring after 42 years of service. He used his inventive mind to influence truck manufacturers to change rear end ratio's to fit the California mountains and hilly roads they traveled installing Hydro electric, transformers, generators and hi-tension lines. He wrote papers covering the many inovative changes he brought about. No doubt stories could be written about his encounters with snows and bad weather in the High Sierra's.

His wife Zella, preceeded him in death, passing away in 10-30- 1963.

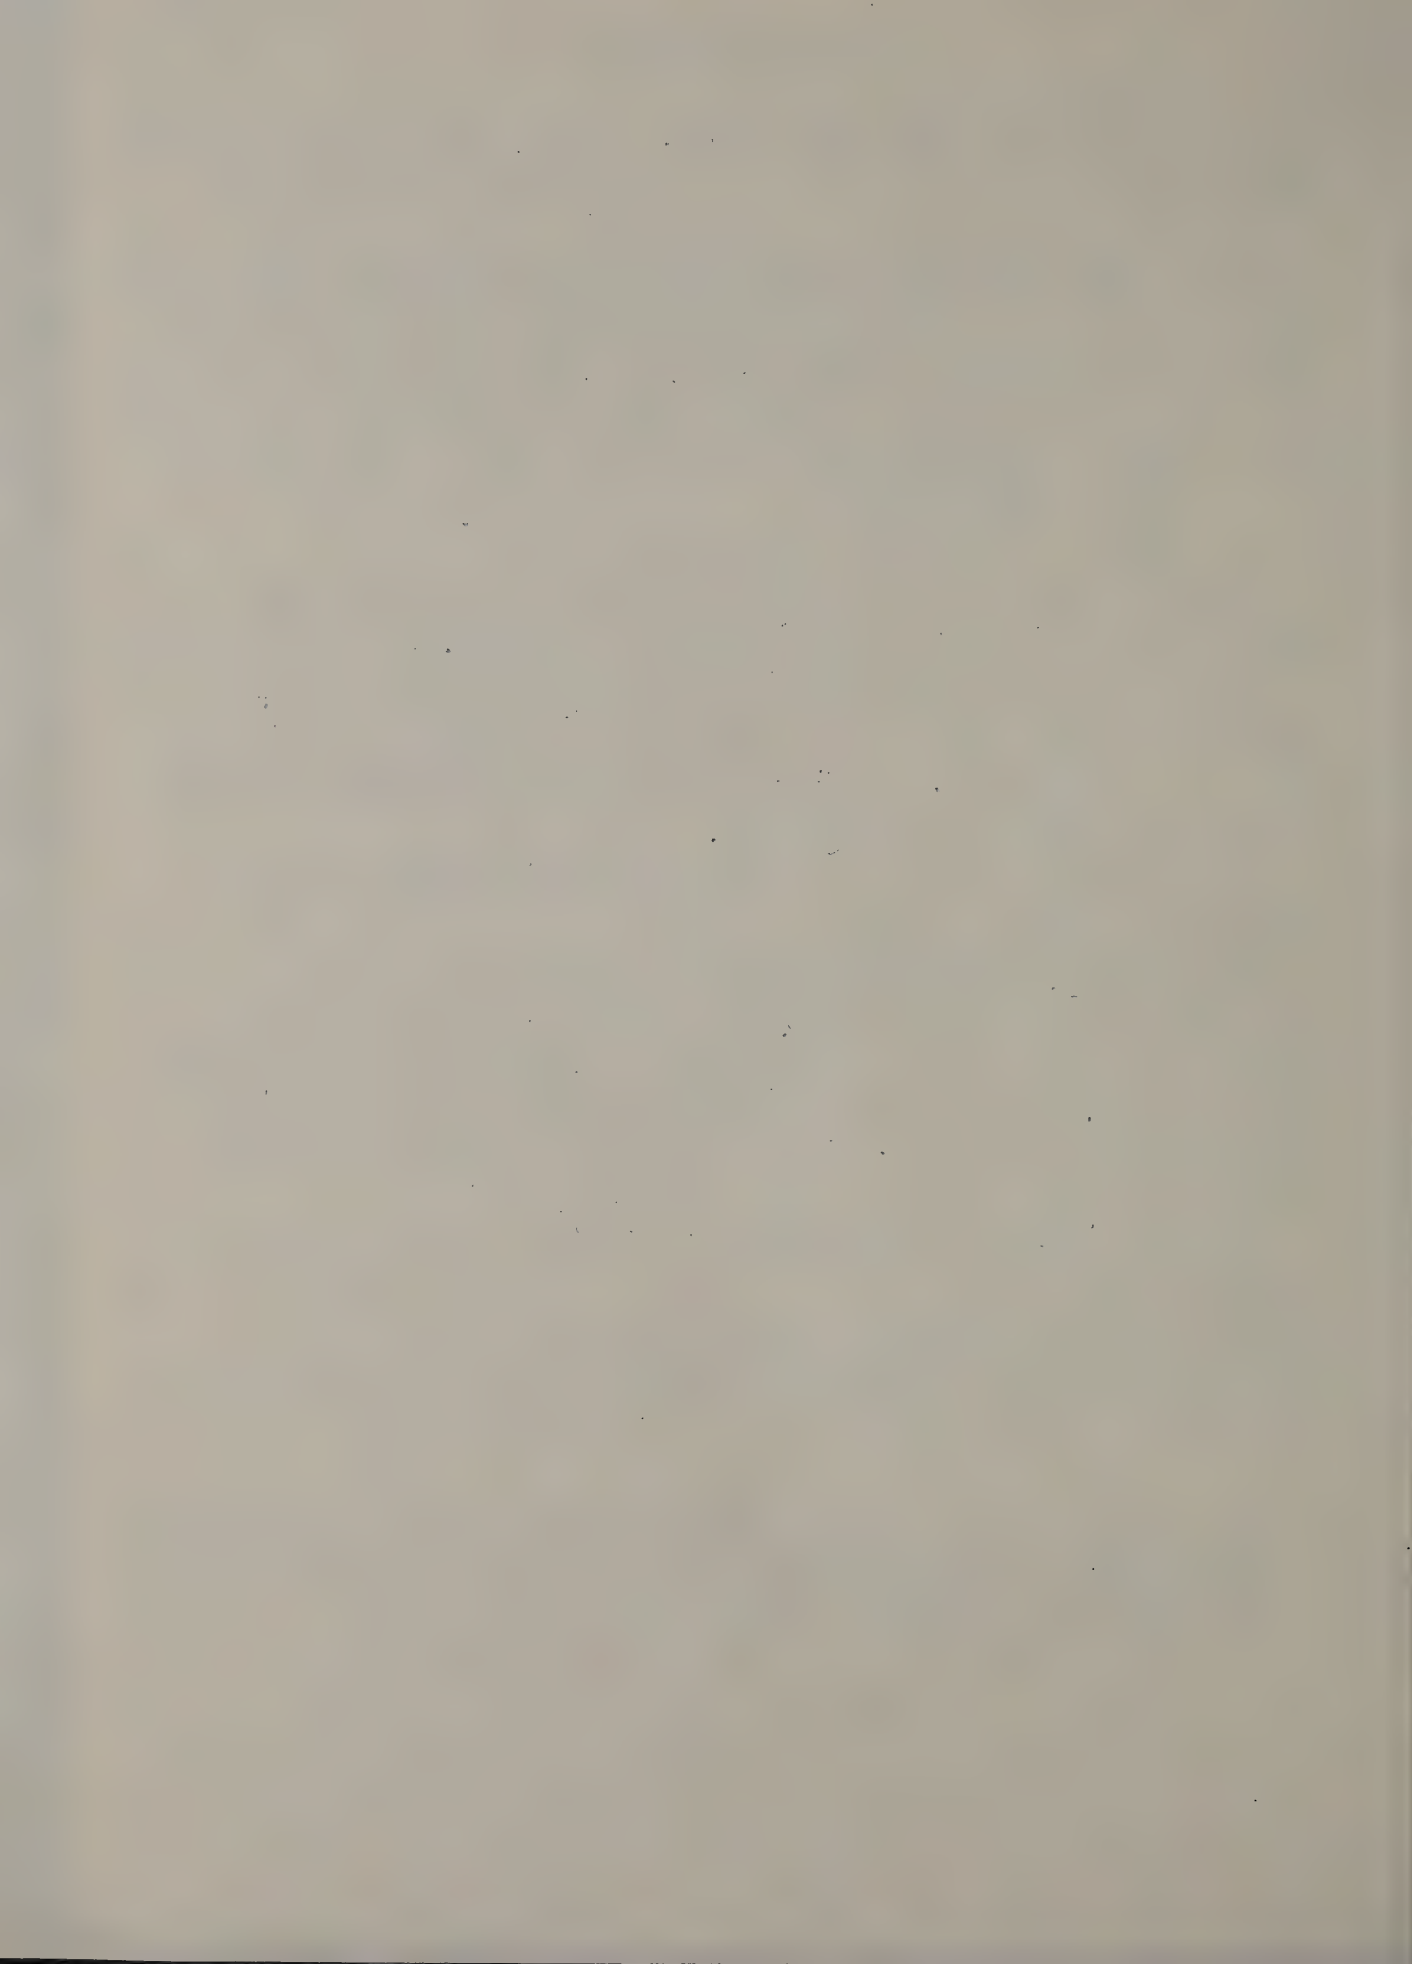

Ed, as he was known, died 9-14-1964 and is buried in Inglewood Park Cemetery, Inglewood, California.

This closes the chapter on a hard working, loving father who left a son to carry foreward the "Rondot" name.

-Notes-

Mrs Rondot, had a daughter Hazel Henry: by her 1st Marriage, Zella was an artist in her own right, being an entertainer and professional whistler.

In all, our year was very satisfying, we enjoyed a very successful year. The company ended with a comfortable profit.
Everyone learned a great deal about marketing and sales, not to mention production!

From the beginning of this fiscal period, not many of us realized the responsibilities a participant in a small company encounters.
Each person left the building owning one item, I was happy.
It was the major part of J.A.

Major supporters of Junior Achievement is the free enterprise supporters in our community, the businesses and you our shareholders.
All of our decisions are in the interest of you and every stockholder. You are a vital influence and we thank you gratefully.

To end this year of learning and growth, we are planning a recreational group trip to Cedar Point.
The year was possible because of you, this is the culmination of an experience that few of us will ever forget.

Again, the company and myself thank you for your faithful investment in the future of America.

Congratulations!

You have been selected for membership in the Bishop Luers Chapter of the National Honor Society. Your selection was based upon careful consideration of your Scholarship, Service, Character and Leadership by a faculty selection committee.

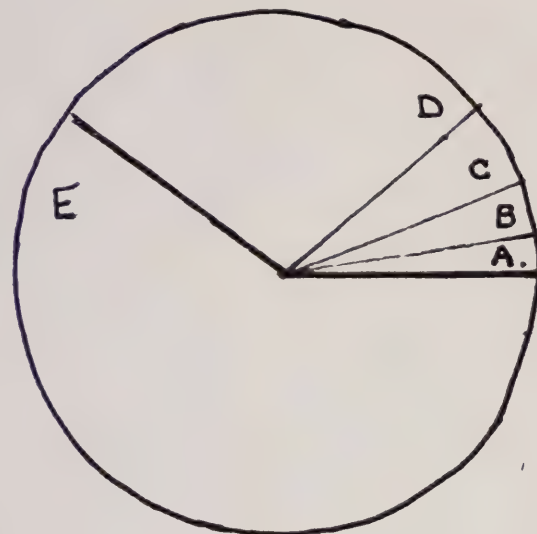

The National Honor Society ranks as one of the oldest and most prestigious national organizations for high school students. Membership, however, is more than an honor or a privilege. It incurs a responsibility and an obligation to continue to demonstrate the Society's goals of Scholarship, Service, Leadership and Character. The selection committee also recognizes that these are areas in which you have excelled during this past year and the committee encourages you to continually maintain them in your pursuit of excellence.

You are invited to attend our next meeting Sunday, March 18 at 7:00 p.m. in the Media Center. We will discuss the upcoming election of officers and discuss the topic LEADERSHIP. If you cannot attend, please see Ms. Lombardo or Ms. Rinne before Friday. It is important that you make every effort to attend.

Fiddler On The Roof

Based on Sholem Aleichem stories by special permission of Arnold Perl

Book by:	Music by:	Lyrics by:
Joseph Stein	Jerry Bock	Sheldon Harnick

Produced on the New York stage by Harold Prince Original New York Stage Production Directed and Choreographed by Jerome Robbins

The Background of Fiddler

September 22, 1964, FIDDLER ON THE ROOF opened at the Imperial Theatre in New York City. Zero Mostel was only the first in a series of great interpretations of Tevye. Surprisingly few early critics recognized this classic when they first encountered it. After all, why would Americans fall in love with a Russian Jewish family with a crocheting mother, a blustery father, and five assorted daughters? But America and 25 other countries of the world did fall in love with them and suffered through their problems. Its long run ended on July 12, 1972, after 42 performances. As of late 1976 in the United States and Canada 75 separate productions have given over 17,332 performances. Over 100 million theatregoers have seen FIDDLER, and in the United States alone these people paid $65,000,000 to see it.

In addition to winning The New York Drama Critics' Award, the New York Newspaper Guild Page One Award, and the National Catholic Theatre Conference "Best Musical" Award, FIDDLER won ten Tony Awards - Best Musical; Director - Jerome Robbins; Choreographer - Jerome Robbins; Score - Jerry Bock; Lyrics - Sheldon Harnick; Author - Joseph Stein; Actor - Zero Mostel; Featured Actress - Maria Karnilova; Costumes - Patricia Zipprodt; and Producer - Harold Prince.

Each sunrise and sunset the world has been affected and bettered because Stein and Bock saw the possibilities in Sholom Aleichem's stories. We hope your world will be better because of your acquaintance with Tevye and his family.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The staff, cast and crew, salute the parents who worked at sewing, chauffeuring, helping in so many ways. A special thanks goes to Bob Neher and Jim Lauer who built many stage properties, Steve Steckbeck for the stage paint, Mr. and Mrs. Caffray for the programs, Mr. and Mrs. John Erb for the tickets, teachers, and many others for their special help. Last our thanks goes to a community that supports us with time, work, money and its presence.

Hope is a future full of Dreams!

Student Blessing	Class of 1982

Dear God, Our Father, at the close of this graduation Mass, we ask you to bless our parents. Because of their sacrifices and their example, the seed of our Faith, planted in Baptism, has been nourished in us here at St. John's. Like clay in the hand of the potter, we have been shaped and formed by You, our parents, and our teachers into young Catholics, ready to follow the lead of the Holy Spirit. Dear God, we ask you to bless and protect our parents, give them many years of health and happiness. We ask this in the name of Jesus Christ Your Son, our Lord. Amen.

Parent Blessing

Parents of the Class of 1982

Heavenly Father, Creator of all life, we, the parents of the graduating Class of 1982, thank you for the lives of our children whom You have entrusted to us. We ask You to bless them with a strong sense of their own dignity, to grant them the gift of courage as they meet new challenges, and to strengthen them with an intense belief in You. Send Your Spirit upon them to guide them not only through their high school years, but also through all the days of their lives. We ask this through Jesus Christ, Your Son, our Lord. Amen.

GE engineers help our society by producing jet engines, nuclear plant installations, televisions, radios, clocks, air conditioners and light bulbs plus a lot more. By making these products we can see and/or hear what is going on all around the world and help take us there. They produce nuclear plant installations that help make energy. They also make things for an everyday house like electric ovens, televisions, radios, light bulbs, toaster ovens, countertop stoves, refrigerators, food processors, coffee pots, tape recorders. GE engineers make refrigerators that keep trucks cool so the food doesn't spoil. GE makes so many things that even when I am asleep we still have GE products that are still working. GE engineers work so hard they are bringing the world closer together and that is how I think they help our society.

ED RONDAT

February 5 1985

Dear Frances and Al:-

Since your last letter I spent a couple of days with Ed Rondat and his sister Zella.

Zella has cancer (terminal) but is in remission, and seems to be handling it real well.

Ed is in good shape, but has a very bad hearing problem. Other wise he is doing well.

I have been feeling fine and very busy playing at least nine holes of golf every day, some days eighteen. So there isn't much time to think about the past.

Things must have slowed down around the town and the GM plant during your unusually harsh weather. You really have had your share since the Holidays.

We have had more rain the first four days of February than we had the whole month of January. Our daily low readings are about your daily highs. Warm days and cold nights.

Haperyou and Francis continue with your good health, and able to get out of the house without freezing up.

Love
Grey

Ed:

Sorry to have to report...

Earl Eugene Rondot - expired at the Riverside Hospital at 11:45 P.M. - (2345)
18 DEC. 1982 - near his apartment which was across Colfax Ave - from his home - (now a large Condo - (32 unit.)

He had a pace-maker installed a couple of years back - arthritis swelled his knees, - was on medication, He reached 84, had exceptionally good health during his life time. He lasted 12 hours or so from the time he went to the Hospital. The medical report and death certificate I did not see; presumably Heart failure.

He was buried in Burbank - Valhalla Cemetery next to his wife Leticia, in the Mormon Section - over

His granddaughter, Betty ^{Jeffrey}, Grandson ^{Alvin} from Tacoma and his long time neighbor and friend ^{Alvin} McPowers

He, like Ed, requested no viewing no service either in the chappell or graveside.

Ed loved the ol' guy and looked in on him or called him by phone every few weeks or days.
we both love animals. he was proud yet humble. - Bits O' Olts -

" God knows how many millions of people would be carrying water in buckets - except for the emmense Bronze Pumps he supervised the building of for Byron Jackson and Lane & Bowler

His social life was his neighbors and friends he knew near the Motion Picture Studio that was close by - He knew Gene Autrey quite personally.

Hey! No Offense but how come your name or relation is not in your compilation?

Also where did Harry & Walter Konsello fit? They were chuck Artists - Angels and Gold Leaf - Their schooling was apprenticeship?

and Thanks again; at times like this, your efforts are deeply appreciated. Billie

ED. E. RONDOT

DEAR ED

GLAD TO GET YOUR LETTER, BUT SAD TO HEAR OF YOUR UNCLE, EARL'S PASSING.

WE WILL HAVE TO WATCH OUR STEPS TO MATCH
HIS, 84 YEARS. HE LIVED THRU THE EXCITING TIMES OF AN EXPANDING CALIFORNIA.

I TALKED TO HELEN ^(ROESENER) REINRING, INQUIRING ABOUT YOUR AUNT PEARL, WHO HAS REACHED 90, AND DOING FAIRLY WELL, IN THE LUTHERAN NURSING HOME. WE PLAN ON GETTING TOGETHER AND REMINISCENCE THE RONDOT GENEALOGY.

IN REGARDS TO THE RONDOT COMPILATION.
WHEN THE ^{TYPED} MANUSCRIPT PASSED 600 PAGES,

I KNEW NO ONE WOULD BE INTERESTED IN THE ADVANCE OF THAT KIND OF A BOOK, SO I DECIDED TO ARRANGE THE DATA INTO FAMILY CHAPTERS, SO THAT A COMBINATION OF CHAPTERS ^{THEM} WOULD GIVE INFORMATION BACK TO THEIR ^{FRENCH} AMERICAN ROOTS.

WHEN THE FORT WORTH PUBLIC LIBRARY, ^{GENEALOGICAL SECTION} ~~WAS HERE~~ REVIEWED ALL OF MY PREPARED ^{AND TYPED} INFORMATION THEY
TO HAVE COPIES BOUND INTO BOOKS, WITH A COPIES TO THE STATE CAPITAL, INDIANAPOLIS, ^{LIBRARY} ~~AND~~ ^{AND} THE

Dear Al:

I sent a check to B Bayley hoping that she had not ripped you off for all your hard work.

Did you by chance purchase a copy and was it your work?

Did she credit you? etc, ...!!?

We had a beautiful Marine Major

Elizabeth Toots Updegraff (Paesner; Gene's daughter) for a short visit on her way home to Salt Lake, from Training in San Diego Navy Base.

One thing I can say about the clan They were gifted and brainy!

I don't if I mentioned to you the Air Force measured my IQ at 169
Near Genio they told me - after the Wars End!!!

I've enjoyed my life. Had the best, and still going at 67

I'm arthritis cursed, Hearing half-shot, etc. However my mind is still clicking well.

I admired your painstaking research of a group of non-writer

Earl is gone no suffering. I get a card from Jerry Rendot in San Diego at Christmas time - he's OK and his

it's kind of a shame that address and telephone numbers (at a given date) were not a part. I haven't the slightest idea of who else is nearby!

Dear Al:

I called Jerry, he sounded very well and in good spirits. He has always been athletic, kept in good shape and I believe he probably still adheres to his religion which can give one strength. He in turn called my sister, ^{Zella} who is terminal, yet bowls and does other activities. Zella had not heard of Alice's death. Jerry said he'd come visit. He also mentioned his mother's death occurring about the time of Earls.

al, I sent to "Bayley" for the list of Rondots, mostly because I wanted to know how she had compiled her data and to afford you a comparison study. Since I suspected she had acquired access to some computer facility, which in the sheet she sent revealed explaining where and how it was obtained.

you may keep the book she compiled I'll send it to you for you to digest!

2 since it was your "project" and you made it available to us; you deserve something more than just the pleasure of "digging" and "knowing".

I am nearly certain that she did not trace the family to or into France and the Farmers or various offshoots as you did.

If you find there is any additional information or things of interest, such as a coat of arms, which I doubt then you may want to add it to your very accurate and conscientious study.

al clin. going to tell you more about myself - not be modest - clin 67 - there were genetic brain cells in our family and I have always felt very, very, lucky. The Air Force measured my I.Q. at 169 (near genius). My father wanted me to become an Electric Engineer - I took interest in it and as I graduated from High School I took and passed the entrance exam to Cal. Tech.

I had been visiting there all through High School. I had lab privileges there.

al"
I was inside the 1,000,000 Volt Copper sphere during the actual discharge. I watched the students and Profs test sample designs, and composition materials in their huge hydraulic press; Chemical experiments and watched the 200" Mt Palomar Mirror being polished during the various stages from start to finish (nearly two years).
In addition my father took me ~~with~~ with him quite often. I spent many hours in each of the various shops he supervised - had free-run. This enhanced my mechanical & electrical knowledge, he also took me along on his job travels to the East coast. to Chrysler Mac Truck Ford and G.M. where he was consulted about vehicle needs, gear-ratios needed in the West differed from the East (mountains), Truck winches etc built into the chassis of the trucks, power take-offs.
... All this time I was "drawing" and sending pictures and notes to my mother as well as seeing a lot of U.S. Her family had produced several Artists before my time. I was also intrigued with Walter & Harry Russell.

4. an event happened that my father didn't know was that my art teachers had been collecting my stuff - submitted them to Chouinard Art Institute, (now a recognized College.) it turned out that I was offered a part time scholarship and being quite independent like my father - chose my own path - not his - he blew his top.!

Later in life after I had worked at 20th Century Fox Film Studios and a couple of other stints. I landed a very lucrative and satisfying career with the City of L.A. Pl.

He (dad) finally accepted that I was better off and apologized admitting that he had wanted me to get a degree -

Neither of us graduated from College however I have more College Credits than those with Masters Degrees -

I hated English - I took French and Spanish. However - I didn't discover until after the war that I had been born with Nerve-Deafness. I took four years of Latin in school and because of "it" was able to pass such exams as "Landscape Architecture" associate for the City of L.A. while the College people failed it."

Howard & William House are doctors ("Reagan's doctor.") said, "how the hell you became a fighter pilot he'd never understand."

(I tried Howard and turned up the Volume)
I suppose that was why Foreign Language & English were so very hard for me - I couldn't hear the subtle inflections!

I've enjoyed my life immensely. I tell my wife that I've lived better and finer than any king and haven't had to worry about being poisoned or otherwise eliminated

We live in a small but very nice home at an elevation of 2,055 feet A.S.L. and the Views of the Mountains from my Studio and our living room are excitingly beautiful

I was never politically ambitious nor over social - yet I had all the "Power" I ever wanted! I've never liked to supervise other people unless they all liked their work and knew where they wanted to go and why - like leading a fighter squadron! So many people do not like their work and very few have a choice.

6. I was second in command of 25 artists, photographers and draftsmen.

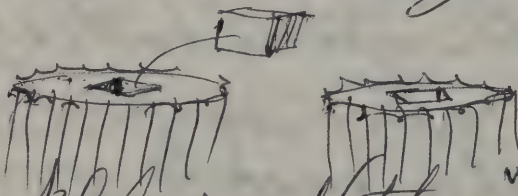

I respect and enjoy math - but I did not want to do it all day long as in grade

The new advantages and uses of calculators and computers is fantastic and unlimited intelligence is a hell of a lot more than simply memorizing and writing down answers or putting "X's" in the correct box.

I dispute the way education is measured - when I travel I dig into the subjects...

I'm in Greece we had a guide that had a doctorate in Archaeology. I ask - what % of cement was used to fasten the columns of the Parthenon (Acropolis) together, that had withstood 2000 years of earthquakes.

"after cutting a cube and fitting it into each segment to align the flutes

they sprinkled sand (the "best" white) on each end, topped it with charcoal set it afire and used a bellows to melt it then lowered them together !!! - so now you know why I'm such a smart-ass! ha

I'm innovative and inventive, I have always enjoyed designing and solving real projects, not just answers. I have built many things even raised an existing roof over a room to make a studio about eight or more feet in height, and did it alone. I've always done all my own mechanical, Electrical, Architectural and love landscaping - water falls and all!

I hope you forgive me but I felt you might better understand my dad and I.
I hope you don't judge me as abnoxious
I'm not - I'm simply thankful.

I am not like Jerry - he loved people all of 'em. I do not I have a number of very good friends that understand me and tolerate my temper - which I think is cooling down in my later years.

My wife said, a long time ago, "you come on like a ton of bricks, or an elephant," but after they get to know you ^(they love them) they are gentle you are gentle understanding and good!" (balony)
over

G. will, it was nice of her to say that.

I am supposed to get Bayly's Book in about five weeks - so hang in there - I'll scan it, then send it to you I've always found it fun to compare notes. It is the way I learn.

I think you will agree. as I feel you are a pretty nice guy and well educated - you did a commendable job

Please forgive -

. I never learned to spell

ALFRED LONDOT

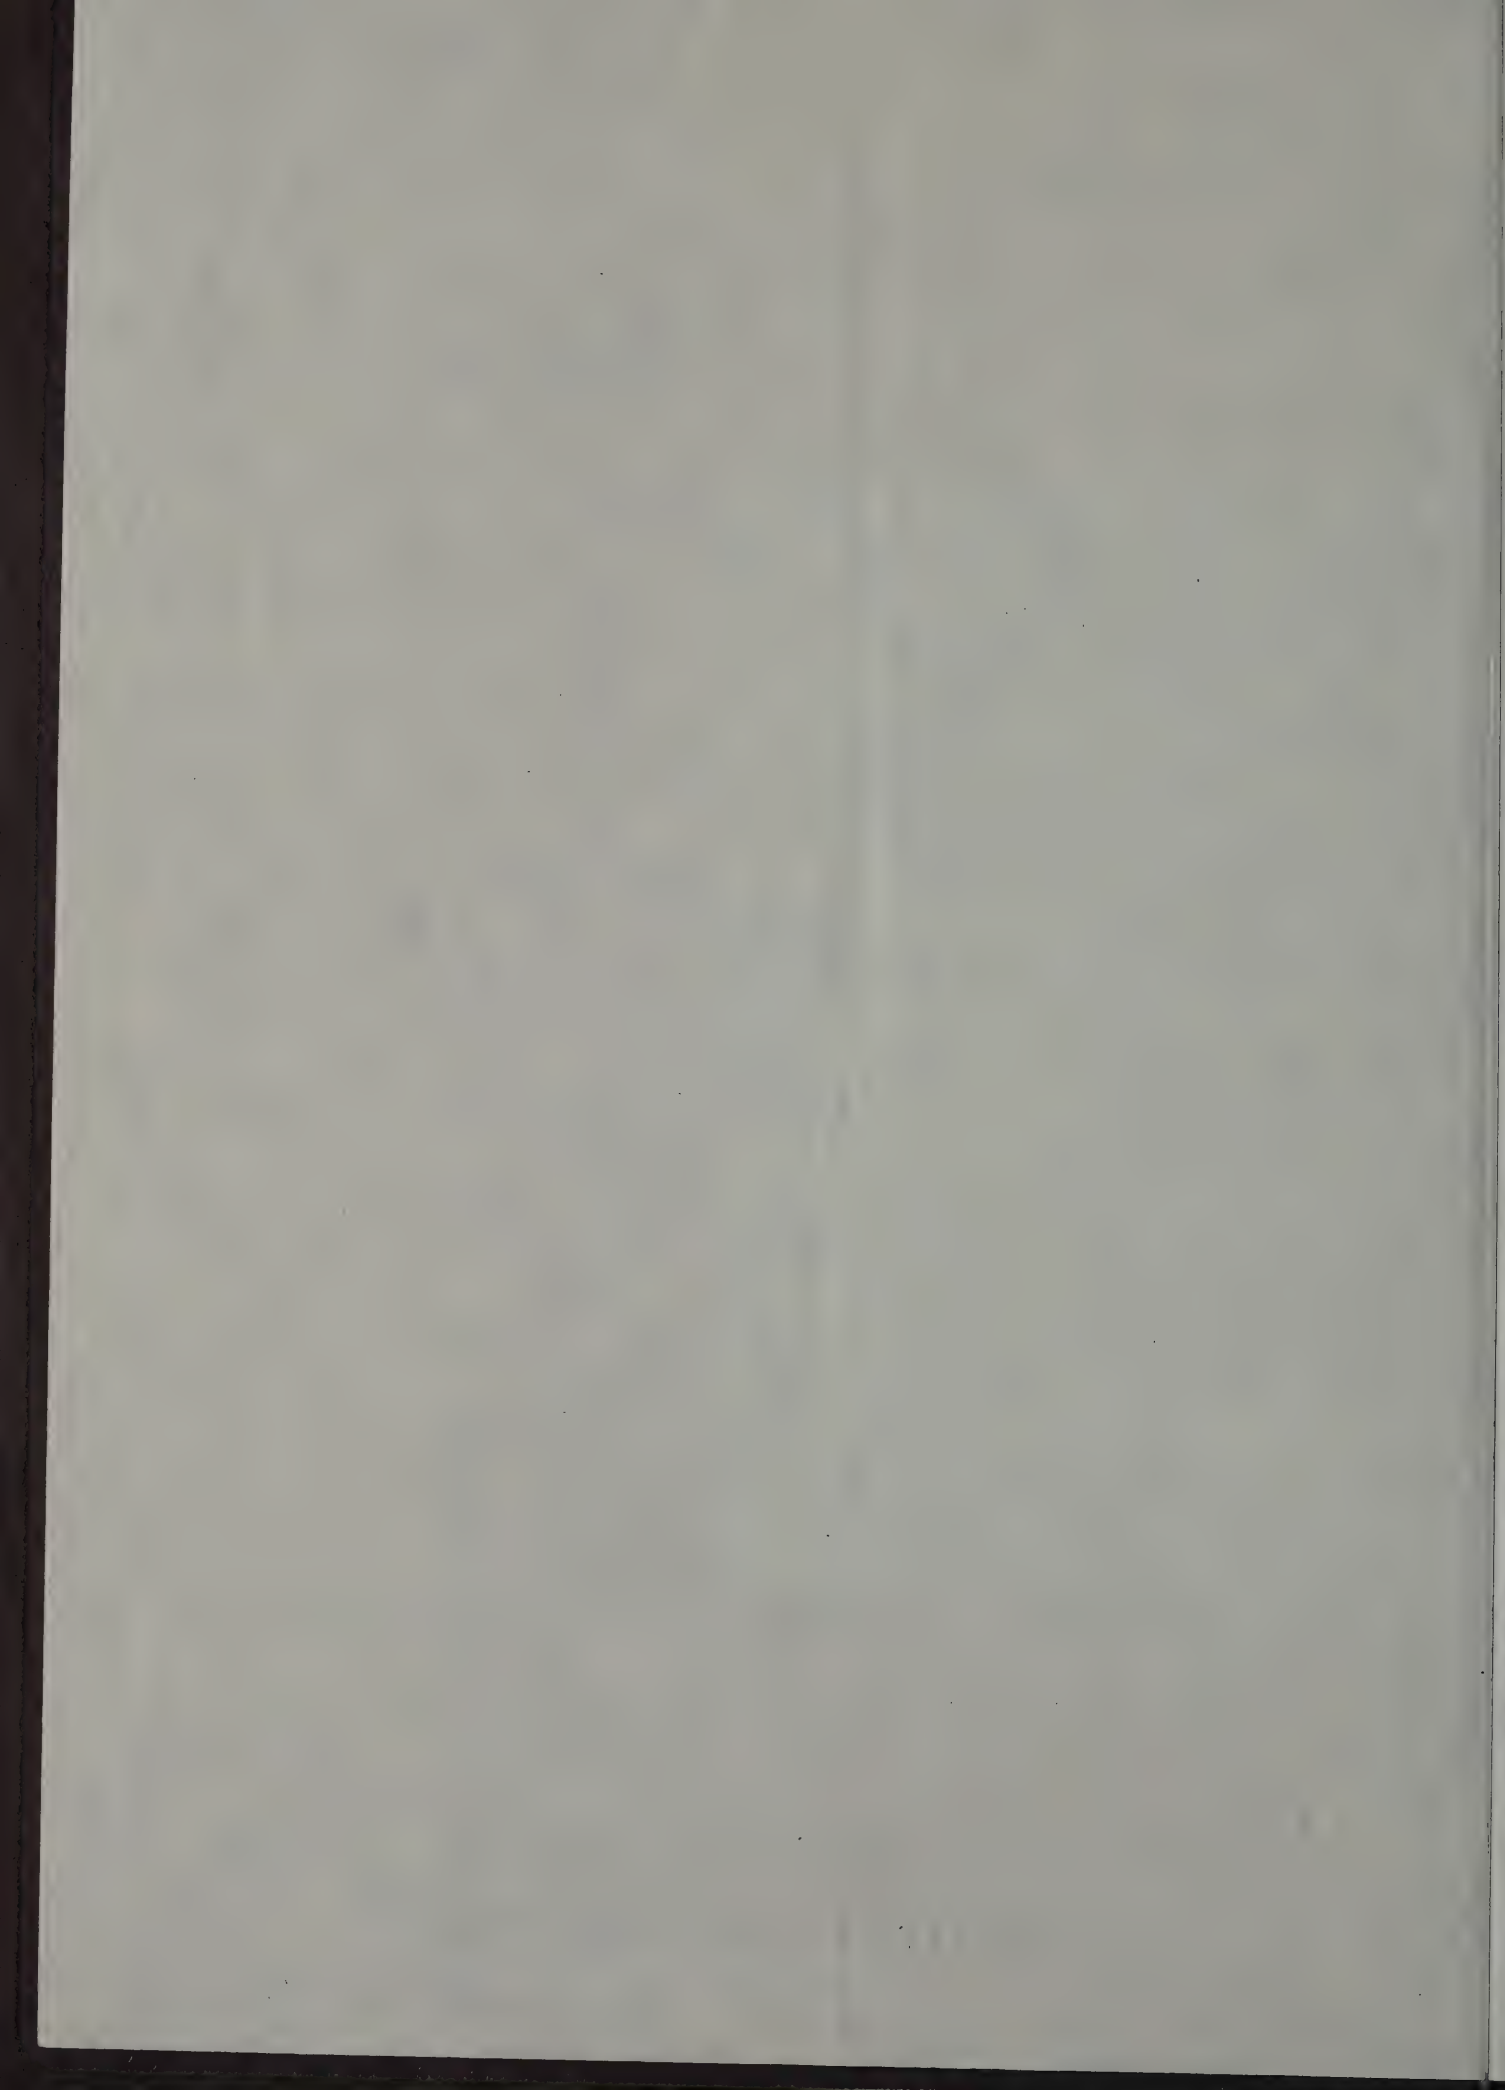

Dear Al :

Each time we write I go back to read more of your hard work! you are something else!; so are your children - I enjoyed their notes they took in France, Brief, direct, Great!

I wondered if they would be prevailed upon to afford me a duplicate set of their Kodachrome they took in Athathons? I'm enclosing a check for twenty five, please have them accept the extra for their next trip! Their time and trip should be compensated because I'll never make it to that area and I appreciate their sharing.

I've always been fiercely Patriotic, just for the schooling and opportunity afforded me and my children and my ancestors every since they paved the way for us.

Our Political and economic and Judicial systems, no doubt, could be improved, I am fond of Tom Jefferson - Greed and corruption are hard to control, especially in a democratic system such as ours - and so far it's so much farther ahead of any other form, to date.

As a group the Rendos have literally made it from the ground up. (Funny though, it was my mother that taught me to love the soil.) I always have, and I consider Nature the ultimate adventure and beauty on earth.

- to continue - those humble farmers helped us to select any field of endeavor we selected. I may be proud, but by God I'll always be humble. I do wish I had not been born with nerve deafness.

Foreign Language was nearly impossible for me I could not even hear the soft endings nor the inflections. I took Spanish and four years of Latin which, thank God, has helped me many times.

I honestly am rather pleased with your findings. I'd rather be from humble people than some descendant of Royalty or some other puffed up ancestry. With my vivid imagination I wondered, after I learned from history that the French had pretty well put a pincers movement on America - Hudsons Bay and New Orleans. I always wondered if some ^{Rondels} were with La Fille, the pirate, perhaps went up the Mississippi and Missouri to become trappers or from Montreal who went South?

You kinda blew that one for me; and I was impressed by the democratic habits of the French - like no other Europeans, usually married a woman in any country they resided in. Even Claire Charault! I always figured an American Indian or two somehow entered our tribe. One did, a Cherokee - mother of two of my kids.

Well if I'm going to get my crazy Christmas Cards off I'll wish you and the whole tribe Merry Christmas and a Fantastic New Year

My father was inventive and innovative. The truck manufacturers

I received this Arms bit in the mail! I never heard of farmers having a coat of arms unless he had a title? I thought you might want to check it out.

I doubt this instinctively!
By the way cousin artists and engineers each have an order about their tools and effects.

I've often described an artists palette and his thought as "order within apparent disorder; something akin to trees in the wild. The wind blows the cones so they fall and grow where the large parent trees protect them; also the sun is usually on this same side when needed.

So goes a palette, the most used color is placed and mixed in a closer proximity to its use. My papers are in boxes in a similar fashion.

They zoned the area L-4 and put up large apartment houses all around his property.

I helped him, as I could, to get rid of many "old" things his wife had stored away.

She was Mormon, worked as they do for the church, she had stored bars of soap ^(some) cans of fruit etc.

They had "Grandpa's Pine Tar Soap" today sold for $1.00/lb. a collectors item!

He made over $1,000.00 on a garage sale. He was delighted.

He wants his daughter to inherit the entire proceeds which he had already named her as half owner; But to avoid Uncle Sam I suggested he buy her home in Washington and that she build another or even better an apartment house.

I wish he would take a few bucks and see a bit of the world he is in really good shape except his teeth - he won't even go for plates!

I needle him, I told him to get a traveling "Companion" to go to Paris with. I tell him he doesn't have to get married these days.

He called just now, to give his address, he wanted us to come see his new apartment on the ground floor, with a pool yet!

I don't recall your sending me a Bill for your very comprehensive file on our family. It was excellent. It was certainly a challenge for you and I for one appreciate it. I would never have had the patience, especially to keep writing to people who don't answer or don't write!

Jerry came up for a visit - saw my sister and Earl and called me.

I invited him to stay anytime. He sure stays in shape too.

Edward Eugene Rondot, born 1-4-1917, in Los Angeles, Los Angeles County, California, the only son of Edward Milton and Zella ~~Veronica Coffee~~ (Henry) Rondot, residents of Los Angeles. Verona Coffey

Edward, or young "Ed" as he is known, attended grade and high schools and graduated from Chouinard Art Institute. After completion of his schooling he started to work at 20th Century Fox on special effects.

He married Miss Eva Mae Jorgenson, 9-16-1938, and they had one daughter Elaine Francine Rondot, born 9-3-~~1940~~. They were divorced in 1945. 1941

Early in World War II, Edward was in Texas going thru flying school for fighter pilots and later became a flying instructor.

While in Texas, he met and later married his second wife, Edna Thea Davis (McWilliams) on 4-22-1946. They had two children, Cherie Andre Rondot, born 10-27-~~1946~~ and Jean Pierre Rondot, born 2-19-~~1948~~. 1947 1948

Ed. always used his artistic talents, working eight years for Southern California Edison on animated displays. He later obtained employment with the City of Los Angeles as Planning Illustrator. In this work he has taken a series of photos from the air and has donated them as a collection to the Los Angeles Central Public Library.

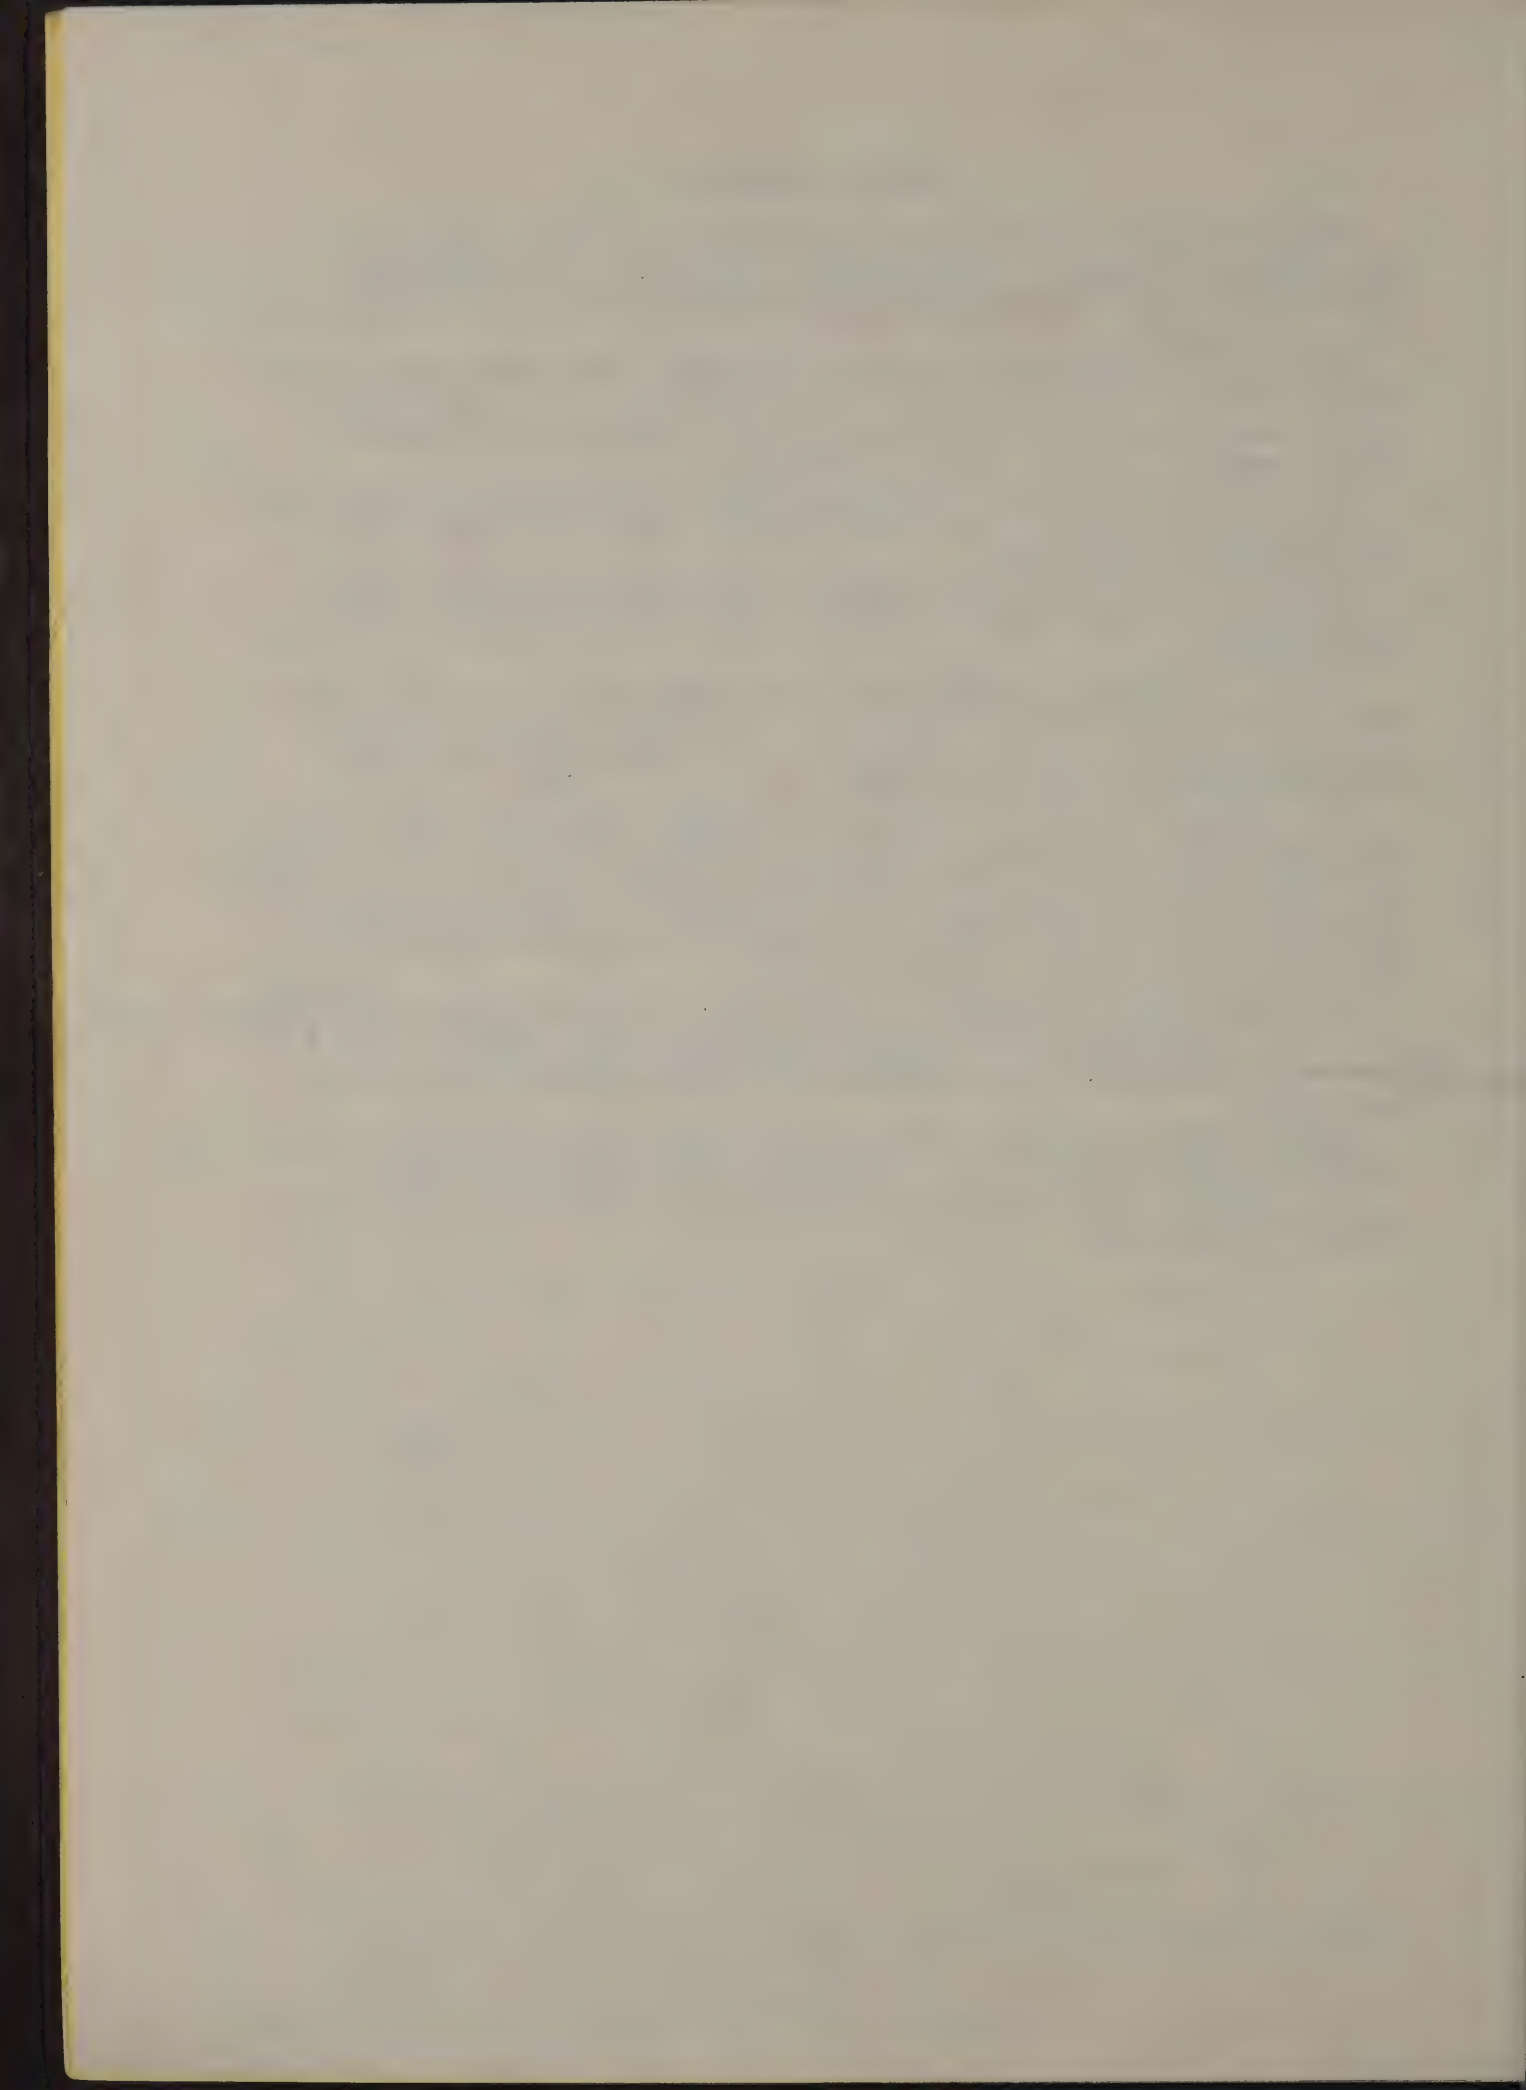

Edna and Ed, disagreed, broke up, and were divorced. W/1967 maiden name ALTERNAN) A few years later Mr. Rondot married Mrs. ~~Bulah Faye Cooke~~ Flanery (~~Flanery~~). Her husband had been killed in an auto accident.

Edward and his new wife have traveled extensively, to Tahitti, Bora Bora, etc., painting and photographing.

Mr. Rondot plans on early retirement so he can devote his time to painting.

1. The first part of the paper is devoted to a general discussion of the problem of the existence of a solution of the system of equations (1) for arbitrary values of the parameters $\alpha, \beta, \gamma, \delta, \epsilon, \zeta, \eta, \theta, \iota, \kappa, \lambda, \mu, \nu, \xi, \omicron, \pi, \rho, \sigma, \tau, \upsilon, \phi, \chi, \psi, \omega, \varphi, \eta, \theta, \iota, \kappa, \lambda, \mu, \nu, \xi, \omicron, \pi, \rho, \sigma, \tau, \upsilon, \phi, \chi, \psi, \omega, \varphi$.

2. In the second part we shall consider the case when the parameters $\alpha, \beta, \gamma, \delta, \epsilon, \zeta, \eta, \theta, \iota, \kappa, \lambda, \mu, \nu, \xi, \omicron, \pi, \rho, \sigma, \tau, \upsilon, \phi, \chi, \psi, \omega, \varphi$ are not arbitrary but satisfy certain conditions.

3. The third part of the paper is devoted to a detailed analysis of the case when the parameters $\alpha, \beta, \gamma, \delta, \epsilon, \zeta, \eta, \theta, \iota, \kappa, \lambda, \mu, \nu, \xi, \omicron, \pi, \rho, \sigma, \tau, \upsilon, \phi, \chi, \psi, \omega, \varphi$ are not arbitrary but satisfy certain conditions.

4. In the fourth part we shall consider the case when the parameters $\alpha, \beta, \gamma, \delta, \epsilon, \zeta, \eta, \theta, \iota, \kappa, \lambda, \mu, \nu, \xi, \omicron, \pi, \rho, \sigma, \tau, \upsilon, \phi, \chi, \psi, \omega, \varphi$ are not arbitrary but satisfy certain conditions.

5. The fifth part of the paper is devoted to a detailed analysis of the case when the parameters $\alpha, \beta, \gamma, \delta, \epsilon, \zeta, \eta, \theta, \iota, \kappa, \lambda, \mu, \nu, \xi, \omicron, \pi, \rho, \sigma, \tau, \upsilon, \phi, \chi, \psi, \omega, \varphi$ are not arbitrary but satisfy certain conditions.

6. In the sixth part we shall consider the case when the parameters $\alpha, \beta, \gamma, \delta, \epsilon, \zeta, \eta, \theta, \iota, \kappa, \lambda, \mu, \nu, \xi, \omicron, \pi, \rho, \sigma, \tau, \upsilon, \phi, \chi, \psi, \omega, \varphi$ are not arbitrary but satisfy certain conditions.

7. The seventh part of the paper is devoted to a detailed analysis of the case when the parameters $\alpha, \beta, \gamma, \delta, \epsilon, \zeta, \eta, \theta, \iota, \kappa, \lambda, \mu, \nu, \xi, \omicron, \pi, \rho, \sigma, \tau, \upsilon, \phi, \chi, \psi, \omega, \varphi$ are not arbitrary but satisfy certain conditions.

8. In the eighth part we shall consider the case when the parameters $\alpha, \beta, \gamma, \delta, \epsilon, \zeta, \eta, \theta, \iota, \kappa, \lambda, \mu, \nu, \xi, \omicron, \pi, \rho, \sigma, \tau, \upsilon, \phi, \chi, \psi, \omega, \varphi$ are not arbitrary but satisfy certain conditions.

9. The ninth part of the paper is devoted to a detailed analysis of the case when the parameters $\alpha, \beta, \gamma, \delta, \epsilon, \zeta, \eta, \theta, \iota, \kappa, \lambda, \mu, \nu, \xi, \omicron, \pi, \rho, \sigma, \tau, \upsilon, \phi, \chi, \psi, \omega, \varphi$ are not arbitrary but satisfy certain conditions.

10. In the tenth part we shall consider the case when the parameters $\alpha, \beta, \gamma, \delta, \epsilon, \zeta, \eta, \theta, \iota, \kappa, \lambda, \mu, \nu, \xi, \omicron, \pi, \rho, \sigma, \tau, \upsilon, \phi, \chi, \psi, \omega, \varphi$ are not arbitrary but satisfy certain conditions.

☪ GENTLEST Heart of Jesus ever present in the Blessed Sacrament, ever consumed with burning love for the poor captive souls in Purgatory have mercy on the soul of Thy departed servant. Be not severe in Thy judgement but let some drops of Thy Precious Blood fall upon the devouring flames, and do Thou O merciful Saviour send Thy angels to conduct Thy departed servant to a place of refreshment, light and peace. Amen.

May the souls of the faithful departed, through the mercy of God, rest in peace. Amen.

THANK YOU SO MUCH FOR THE PAPERS
IN OUR FAMILY TREE. IT IS VERY INTERESTING TO READ THE HISTORY AND SEE THE PICTURES FROM SO LONG AGO. I KNOW YOU HAVE PUT IN MANY HOURS ON THIS AND I REALLY APPRECIATE IT.

IT IS POSSIBLE WE WILL GET TO ONTARIO IN FEB. OR MARCH AND IF WE DO I WILL LOOK YOU UP. I WILL TRY AND BRING SOME PICTURES OF MY DAD AND MY SISTER'S FAMILY ALONG ^{AND INFORMATION} TO BRING MY FAMILY UP TO DATE.

Dear Ph

Glad to hear from you. We had often wondered whether you completed the Family Tree Project.

I would like very much to have a copy. Let me know how much expense is involved so I can reimburse you.

The employment card of my Grandfather was very interesting and it was nice of you to send it to me.

I remember my Grandfather well. I used to enjoy sharing his bedtime snack of crackers and milk.

We haven't been to Fort Wayne for

IF you ever get to Michigan, I Hope you will stop in for a visit.

Dear Grandma & Grandpa.

Well, I arrived in one piece, as did the car and all of my stuff. Everything looks good as to courses and housing and meals so I'm all set. My roommate is a sophomore from New Jersey, named Ted Schaefer. We arrived at about the same time on Wed so we were cooperating on the placement of beds & chairs and such right from the start. We started carrying boxes in about 3 PM, took for dinner for 2 hours and still had everything put away by midnight. Classes start on Tues so everybody on campus is taking things slow and easy this weekend while some of the upper classmen are still moving in. Well it's time to go to dinner, steamed crab feast tonight, so take care of yourselves and think of me.

Dear Grandma + Grandpa,

Well, I made it all the way to DC without any hitches or car trouble or any other problems and boy, is it beautiful here! So far I've only had a chance to see the campus and the Georgetown area, but what I've seen is fantastic! I did a little shopping and sightseeing down around M street and Georgetown U and had a chance to go to one of the nicest bars/disco combos in the area. The place is called Winston's and caters mostly to the college crowd so it's a really easy going establishment.

The campus here is really nice. There's 75 acres of buildings, athletic fields and just woods here on the edge of Georgetown in NW D.C. My dorm is Anderson Hall + that's part of the Anderson-Lett complex that houses about 1400 students. I got lucky and have a first floor room in the corner with the showers and laundry right across the hall. I couldn't ask for more! My roommate is Ted Schaer and is from New Jersey and is a sophomore majoring in Political Science. We get along very well as we share tastes in music, reading material, study habits and so on. So far we haven't had any problems with study times conflicting because Ted hits the books just as hard as I do as he's trying to get into law school.

My academic program is looking pretty good as I got the important courses that I needed for my degree while they did some fudging around with my electives, but that's alright by me. The physics people here are really attuned to the students needs and wants. Last Fri afternoon the department had a party for all the profs & physics majors. It was very interesting and I found out that one of the profs is interested in accelerators and so I gave him a copy of my report and we're supposed to talk later this week. Also they invited me and the other majors to go sailing out on Chesapeake Bay next Sat AM. That should be interesting and exciting!

Anyway I have to get back to studying so thank you once again for everything

Status Report:
Gregory A. Rondot

JSHS Participant 1977, 1978, 1979

After graduation from Bishop Luers High School in Fort Wayne, IN in 1979, Mr. Rondot attended The American University in Washington, D.C. and majored in Physics and Computer Science. He had a remarkable undergraduate career as he was an undergraduate research assistant to Dr. Ben Chertok of AU's Physics Department and developed experimental apparatus for the graduate seminars nuclear scattering experiments. He also served as the lead programmer/analyst for the university's Budget and Planning Dept. There he was responsible for developing the computer graphics to represent various aspects of the university's financial position for presentation to the Board of Trustees. He was also responsible for developing communications between the university's IBM 370 and the graphics computer in the Budget and Planning Dept.

After leaving AU in the spring of 1980, Mr. Rondot worked for a NASA contractor at the Goddard Space Flight Center in Greenbelt, Maryland. He was a systems programmer on the Metric Data Facility (MDF) project in which the data base computers of NASA's global Satellite Tracking Data Network (STDN) were replaced with newer models. In this effort, Mr. Rondot was responsible for design and implementation of the real-time data logging and validation task and the redundant data manager that insured that the MDF network lost no data once a message came in from STDN.

Following the MDF project, Mr. Rondot founded a consulting firm that specialized in small business computers and software for the securities industry. It deals primarily with stock broker support systems, portfolio evaluation packages, and other financial software for both eight and sixteen bit microcomputers. The firm now includes Paine Webber, EF Hutton, Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, and the Federal National Mortgage Association (Fannie May) among its clients.

Currently, Mr. Rondot is working for a government contractor as Manager of Microcomputer Software Development. He is primarily responsible for aiding various project teams in developing modeling and tracking software for the Manpower, Personnel and Training section of the US Navy. He is also responsible for the firms entry into the commercial marketplace as they have recently introduced a series of microcomputer software products for the financial community.

Mr. Rondot was married in June 1982 to Ms. Marie Sorg of Washington, D.C. who is a programmer/analyst for one of the regulatory agencies in the D.C. area. They currently reside in a townhouse in Springfield, Virginia with their two cats.

Local Teens Winners Of Science Event

Three local high school students were named winners at the recent Junior Science and Humanities Symposium, sponsored by Indiana State University in Terre Haute.

Michael E. Lomont, Bishop Dwenger High School senior; Gregory A. Rondot, Bishop Luers High School junior, and Elizabeth Rutherford, New Haven High School senior, were three of five Indiana winners.

Students in grades 10-12 submitted a full-length paper of at least 40 pages on their research and an abstract. The papers were read by professional persons, with the students then presenting them using only audio-visual aids. The winners were selected on the basis of those presentations.

Miss Rutherford will present her paper at the national Humanities Symposium, sponsored by the U.S. Army, in late May at Mammoth College, N.J. Rondot and Lomont also will attend the symposium as alternates. Winners there will receive a trip to London.

Jane Tucker, a teacher at St. John the Baptist School, is sponsor for Rondot and Lomont. Keith Hunnings is sponsor for Miss Rutherford at New Haven High School.

Scott Rathgaber of New Haven High School and Greg Rondot of Bishop Luers High School were the top two award winners in Saturday's Northeastern Indiana Regional Science Fair at the Memorial Coliseum. Rathgaber, whose project was "Blood Pressure vs. the Hemolytic Effect of Solanine Poisoning," and Rondot, whose project was "Computer Analysis in Science and Industry," both won prizes for their exhibits on "Computer Analysis in Science and Industry."

The two entries were among 360 by students in grades 1-12 in Allen, Adams, Huntington, Kosciusko, Miami, Wabash, Wells and Whitley counties. Arthur Friedel, associate professor of chemistry, I.U.-Purdue Fort Wayne campus, was fair director.

A complete list of winners follows. Senior biology awards went to Mark Michaud, R. Nelson Snider; Jim Brown, Homestead; Julie Kyle, Lakeside Junior; Cathy Chapman, Blackhawk Christian; and Vicky Goss, Homestead.

Senior earth and space science awards: Frank Smietana, Paul Harding; Angela Conley, Homestead; and Laura Larkner, Bishop Dwenger.

Senior engineering awards: Ted Wilson, New Haven; Jeffrey Stumpf, New Haven; Michael Crisler, New Haven; and Ronald Johnson, Homestead.

Senior mathematics and computers awards: Gregory Rondot, Bishop Luers; and Leslie Beneck, Homestead.

Senior physics awards: Mary Carstens, Homestead; and Melinda Cocklin, Blackhawk Christian.

Junior botany awards: David Clark, Woodside Middle; Vicky Pratt, Lane; Aaron Bales, Hometown; Mimi Slogar, St. John; and Julie Gibson, Lancaster Central.

Junior chemistry awards: Matthew Szuha and Timothy Szuha, St. Vincent; Greg Paterson, Portage Middle; Ken Hoke, Perry Hill; David Hartman, St. Vincent; and Craig Arnold, South Whitley.

Junior earth sciences awards: Colleen Quinn, St. John the Baptist; Andy Galpern, St. Henry; Dale Bullion, Perry Hill; Denise Freeland, Perry Hill; and Thomas Adams, St. Jude.

Junior engineering awards: Joe Papiez, St. Henry; Todd Kallmyer, Lane Junior High; Tony Maricca, Woodside Middle; Terry Stephenson and Scott Taylor, Lancaster Central; and Dorsey Price, Southern Wells.

Junior mathematics awards: Robert Dant, St. Henry; Joe Lee, St. Henry; and Cynthia Thon, Jefferson Junior High.

Junior physics and astronomy awards: Bradley Wolfe, St. John the Baptist; Brett Graham, Woodside Middle; Phil Hunkler, St. Henry; John Ocken, St. Vincent de Paul; and Jeff Guthrie, Perry Hill.

Rathgaber, Rondot top science entries

Scott Rathgaber of New Haven High School and Gregory Rondot of Bishop Luers High School were the top award winners Saturday at the 24th annual Northeastern Indiana Regional Science Fair held at Memorial Coliseum.

Rathgaber, whose exhibit was entitled "Blood Pressure vs. the Hemolytic Effect of Solanine Poisoning," and Rondot, whose project was named "Computer Analysis in Science and Industry," will attend the International Science and Engineering Fair in San Antonio, Texas, next month.

Their projects were among 360 entries produced by students in grades one through twelve from Adams, Allen, Huntington, Kosciusko, Miami, Wabash, Wells and Whitley counties.

A complete list of winners follows.

Senior biology awards went to Mark Michaud, R. Nelson Snider; Jim Brown, Homestead; Julie Kyle, Lakeside Junior; Cathy Chapman, Blackhawk Christian; and Vicky Goss, Homestead.

Senior earth and space science awards: Frank Smietana, Paul Harding; Angela Conley, Homestead; and Laura Larkner, Bishop Dwyer.

Senior engineering awards: Ted Wilson, New Haven; Jeffrey Stumpf, New Haven; Michael Crisler, New Haven; and Ronald Johnson, Homestead.

Senior mathematics and computers awards: Gregory Rondot, Bishop Luers; and Leslie Bebeck, Homestead.

Senior physics awards: Mary Carstens, Homestead; and Melinda Cocklin, Blackhawk Christian.

Junior botany awards: David Clark, Woodside Middle; Vicky Pratt, Lane; Aaron Bales, Huntstown; Mimi Slogar, St. John; and Julie Gibson, Lancaster Central.

Junior chemistry awards: Matthew Szuha and Timothy Szuha, St. Vincent; Greg Peterson, Portage Middle; Ken Hoke, Perry Hill; David Hartman, St. Vincent; and Craig Arnold, South Whitley.

Junior earth sciences awards: Colleen Quinlin, St. John the Baptist; Andy Galpern, St. Henry; Dale Bullion, Perry Hill; Denise Freeland, Perry Hill; and Thomas Adams, St. Jude.

Junior engineering awards: Joe Papiez, St. Henry; Todd Kallmyer, Lane Junior High; Tony Maricca, Woodside Middle; Terry Stephenson and Scott Taylor, Lancaster Central; and Dorsey Price, Southern Wells.

Junior mathematics awards: Robert Dant, St. Henry; Joe Lee, St. Henry; and Cynthia Thon, Jefferson Junior High.

Junior physics and astronomy awards: Bradley Wolfe, St. John the Baptist; Brett Graham, Woodside Middle; Phil Hunkler, St. Henry; John Ocken, St. Vincent de Paul; and Jeff Guthrie, Perry Hill.

Scott Rathgaber

Greg Rondot

Woodside Middle; Merri Cooper and Gayle Good, Marshall Middle; Julie McClinton, St. Henry; Dawn Denney and Trish Hentz, Lancaster Central; and Sean Marquardt, St. Jude.

First grade elementary awards: Jenny Thompson, Mary Raber, Trudy Robinson, Indian Village Elementary; Mark Pepoy, St. Henry; Eric Hendricks, Arlington Elementary; and Billy Nangle, Arlington Elementary.

Second grade elementary awards: Julie Ruffolo, St. Charles; Ryan Hedges, Harrison Hill Elementary; Brian Robb, St. Vincent de Paul; Sean Yoder, Mary Raber; and Todd Garringer, Lancaster Central.

Third grade elementary awards: Darcy Robinson, Indian Village; Sara Ottenweller, St. Joe Hessen Cassel; Jeff Green, Harris Elementary; Christopher Hamilton, Perry Hill; and Benjamin Kern, Abote Elementary.

Fourth grade elementary awards: Tom Savage, Frances Slocum; Brian Schreck, St. Charles; Christopher Moses, Harrison Hill; Kathy Kennerk, St. Louis Besancon; and Cathy Bowles, Elmwood.

Fifth grade elementary: Marie Hamrick, Pleasant Center; Robert Widmann, Lincoln Elementary; Danny Muench, Harris Elementary; Tom Lorenc, St. Charles; and Leah Anne Pooler, Sunnymede Elementary.

Sixth grade elementary awards: Danette Fitzgerald, St. Henry; Jim Holloway, Brentwood; Jeff Porter, Southwood Elementary; Kerby Sink, Rockcreek Elementary; and Rob Durling, Huntstown Elementary.

Special award by Fort Wayne Engineers Club: Joe Papiez, St. Henry; Todd Kallmyer, Lane Jr. High; Tony Maricca, Woodside Middle; Terry Stephenson and Scott Taylor, Lancaster Central; and Dorsey Price, Southern Wells Junior High Senior High.

Special award by United States Air Force: Lisa Norris, Homestead; Mark Michaud, R. Nelson Snider; Greg Weikart, Homestead; Frank Smietana, Paul Harding; Mary Carstens, Blackhawk Christian; Gregory Rondot, Bishop Luers; and Michael Crisler, New Haven.

Special award by United States Air Force, overall winner certificate to Michael Crisler, New Haven High School.

Special award Indiana Aerospace Education Council to: Michael Crisler, New Haven High School; Phil Hunkler, St. Henry; and honorable mention to John Leto, St. Henry.

Special award by United States Navy: Jim Brown, Homestead, and Frank Smietana, Paul Harding.

Special award by Allen County Cancer Society: Danette Fitzgerald, St. Henry; Kathleen Weatherford, R. Nelson Snider; Sean Marquardt, St. Jude; Cindy Schneider, St. Charles; and Delane Bickel, St. Mary's.

Special award by American Cancer Society: first place senior and overall winner, Kathleen Weatherford, R. Nelson Snider; first place, junior division, Cindy Schneider, St. Charles; second place junior division, Danette Fitzgerald, St. Henry; and third place, junior division, Sean Marquardt, St. Jude.

Special award by American Meteorological certificates to Denise Freeland and Lisa Gongwer, Perry Hill, and Andy Galpern, St. Henry.

Special award by Dr. Hugh Gildewell, Northeastern Indiana Veterinary Medical Association to Mark Michaud, R. Nelson Snider, senior biology, $50 bond; and Julie McClinton, St. Henry, junior zoology, $25 bond.

Special award by Isaac Knapp District Dental Society, $25 bond to Jay Platt, R. Nelson Snider; and Cindy Kaufman, Glenwood Park Elementary.

Special award by Eastman Kodak, $25 in photo supplies for best use of photography in an exhibit: Frank Smietana, Paul Harding.

Special award by National Park Service Environmental Conservation, certificate for best environmental conservation to Jim Brown, Homestead.

Ken Honekamp of St. Charles won a special award from the U.S. Department of Energy for outstanding exhibit to energy.

Special awards were given to the following students by the American Lung Association of Northeast Indiana: elementary division, first, Danette Fitzgerald, St. Henry; third, Carla Bunting, Missy Sands, Delane Bickey and Cindy Nahm; junior division, first, Sean Marquardt, St. Jude; second, Cindy Schneider, St. Charles; third, Kelly Bauer, Queen of Angels; fourth, Rachel Gerber and Elaine Steffan, Lancaster Central; and senior division, first, Julie Kyle of Lakeside Jr. High.

Three students from New Haven received special awards from Anthony Wayne Chapter, Indiana Society of Professional Engineers in senior engineering division: Ted Brian Wilson, Jeffrey Stumpf and Michael Crisler.

Special awards by the Junior Engineering Technical Society were given to: Joe Papiez, St. Henry; Ted Brian Wilson, New Haven; and Tod Kallmyer, Lane Jr. High.

Wells County Medical Society presented special awards to Kerby Sink, Rock Creek elementary; Todd Garringer, Lancaster Central; Jack Eisaman and Greg Lobsiger, Lancaster Central; Kent Gillion, Lancaster Central and Matt Bradburn, Rock Creek Elementary.

In the junior division the Wells County Medical Society presented special awards to: Juli Bowman, Lancaster Central; Kent Arnold and David Fisher, Lancaster Central; Dawn Denney and Trish Hentz, Lancaster Central; Dorsey Price, Southern Wells; Terry Stephenson and Taylor Scott, Lancaster Central; and in the senior division, Cathy Langel, Southern Wells.

The United States Army gave special awards to Scott Rathgaber, New Haven; Gregory Rondot, Bishop Luers; Frank Smietana, Paul Harding; Mark Michaud, Snider; and Ted Brian Wilson, New Haven.

Scott Rathgaber of New Haven and Susan Peterson of Elmhurst won awards from the American Chemical Society Northeastern Indiana Section.

Mark Michaud, Snider; Julie Kyle, Lakeside Jr. High; and Jay Platt of Snider won awards from the American Society for Microbiology.

Awards from the Indiana Psychological Association were given to Janet Kanabie, New Haven; Kathleen Rondot, Bishop Luers; Debbie Trammel, Homestead; Kerry Rodhbaugh, Homestead; and Anne Flotsos, Lakeside Jr. High.

In the junior division the Psychological Association presented awards to Juli Bowman, Lancaster Central; Matthew Williams, Woodside Middle School; Tim Galpern, St. Henry; Sylvia Gordon and Bobbi Menary, Huntstown; and Teresa Fishbaugh and Deana Jackson, Lancaster Central.

Awards by Stockbridge Audubon Society were given to Angela Conley, senior, Homestead; Mark Hendricks and Chris Pederson, junior, St. Jude; Teresa Glover and Daphne Wolfgang, LaFontaine Elementary; and Renee Wolfrum, elementary, honorable mention, Southwood Elementary.

Awards in the Moscow Puzzles were given to Gregory Rondot, Bishop Luers, in the math division; Scott Rathgaber, New Haven, chemistry; Mary Carstens, Homestead, physics; Mark Michaud, Snider, biology.

Bradley Wolfe of St. John the Baptist School received an award for best exhibit in grades seventh and eighth.

Bishop Luers High School student Greg Rondot reported on his scientific research during the Junior Science and Humanities Symposium at Indiana State University Friday through Sunday. This is the third year Rondot has participated in the event.

George Liggett, son of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Liggett Sr., 7018 Waterfront Drive, and a graduate of Northrop High School, has been elected social vice-president of the St. Joseph College, Rensselaer, Student Association for the 1979-80 school year.

Northrop High School students whose names will be in the 1978-79 edition of "Who's Who in Music" are Brian Aikins, 6124 Ranger Trail; Dan Harth, 5410 Cranston Ave.; Sue Bloom, 5308 Seaforth Lane; Darrell Friar, 606 Marston Court; Jeanette Cooper, 5414 Stony Run Lane; Jeff Blackburn, 9511 Diebold Road; and Jamel Weatherspoon, 4424 Imperial Court.

Mark F. Hollman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl F. Hollman, 2806 Palisade Drive, was recently initiated into Pi Alpha Alpha, the national honor society of schools of public affairs and administration.

Susan R. Lamm, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rex A. Lamm, 4621 St. Joe Center Road, and Daren S. Donnell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harley J. Donnell, 10116 Arbor Trail, have been elected pledge trainer and treasurer, respectively, of Kappa Alpha Theta Sorority at Hanover College.

Bradley Boyd, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack H. Boyd, 10531 Uncas Trail, and a 1976 graduate of Homestead High School, is one of three juniors at DePauw University, Greencastle, to be elected to membership in the national scholastic society, Phi Beta Kappa.

The 1978-79 edition of "Who's Who in Music" will include the names of three Homestead High School students: Greg Otis, 2136 Cheri Court; Ted Beerman, 5411 Tomahawk Trail; and Kevin Trammel, 1430 Buckskin Drive.

In these days of the high technology 1970's, we as Americans find ourselves in a dilemma of conflicting priorities concerning energy usage and conservation. On one hand, we have a very high standard of living, due primarily to devices and a technology that is very dependent upon energy, while at the same time, we have a finite amount of usable energy. The group of people who are in a very favorable position to aid in conserving energy are GE manufacturing and design engineers.

Engineers can aid in energy conservation by working for the greatest energy efficiency in the new equipment that they design by implementing state of the art techniques in its design. This design efficiency can be aided by using recycled materials in large scale manufacturing and by designing production techniques for the least number of energy-expensive steps. These two items would result in a savings in energy and material costs in each piece produced. Also, these techniques can be applied to the manufacture of equipment on existing production lines, thus reducing the energy-cost component of the final equipment. Add-on assemblies,

Two Fort Wayne high school seniors have been selected as members of the 1979 honors group of the 38th annual Science Talent Search, sponsored by Westinghouse Electric Corp. and the Westinghouse Educational Foundation.

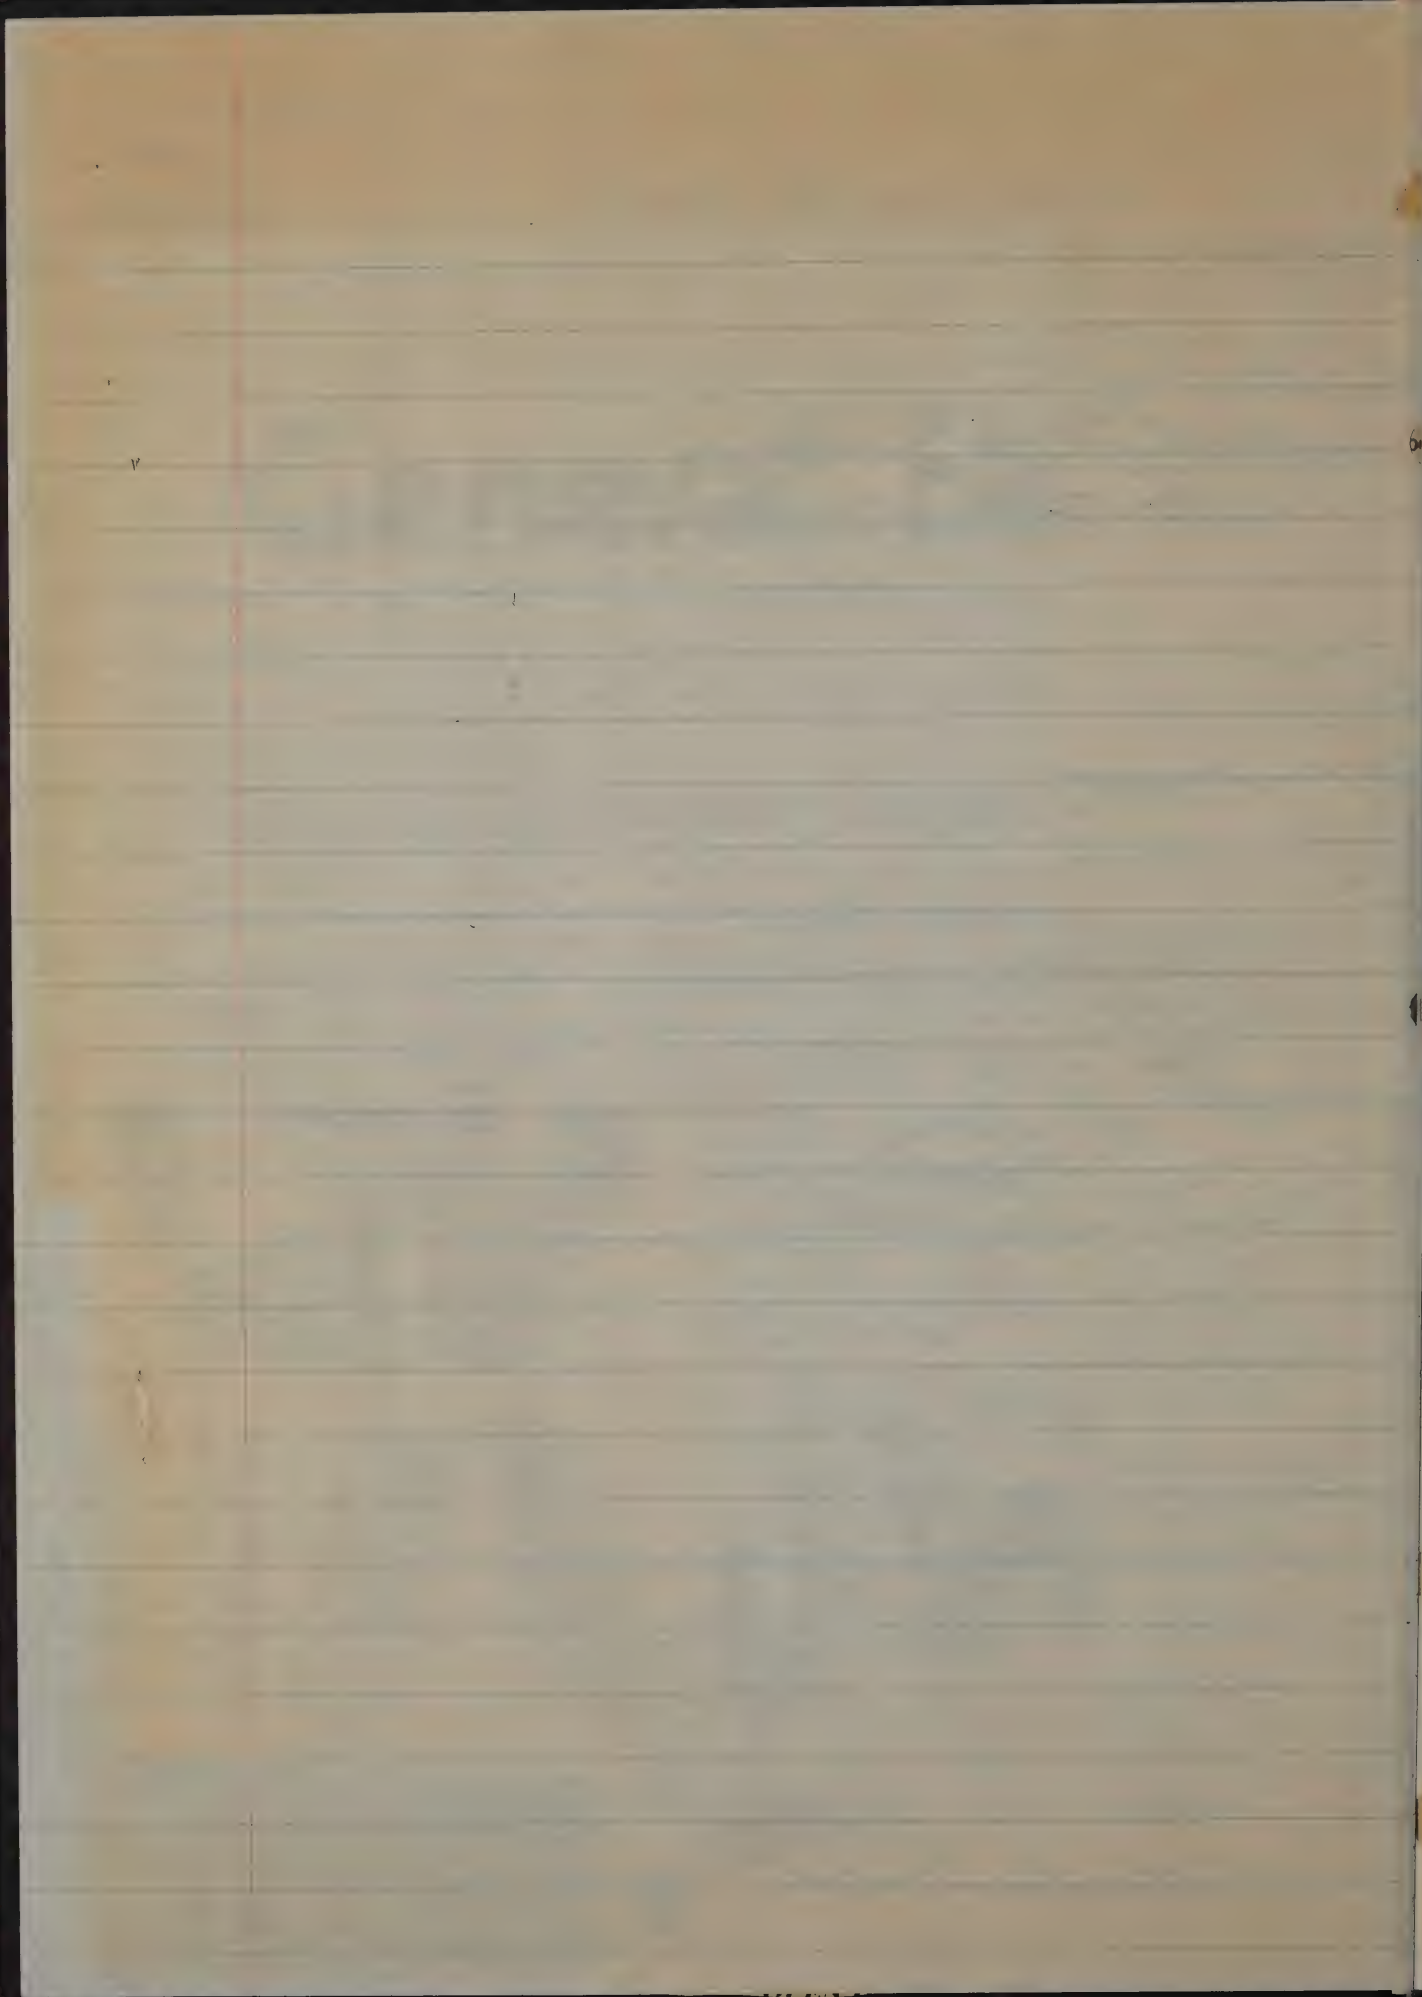

Named are Laura Marie Larkner, Bishop Dwenger High School, and Gregory Allen Rondot, Bishop Luers High School. Only eight other students in Indiana and 298 nationally received the award this year.

Rondot's research project, "Design, Construction and Operation of a Van de Graff Accelerator and Its Use in Research Into the Effects of Low Level Radiation on Transistors," is under way at, and being supported by the I.U.-Purdue Fort Wayne campus department of engineering. Jay Abramowitz, chairman of the department, is Rondot's adviser.

Dear Inquirer:

Your letter requesting genealogical research in The Burton Historical Collection of The Detroit Public Library has been received by The Detroit Society for Genealogical Research. The Burton Historical Collection is not staffed to do research and requests for such service are referred to this committee.

We will forward upon request our current list of researchers. All research will be done for a fee payable to the person who does the work and all arrangements should be made directly with the individual whom you may select. The DSGR cannot assume responsibility for searches made.

It would be materially to your advantage to supply your searcher with as much definite information as you can give, -names, dates, and places. A chart is often very helpful.

When requesting genealogical help it is customary to include a stamped and addressed return envelope.

Yours truly,

Dr. Harold F. Powell

Dear Mr. Rondot:

A search of our personnel files has failed to show a former police officer by the name of Harry E. Rondot.
We have made several inquiries with the same result.

We are sorry we are unable to help you in your research of your distant deceased relative.

Sincerely yours,

RONDOT-MILLER — Miss

Diane K. Miller became the wife of John H. Rondot during a recent ceremony in the St. Barbara's Catholic Church, Cloverdale, O. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Alfred J. Miller, Cloverdale, and Mr. and Mrs. William B. Rondot, 3714 Nokomis Rd. The bride wore a gown of voile and Venice lace. The veil was of silk illusion and fell to cathedral-length. She carried red roses and white daisies. Miss Marlene Miller was the maid of honor. The Misses Marie Clare and Karla Miller were the bridesmaids. They wore blue gowns of chiffon over taffeta. Each carried a long-stem red rose. William Rondot Jr. was the best man. Tom Rondot, Alan Miller and Ken Klingerman seated the guests. Following a reception at Scot's Inn the couple left for a wedding trip to Niagara Falls. Upon their return they will reside in Lima, O.

5 Honored For Aiding City Police

Five local residents have been chosen as the first recipients of the Fort Wayne Police Department Service Award with the initial presentations made yesterday by Director of Public Safety Thomas Casaburo and Chief of Police Albert Bragalone in the mayor's office.

The initial recipients were John Rondot, Kevin Rowe, Donald Barman, Miss Dorothy Morgan, and Mrs. Mary Love.

Rondot and Rowe were honored for aiding in the apprehension of a man who attempted to rob the Clark service station at 249 E. Rudisill on Jan. 9. During a struggle involving the robber and the two men, the suspect escaped but lost some personal items. These were later used by police to establish the identity of the robber and thus clear 12 other armed robberies, the citation statement explained.

Barman was cited for aiding police in apprehending a thief at a loan company on South Calhoun Street on Feb. 28. Barman was driving a taxi when he observed a wanted purse snatcher enter the building. It was explained he immediately notified his dispatcher who, in turn, contacted the police. The suspect was caught leaving the loan company with stolen articles in his possession, police said.

Miss Morgan was recognized for her alertness as an alarm monitor for a local security agency. On the evening of March 25, the citation stated, she heard the sound of breaking glass at a local construction firm. It was explained she notified police, who searched the building but found no one. As the officers were leaving, Miss Morgan heard the sound of a supply room door closing. More police were called to the scene and two juveniles were taken into custody, the citation statement said.

In presenting an award to Mrs. Love, it was recalled that on April 13, she observed a man wearing a nylon stocking as a mask take a lightbulb out of an outside socket at a neighbor's home. She guessed, the report said, he was about to commit a burglary and immediately phoned the police, who found the suspect hiding in the bushes nearby.

A CATHOLIC CEMETERY IS:

- ★ second only to the Church in its sacred nature; it is blessed and reserved for religious purposes only.
- ★ blessed and set apart forever for a very special purpose. It is truly God's Acre.

★ both a hallowed place of prayer and an eloquent reminder to pray for the faithful departed.

★ like a bridge between Heaven and Earth. It offers us graphic evidence that the ultimate goal of our earthly lives is to prepare ourselves to go home to God forever.

★ a resting place of the saints, just as surely as the catacombs were in the earliest centuries of the Church. Already in the next world, those buried there have left us something of themselves in this world, aside from their memory, their love and their prayers.

★ a link with our Christian ancestry, for it is as old as the Church while yet as new as today's burial.

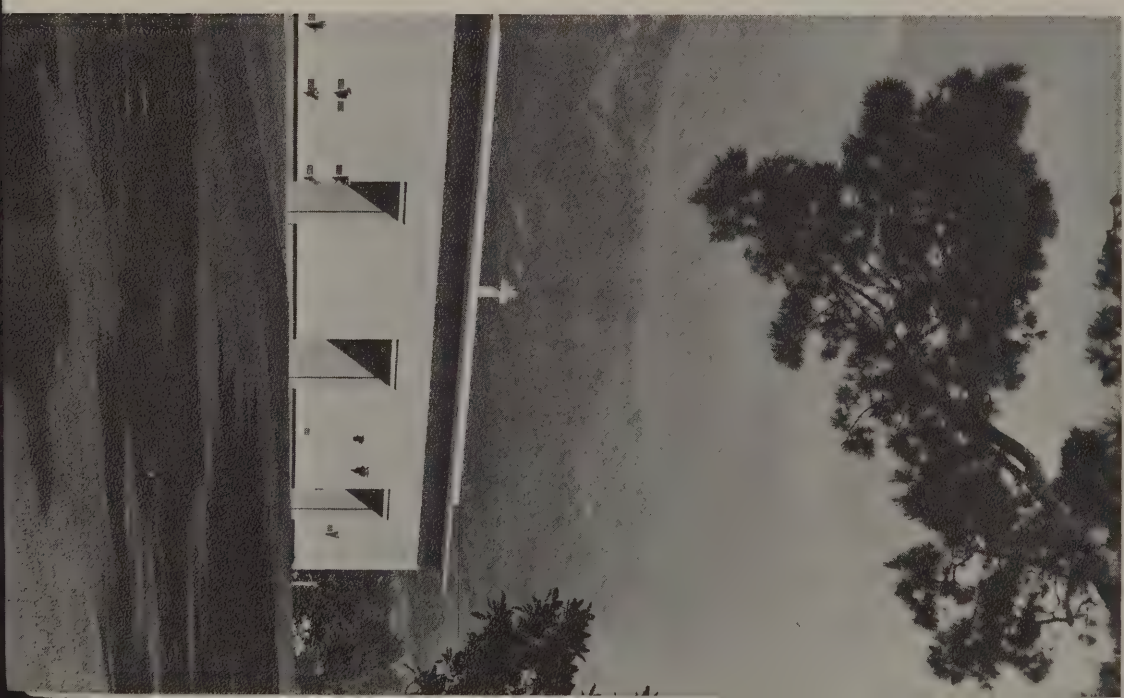

In summary, our Catholic cemeteries are first, last and always blessed sanctuaries wherein rest the faithful, awaiting the day of resurrection unto life eternal.

Catholic cemeteries ALONE provide full Catholic burial services, serving Catholics and their immediate non-Catholic relatives.

Those who desire may make all arrangements prior to time-of-need. Sealed burial vaults, granite and bronze memorials are available at all cemetery offices.

The staff of this cemetery stands ready at all times to assist with information and advice; financial details can be arranged to suit each individual family and need.

SAT 11-10-1956
Getty-Rondot

At noon today in St. Patrick's Catholic Church, Judith M. Rondot exchanged marriage vows with Robert R. Getty. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Rondot, 3524 S. Lafayette St., and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Robert T. Getty, 5321 Yorkshire Drive, and the late Dr. Getty. Jeanne Rondot was maid of honor and Mrs. Stephen Rondot, Mrs. Mark Rondot, Mrs. David Egts, Anne Getty, Barbara Getty and Kathleen Tullis were bridesmaids. Thomas Getty served as best man and Steve Rondot, Jim Rondot, Mark Rondot, Greg Mauch, Jim Getty and Dave Egts were groomsmen. The newlyweds are receiving wedding guests this evening at Ceruti's Valley Hills before departing for a honeymoon in Jamaica. They will reside in Indianapolis.

Rondot-Getty

Judith Marie Rondot, 3524 S. Lafayette St., and Robert R. Getty of Indianapolis are planning a noon Oct. 4 wedding at St. Patrick's Catholic Church. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. James C. Rondot, 3524 S. Lafayette St., and Mrs. Robert T. Getty, 5321 Yorkshire Drive, and the late Dr. Robert T. Getty.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Bishop Luers High School and received an associate degree in dental hygiene from Indiana-Purdue University, Fort Wayne. She is employed by Daniel P. Urban, DDS.

Her fiancé is a graduate of Bishop Luers High School. He received a bachelor of science in business from Indiana University. He is employed by Indiana Insurance Co. in Indianapolis.

Symposium to celebrate history, heritage of Miami Indians

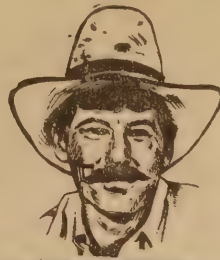

HUNTINGTON — It was in 1948, during this city's centennial, that Jean Bernard's father pointed out to her the home of Miami Indian Chief Jean Baptiste Richardville.

Richardville, one of the last major Miami chiefs, owned the first frame house in Huntington County and one of the largest in northern Indiana, according to the Huntington County Historical Society.

"I think Chief Richardville's spirit possessed me," she said Friday. And she would like to see more people "possessed" with an interest in the Miami heritage and history that flourished in the Midwest and around the Wabash River from the early 1700s to mid-1800s.

To commemorate this heritage, an Indian symposium is planned for May 26 at the Forks of the Wabash, site of the Miami Treaty Grounds. The symposium is co-sponsored by the Huntington County Junior Historical Society, of which Jean is project director, and the Indiana Miami Organizational Council Inc. Part of the money for the symposium came from a $2,500 matching grant from the Indiana Committee for the Humanities.

HAB

By Doug Haberland

The symposium is the first of its kind, Jean said, and "a long overdue tribute to the very special history we have in this area. The name of our state is Indiana — land of the Indians — and yet the state has done so little to recognize the contribution of Indians to our history."

At one time, the Miamis controlled all of what is Indiana and most of Ohio. A powerful tribe, the Miamis, withstood encroachment by the emerging United States until it was defeated by Gen. Anthony Wayne in 1794 at the Battle of Fallen Timbers near Toledo, Ohio.

Still, Jean has encountered people who did not realize Indians lived here.

For that reason, the symposium is

"for anyone interested in knowing more about one of the most fantastic Indian tribes that ever lived in what is now the United States."

A group of noted authorities will participate, tracing the tribe from its early years to the present. Speakers include Dr. Bert Anson, of Ball State University; Huntington historian Luke Scheer; and Chief Floyd Leonard of Miami, Okla. Sportscaster Chris Schenkel, a Bippus native and honorary tribal council member, will be the featured speaker at Saturday's banquet at LaFontaine Golf Club.

Jean said response to the symposium has been good and she expects many Miami descendants will attend.

Today, 2,000 to 3,000 Miami descendants live in Indiana, and 1,300 in Oklahoma, where the Miamis resettled in 1846. Indiana Miamis live mostly in Miami and Wabash counties, and a few in Huntington, Allen, Elkhart and Grant counties.

Preservation of the Chief Richardville house in May 1978 was the first step in returning the Forks of the Wabash to its historical significance. Since then, a log house has been moved to the site and a Miami wigwam is under construction.

Across U.S. 24, the Wabash River flows as it did when fur traders and Indians used it as the major thoroughfare from Fort Wayne's three rivers to the Ohio River. The adjacent treaty grounds were where the Miamis received payment for land acquired

Deadline for reservations to the symposium is April 27. Cost is $28 for all three sessions, including five meals, or $20 for Saturday only, including three meals. Lodging is not included. Checks should be made out to the Huntington County Junior Historical Society. Registrations should be sent to Indian Symposium, P.O. Box 292, Huntington, Ind. 46750. For additional information call (219) 356-1731 or 356-4218

Students, Teachers Restore Old Home With Loving Care

Jean Baptiste Richardville, who succeeded Chief Little Turtle as head of the Miami Indians, built this home at what is now the intersection of the Huntington By-pass and U.S. 24. The home, far left, is being restored by the Junior Historical Society of Huntington — mostly students and faculty at Huntington North High School. Working on the exterior are Jack Oberholtzer, left, industrial arts teacher, and James C. Taylor, German teacher. Below, is a portrait of the home's living room. Work is being completed on the two back bedrooms, or servants quarters, where Denise Davis, a recent graduate, paints window trim. The home will be open for tours during Heritage Days, June 17. (Staff Photos by Argil Shock)

HUNTINGTON — Every so often, while Jean Germand and Mary Margaret Kelsay are working, they hear footsteps and rattling noises. They think it might be a ghost, haunting the old home of Chief Richardville. They hope the taps and other noises are signs of approval for the work being done there.

Germand and Kelsay are faculty sponsors of the Junior Historical Society of Huntington County. They are home economics teachers with an interest in local history they try to instill in students at Huntington North High School.

The old home has been the group's project since March, 1977.

Germand always was fascinated by the home. She easily rattles off facts about it.

The home was built in 1831 when Chief Richardville, who succeeded his uncle, Chief Little Turtle, as head of the Miami Indians, moved the capital of the Miami nation from Fort Wayne to the forks of the Wabash River.

Major tribal affairs were conducted there, and several treaties were signed nearby.

When Richardville died in 1841, the chief's son-in-law, Francis LaFontaine, replaced him as chief. LaFontaine's descendants lived in the home until 1943, when it was occupied by a series of tenants. It stood empty for 15 years before the group began restoration.

"I used to pass and see the door open. I'd come in and look around. I love this house," Germand said. All the time, she was afraid the home might meet a fate similar to one nearby, which was destroyed by vandals.

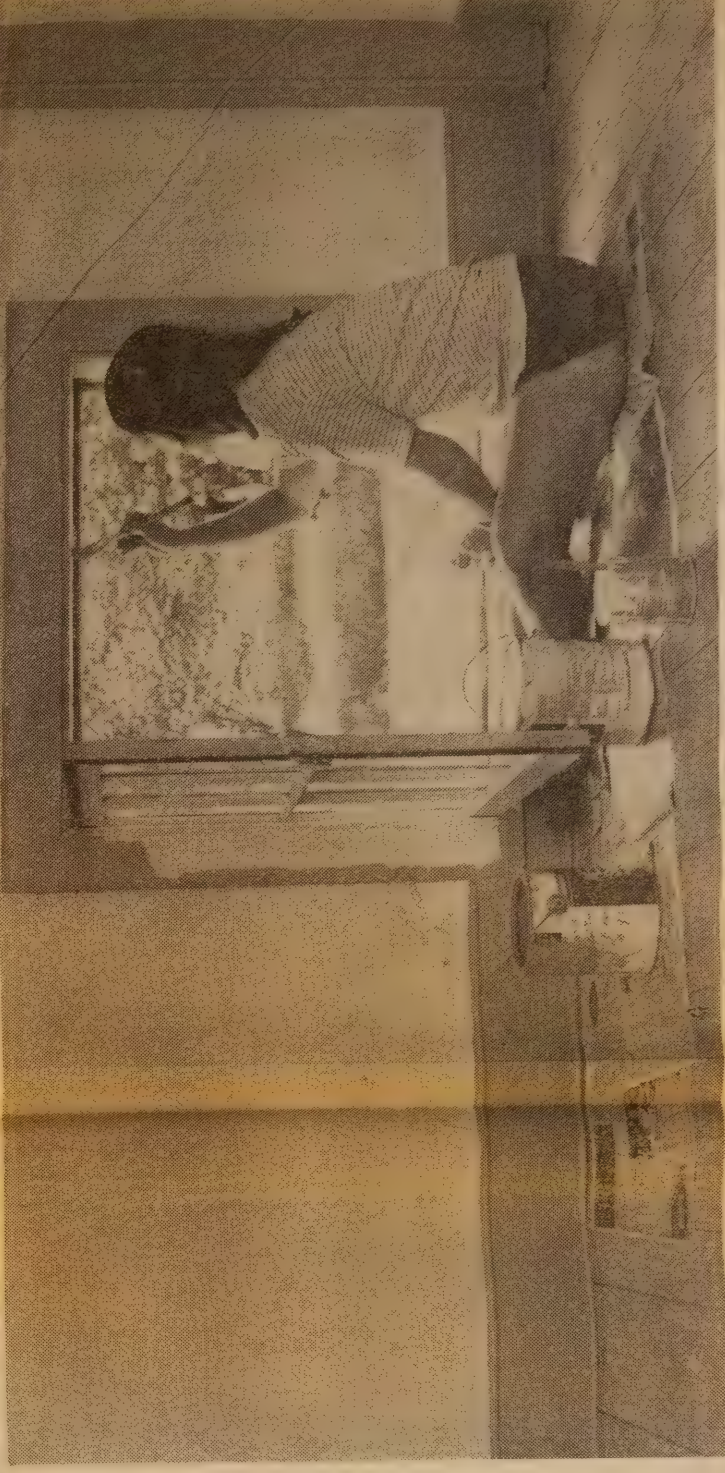

Teachers and students have taken obvious care with the home as they painted, wallpapered, refinished, patched and repaired it. They raised money for furnishings, and local historian and current owner of the home, Luke Scheer, has provided necessary work materials.

They estimate it will take another year to complete their work.

Recently, the group was cited by the National Trust for Historic Preservation for outstanding achievement in preservation.

"We'd like to see it become a national or state memorial someday," Germand said.

Until then, they will continue working at what she calls "a labor of love or insanity."

PAULDING—Hurricane lamps, lighted candelabra and floral arrangements of gladioli and daisies in the bridal party colors provided the setting for the marriage of Lisa Anne Hartzog and David Keith Rondot at 6:30 p.m. Saturday in the United Methodist Church here.

The Rev. Everett Ted Wonder read the vows uniting in marriage the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Doyle R. Hartzog, Route 3, Paulding, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Keith C. Rondot, Route 1, Cecil. Organist was Mrs. Karl Burch with Laurel Buehler, vocalist.

Mr. Hartzog gave his daughter in marriage. Her gown of white silk and re-embroidered Chantilly lace with all-lace high-rise bodice was detailed with seed pearls and scalloped lace neckline, long lantern sleeves and an A-line skirt and chapel train with lace-banded hemline flounce. A camelot headpiece of re-embroidered Chantilly lace, sprinkled with seed pearls mounted her French illusion veil and she carried a white Bible marked with phalaenopsis orchids and Stephanotis.

Mrs. Cheryl Schier attended her cousin as matron of honor wearing an A-line gown of peach voile with high neckline, long fitted sleeves and bodice in a flopped floral print matching the hemline ruffle. A matching picture hat and nosegay of peach daisies, yellow sweetheart roses and baby's breath, completed her attire.

Wearing identically styled dresses in yellow, lavender, mint green and sky blue, respectively, were Teresa Zigovits, as maid of honor; the bride's sister, Lori Hartzog, and her cousin, Robin McClure, along with Diana Roughton, as bridesmaids. Each carried a nosegay of daisies and baby's breath in corresponding color as her gown.

Carrying a basket of flowers in the same colors as the attendants' dresses was the bridegroom's niece, Michelle Thomas, dressed in peach. Ring bearer was the bride's cousin, Brian Davis, and serving as acolytes were Miss Heidi Dangler, Cecil, and Scott Schmunk, Defiance.

Best man was Thomas Duke III. Serving as groomsmen were Norman Thomas and Michael Cox, brothers-in-law of the bridegroom; Robert Woolen and the bride's cousin, Robert Schier.

A buffet dinner and reception for about 400 guests followed at the Holiday Inn, Defiance, with Red Hagerman's Band providing music for dancing. In charge of the guest book was Cheryl Wollum. Servers were Sue Utterback, Jan Roughton, Mary Sue Carr, Kim Lopes and Cheri Brown, with the bride's aunts, Mrs. Christine Winner and Mrs. Maxine Davis, cutting the cake.

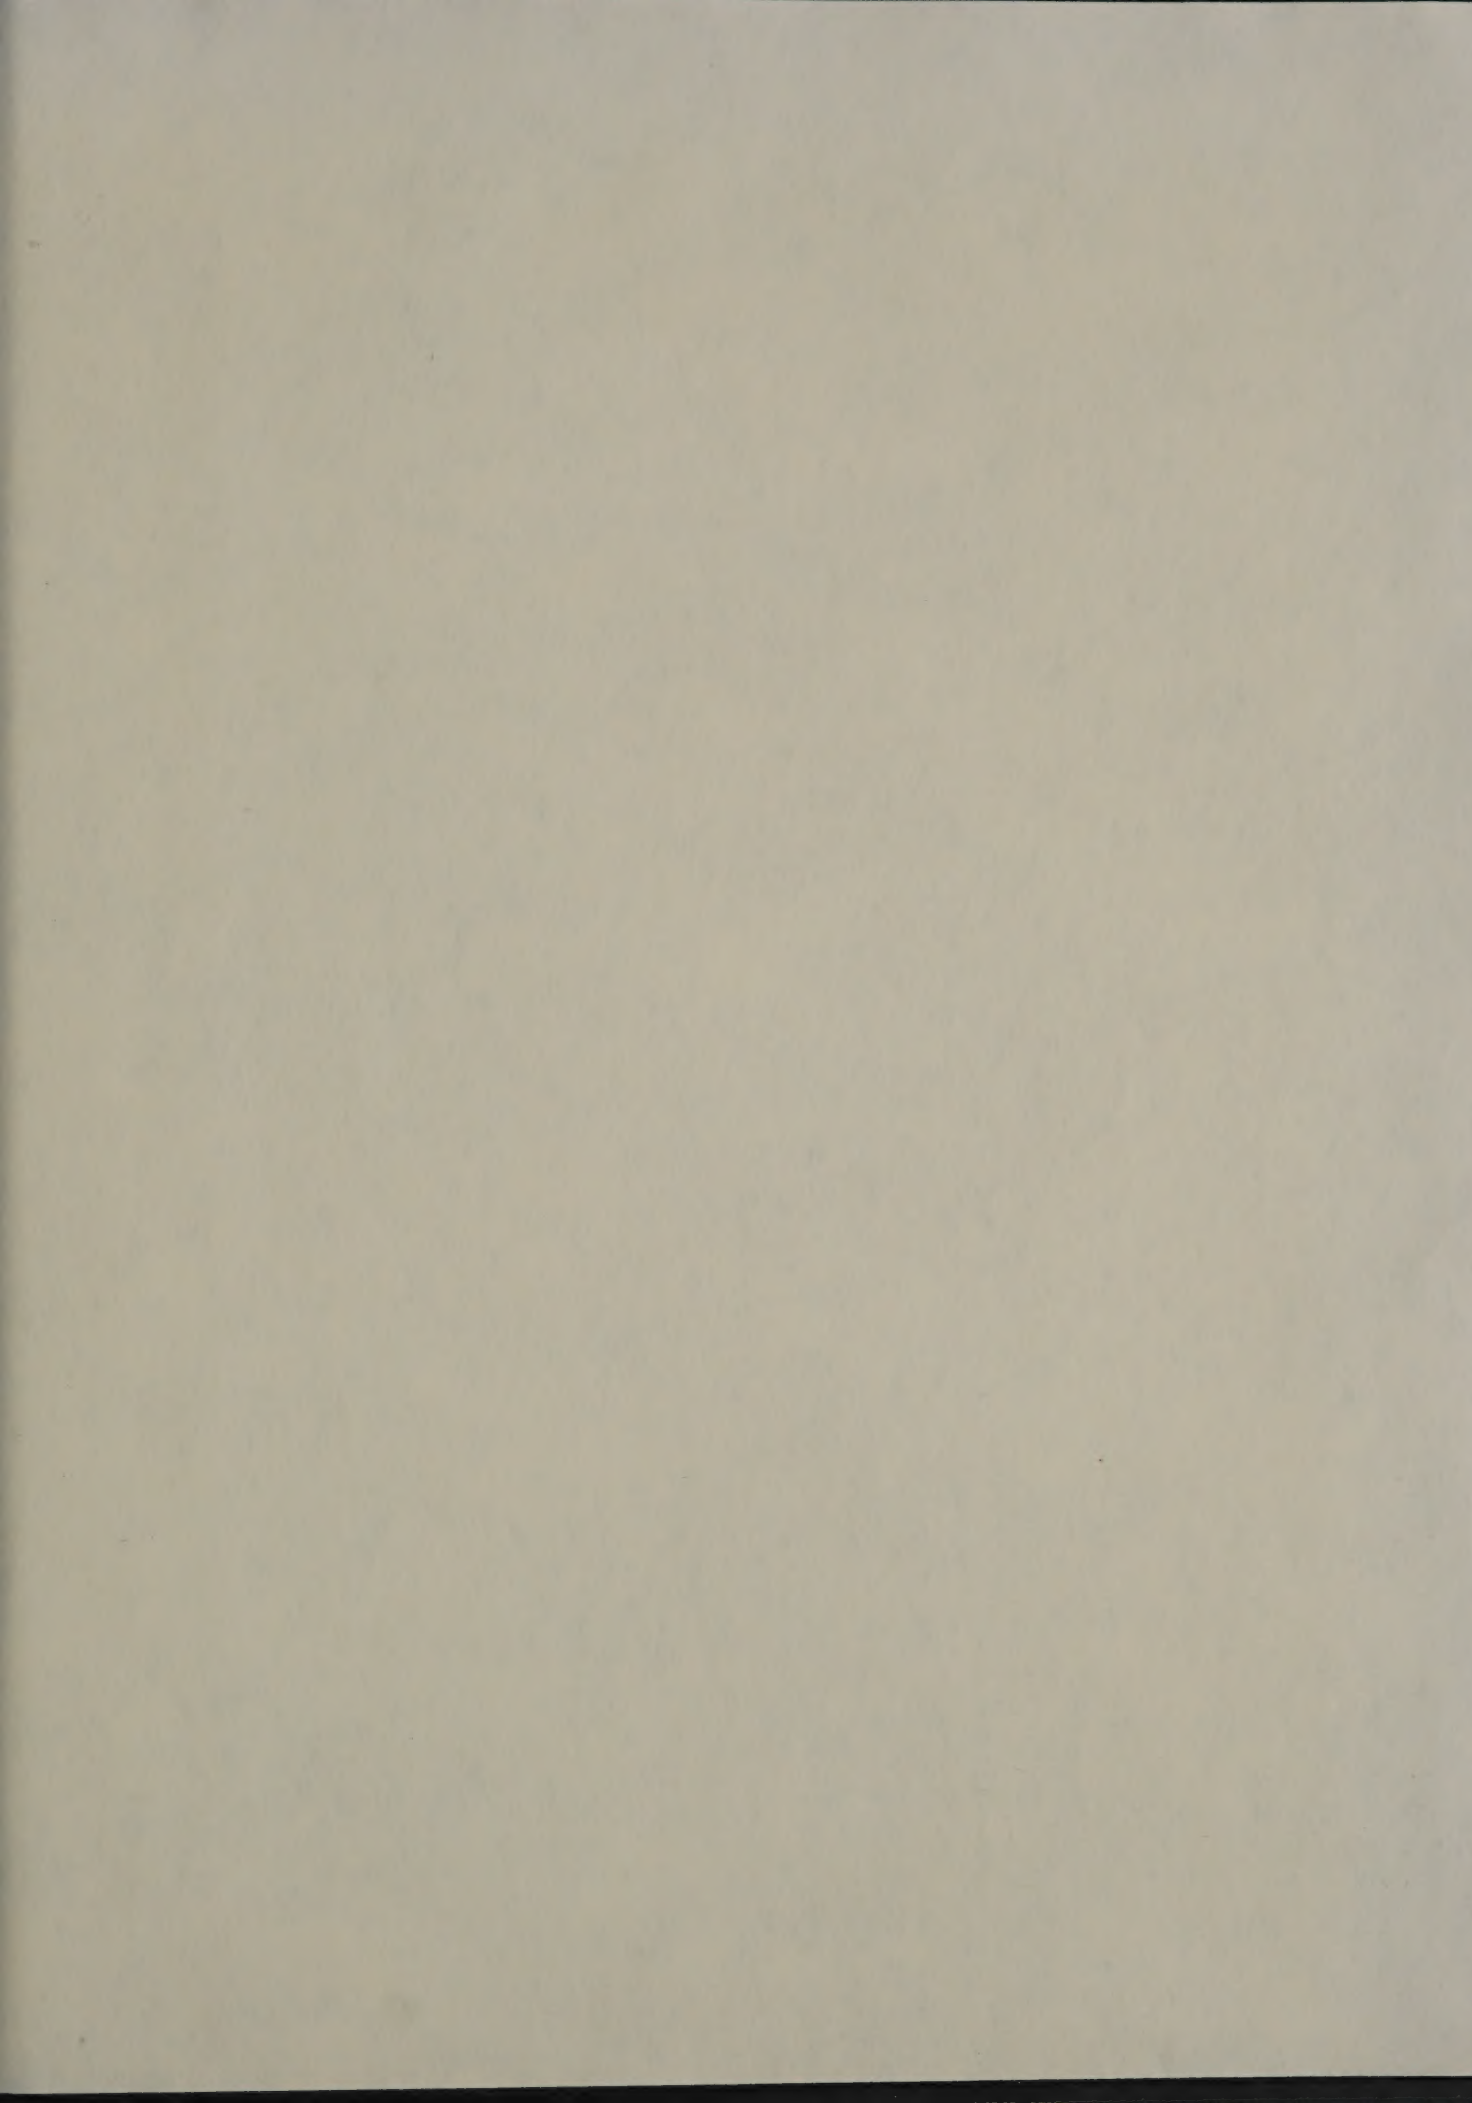

For their honeymoon departure to the Pocono Gardens, the bride wore a floral print halter dress. Upon the couple's return their address will be 705½ W. Harrison, Apt. 6, Paulding. The bride is attending Ohio State Beauty Academy, Lima, and her husband, who is currently employed at the Central Foundry Division of General Motors, Defiance, will attend Ohio State University this fall.
